RED CHINA OFFERS PLAN TO END KOREA WAR SIMILAR TO ONE IT ONCE REJECTED

EISENHOWER SAID TO BE PLANNING CUT IN SPENDING FOR FOREIGN AID

Taft and Martin Report Fund Will Definitely Be Less Than $7,500,000,000 Truman Budgeted.

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP) —President Eisenhower was reported by congressional leaders today to be planning a cut in foreign aid spending.

Senate Republican leader Taft of Ohio and House Speaker Martin (Rep.), Massachusetts, said there has been no determination yet of the amount of the cut, but that there definitely will be a reduction from the $7,500,000,000 proposed by the Truman administration for foreign aid in the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

Taft and Martin held a press conference immediately after their weekly meeting with Eisenhower.

Taft said Mutual Security Administrator Harold E. Stassen is having a study made to find out whether 10 billion dollars in foreign aid carry-over funds can be cut.

Stassen at Conference.

Stassen sat in with the congressional leaders at their conference with Eisenhower.

Congressional leaders said also that a "drastic cut" of overseas personnel in the Mutual Security Administration already is under way.

Taft said Stassen was unable to give the amount of foreign aid proposed for the fiscal year beginning July 1. Taft added, however, there was "no question of a cut" in the $7,500,000,000 item submitted by former President Truman.

Taft said Stassen already has ordered a "drastic cut" in personnel overseas. He listed as an example a 50 per cent slash in personnel of the Mutual Security Administration's Paris office.

Martin said Stassen expressed belief that he could make the agency much more efficient through such a reduction of personnel.

In reply to a question, Taft said Stassen was not ready yet to estimate how much the program can be reduced. Stassen expects to be in a better position to do so, Taft said, after the North Atlantic Treaty Organization conference beginning April 24.

Adjournment Target Date.

Other highlights from the President's weekly meeting with top House and Senate Republicans:

1. Taft said the leaders reported to the President they would "do everything possible" to reach Congressional adjournment by July 3 and certainly no later than Aug. 1, the date for adjournment called for in the reorganization law. Taft said at present a fall session of Congress did not appear likely.

2. The President will issue an executive order this week removing policy-making federal officials from civil service. Taft said the original order would have affected "several hundred" persons but a revised plan drafted by the new Civil Service Commission chairman, Philip Young, will cover a "somewhat larger" number of federal officials. Young sat in on the conference.

3. Taft and Martin reported that both houses will go ahead this week with tidelands legislation. In the Senate this will be followed by legislation to extend the defense production act, Hawaiian statehood, then the reciprocal trade act extension.

4. Taft said no final determination of policy, "if any," will be made on the St. Lawrence seaway and power projects until after completion of Senate hearings. Taft said the hearings would go ahead without recommendations from the White House.

Stassen, according to the leaders, reported on the findings of his evaluation teams just back from 12 foreign aid countries and then tackled the general questions of possible savings in the program.

U.S. URGED TO SEND SURPLUS FOODS TO ROK SOLDIERS

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP) —A proposal that the Government bolster sagging farm prices by shipping surplus foodstuffs to South Korean troops "fighting on a semi-starvation diet" was offered today by Representative Bow (Rep.), Ohio.

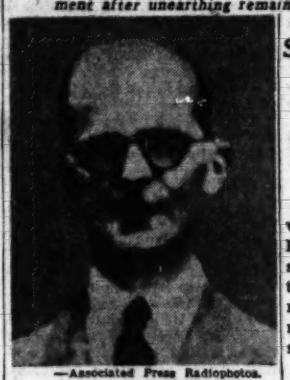

"It seems to me this is the most logical answer to the present problem of huge surpluses of butter, Swiss cheese and other dairy products," the Ohioan said in a statement.

Bow said United States soldiers in Korea get up to 4300 calories a day for non-combat duty and up to 5000 a day while in the battle lines. By contrast, Bow added, the South Korean combat soldier gets by on about 2300 calories daily. As many as 7000 ROKs have been hospitalized for malnutrition in a single week, the Ohioan said, adding that this government has a "billion-dollar hoard of foodstuffs."

Remains of London Strangler's Sixth Victim Found in Garden

Skull of Possible 7th Corpse Uncovered — Warning Issued on New Murders.

LONDON, March 30 (AP)—New warnings went out today to all of Britain's police that London's strangler may strike again. Investigators yesterday found the remains of a sixth woman and what may be the shattered skull of a seventh.

Scotland Yard experts ordered the nation-wide search for the killer redoubled. They also ordered a speedup in the dismantling of the dingy West London tenement house where the victims were found.

The remains of two bodies and possibly of a third were dug out of the tiny garden of the Notting Hill house during the weekend. Another was found under the floor boards of the ground floor apartment and three more, believed the killer's most recent victims, had been hidden in a papered-over alcove.

Police speculated that the murderer used the alcove to store the bodies until he could bury them. For that reason, they said, more corpses still may be around the house or in the garden.

Police are seeking for John Reginald Christie, 55-year-old trucking clerk who had rented the flat for 15 years. His wife was among the victims.

Scotland Yard authorized publication of Christie's picture on newspaper front pages throughout the country, an unusual step in Britain.

A coroner's inquest today heard a doctor's evidence that the four identified victims died of asphyxia—strangulation.

Inquest on the other victims awaits their identification.

Those positively identified by relatives are Hectorina McClennan, 27; Kathleen Maloney, 26; Rita Elizabeth Nelson, 24, and Mrs. Ethel Christie, 54.

Mrs. May Langridge, sister of Rita Nelson, testified at the inquest that her sister at the time of her death was expecting a baby in about three months. She worked in the Notting Hill area as a waitress.

The inquest later was adjourned "for further inquiries" until April 27.

DUTCH SANDBAG GAPS IN DIKES AS NEW STORM HITS

AMSTERDAM, March 30 (AP) —Hollanders — still recovering from the effects of February's death-dealing floods—sandbagged their dikes today as gale-force winds whipped sea water over the dikes.

All day yesterday inhabitants of coastal villages labored to strengthen the dikes—many of them still under repair.

In Bruinisse, on the Island of Schouwen-Duiveland—one of the worst hit spots in the February disaster—church bells alerted the the townspeople to the new peril. Four hundred men worked throughout the day, closing the gaps in the main dike with thousands of sandbags. Throughout the storm area dike guards were doubled.

The February floods, which ravaged Holland, Britain and Belgium, claimed more than 1300 lives in this country alone and did millions of dollars property damage.

PILOT OF B-26 IN KOREA BECOMES 'LOCOMOTIVE ACE'

SEOUL, March 30 (AP)—Lt. Douglas J. Beggerly of MacDill Air Force Base, Tampa, Fla., became a "locomotive ace" Saturday.

With four Communist locomotive destructions to his credit, Beggerly and his B-26 bomber crew were prowling Red rail lines near Sariwon in North Korea before dawn when they spotted a train moving southward.

They made four passes at the train adn shot up the locomotive and its string of 15 box cars. Fifth Air Force headquarters reported. They also were credited with knocking out a Red anti-aircraft gun which had opened up on them.

JAPANESE CROWN PRINCE SAILS FOR U.S., 500,000 SEE HIM OFF

YOKOHAMA, March 30 (UP)— Crown Prince Akihito sailed today from Japan for the United States and Britain, where he will represent his country at the coronation of Queen Elizabeth.

The 19-year-old heir to the Japanese throne left Yokohama aboard the American liner President Wilson. A half-million Japanese turned out to see him off.

It was the second time in history that a Japanese crown prince has left his native country. Emperor Hirohito, Akihito's father, visited western Eupore in 1951.

Inferior Diamonds Beautified By Gamma Ray Bombardment

PHILADELPHIA, March 30 (UP)—Four "atomic" diamonds went on display here yesterday and an expert said a $50 diamond engagement ring bought on the installment plan can be beautified and its value increase as much as 10-fold by bombardment with gamma rays from a cyclatron.

A spokesman for the American gem society shrugged and asked "why go to all the trouble? If you want a $500 diamond, why not buy a $500 diamond in the first place?"

Four gamma treated diamonds were on display as the society opened its eighteenth annual meeting with the public barred from the three-day sessions. The stones which started out in life as inferior cuttings of low gem quality evoked little professional interest despite their beauty treatment.

In the treatment, one company spanks the diamonds of "very inferior" quality with the gamma rays. The cheap stones pick up various shades of yellow and orange and glow like a diamond should glow. The new coloring is permanent.

STASSEN TELLS M'CARTHY HE IS UNDERMINING U.S. ON RED TRADE BAR

Assails Pact With Greek Shippers—Senator Replies He Achieved What 'You and Dulles Did Not.'

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP) —Harold E. Stassen told Senator McCarthy (Rep.), Wisconsin, to his face today that he is interfering with this nation's foreign policy and "undermining" the Government's efforts to halt shipments from the West to Iron Curtain countries.

McCarthy retorted that his staff has "accomplished what you and Dulles did not accomplish."

He said he and his subcommittee will go right on negotiating agreements for the removal of ships from Red trade.

At issue at the televised hearing of McCarthy's Senate investigations subcommittee was an agreement the subcommittee reached with Greek owners of 242 ships under which the shipowners promised not to trade with the North Koreans or Chinese Communists.

The State Department announced today that the Greek Government decided to order a halt to such shipments by Greek-flag ships on March 23. It said the order already has gone into effect.

First Open Clash.

In the first open clash between McCarthy and an Administration official, Mutual Security Director Stassen told the Senator angrily that he and his subcommittee "are in effect undermining and are harmful to our objective."

McCarthy snapped back: "I wouldn't take your word for it."

It was a reference to Stassen's statement that the agreements are in conflict with United States foreign policy. Stassen flushed deeply at McCarthy's rejoinder.

Stassen contended the agreement (a) would be difficult to enforce, (b) has "gaps" in it allowing the ships to carry war-useful goods from Western areas to Russia and its European satellites, and (c) interferes with over-all foreign policy for which the State Department is responsible.

Stassen told McCarthy "it is my sober judgment" that the "best way to bring the hostilities to a conclusion in Korea is to firmly and solidly back" President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles.

He said there must be "solid support" for the President on this "difficult and complicated problem."

McCarthy replied he agreed that everyone should "back up the President" but said he had been "shocked" by "your inference" that because "we accomplished something the State Department hadn't accomplished, it is bad."

McCarthy told Stassen angrily: "I frankly feel that we are helping you."

Stassen Aid Sworn.

When Stassen's chief deputy, Kenneth Hanson took the witness chair, McCarthy directed that he be put under oath. This is an unusual practice in the case of Government officials. It puts a witness in jeopardy of prosecution on perjury charges if he does not tell the truth.

The order putting Hanson under oath followed a statement by Francis Flanagan, general counsel for the subcommittee. Flanagan said Hanson had told him earlier the agreement negotiated by McCarthy's subcommittee would cut shippings to Red China by 35 per cent.

Hanson denied he had made such an estimate to Flanagan. He said he could not make an estimate.

PREACHERS NABBED IN STRIP-TEASE RAID JUST SURVEYING SIN

CHICAGO, March 30 (UP)—Police said today that two clergymen were among the patrons of a strip-tease bar raided early Sunday.

Police Capt. John Warren said the ministers, whose names he did not reveal, said they were from Gary, Ind., and told him they were observing Chicago's sinful night life.

The preachers, and about 30 other customers, were released, but Warren's officers arrested the owner of the burlesque bar, the Liberty Inn, the manager, two bartenders, and five B girls, or hostesses.

Warren said that as the raiders entered a strip-teaser cut short her act and was followed by an entertainer "who wore more clothes than I did."

BRITAIN RECALLS ITS AMBASSADOR TO RUSSIA FOR IMMEDIATE TALKS

Envoy Gascoigne Reported Summoned to London for Consultation on Moscow's New 'Peace Offensive.'

MOSCOW, March 30 (AP) — The British Foreign Office today recalled Ambassador Sir Alvary Gascoigne for what is described as urgent consultation.

The envoy is leaving here tomorrow morning, not even remaining for the Queen Mary memorial services he had planned at the Embassy for noon tomorrow.

The recall of Gascoigne was a complete reversal of previous instructions.

The ambassador first planned to take a leave early in March. Then came Stalin's illness and death and it was postponed.

He next expected to leave Moscow just after Easter, but before the weekend, the Foreign Office told him to remain here.

For an unannounced reason the Foreign Office today ordered him immediately to London. He will not wait for a British plane to be sent for him but will travel on the regular Soviet air liner as far as Berlin.

An Embassy spokesman said the ambassador planned to return to his Moscow post "in just a few days." This indicated that the Foreign Office wants him in Moscow these days.

(Informed sources in London said the Ambassador was summoned home to report on Russia's new "peace offensive.")

British to Meet Reds Tomorrow On Air Incidents.

BERLIN, March 30 (AP)—The British announced today that they will meet with the Russians in East Germany tomorrow night to discuss ways of preventing such air incidents as the recent shooting down of a British bomber by Soviet fighters over Germany.

The announcement said the conference will be held at the headquarters of the Soviet Control Commission at Karlshorst.

Indicating that further talks may follow, the British added that "the location of the next meeting may be in the British sector of Berlin."

Informed sources said the chief British representative would be Air Marshal Sir Robert Foster, commander of the Second Tactical Air Force in Germany.

Top Officials May Take Part.

It is believed the Russians will be represented by top officials of the aviation department of the Soviet Control Commission.

The meeting was proposed by the Soviet commander-in-chief in Germany, Gen. Vassily I. Chuikov, in rejecting a British protest that the shooting March 13 was "an unwarranted and brutal act of aggression." Seven British crewmen died in the R.A.F. Lincoln bomber, which Soviet MIG-15 fighters blasted from the sky over a Berlin-West Germany air corridor across the Soviet zone of Germany.

The Foreign Office said only British and Russian representatives will take part in tomorrow's conference. It added, however, that the British Government will keep in close touch with the United States and French Governments.

Soviet fighters shot down a United States Thunderjet fighter two days before the bomber incident, but the pilot bailed out and escaped injury.

Sabre Jets Due Tomorrow.

At Landstuhl, Germany, today the United States Air Force was preparing to welcome 25 Sabre jets due to arrive tomorrow for patrol duty along the Iron Curtain.

The mass flight of the jets across the Atlantic from the United States is the first step toward rearming the entire American Air Force in Germany with the Swift F-86s to replace the slower, outmoded F-84 Thunderjets.

A detachment of Sabres already is patroling the skies along West Germany's border with Communist Czechoslovakia. These Sabres, their number still an official secret, were shifted to Germany from Britain for "temporary duty" after the downing of the Thunderjet.

PANES REPLACED AFTER BLAST ON TRAIN BLOWN OUT AGAIN

LEWIS, Ind., March 30 (UP)— The home of the A. Richey family was left windowless by Saturday night's ammunition train explosion.

Richey bought new glass and spent all day Sunday replacing panes. He was the first home owner to repair damage.

Then demolition crews exploded 20 rounds of ammunition Sunday night, some of the hundreds of live shells scattered in the area. All Richey's new windowpanes were shattered.

OVERLAPPING TAX POWERS MUST END, SAYS EISENHOWER

Message to Congress Calls for Creation of Special Commission to Study Problems.

WASHINGTON, March 30 (UP) —President Eisenhower told Congress today overlapping federal-state taxation powers must be cleared up so the people will not be forced "to pay taxes on taxes."

He said this is "a major national problem."

In a message to the Senate and House, he asked for creation of a special commission on governmental functions and fiscal resources.

Eisenhower said the commission would study federal grants-in-aid to states, overlapping taxation and associated problems involving welfare programs.

"Lines of authority must be clean and clear, the right areas of action for federal and state government plainly defined," Eisenhower said. "This is imperative for the efficient administration of governmental programs in the fields of health, education, social security and other grant-in-aid areas."

The President said the Federal Government during the last 20 years has entered fields which had been primarily reserved for state and local governments. The result has been a blurring of responsibilities of local government, he said.

"It has led to duplication and waste," he said. "It is time to relieve the people of the need to pay taxes on taxes."

The President said there now are more than 30 programs involving federal grants-in-aid to the states, and that these cost the Federal Government more than two billion dollars a year and make up approximately one-fifth of state revenues.

The commission he proposed would be made up of Government and public members, backed by "an excellent staff."

GUATEMALA ARMY ON ALERT AFTER 18-HOUR UPRISING

GUATEMALA CITY, March 30 (AP)—The Army has declared a nation-wide military alert following the crushing last night of an 18-hour uprising led by undergraduate army officers in Lower Verapaz province.

Army Chief Col. Carlos Enrique Diaz said about 300 rebels destroyed bridges around Salama, threw up barricades on the outskirts of the town and then attacked the plaza. They seized the province governor, Col. Abundio Maldonado, his son, a congressman, and other authorities.

Army troops retook the center of the city after a brief clash in which two persons were reported killed and several wounded.

Col. Diaz said last night that troops throughout Guatemala have been placed on the alert. The rest of the country, he said, is peaceful.

LT. GOV. NELSEN, MINNESOTA, NOMINATED TO HEAD REA

He Would Succeed Claude Wickard Who Resigned at Request of Administration.

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP) —President Eisenhower today nominated Lt. Gov. Ancher Nelsen of Minnesota to be chief of the Rural Electrification Administration.

Nelsen succeeds Claude Wickard, a Truman appointee who recently resigned by request of the Eisenhower Administration.

The White House announcement of the nomination of Nelsen came while he was at the White House conferring with the President.

AIR RAID SCARE CAUSES BLACKOUT OF FORMOSA

TAIPEH, Formosa, March 30 (UP)—An air raid scare caused a 40-minute blackout of Formosa tonight.

Alarm sirens were sounded and lights extinguished at 9:40 p.m. (6 a.m. St. Louis time) when air defense officers received reports of unidentified planes over the Formosa strait.

The all-clear came 40 minutes later. It was announced several planes were sighted over the strait but turned away before reaching the Formosa coast. Two of four previous alarms turned out to be realistic drills.

MOSLEM TERRORISTS KILL 26 IN RAID ON INDONESIAN TOWN

JAKARTA, March 30 (AP)— Fanatical Moslem terrorists killed 26 persons and wounded 16 others in a raid yesterday on the small mountain town of Tjiparaj, 10 miles southeast of Bandoeng in western Java.

Adherents of Darul Islam, the terrorist group, swept into the town shortly after midnight. For an hour and a half they killed and looted, then retreated with their haul despite efforts of soldiers and police units to cut them off. Two villages near Tjiparaj were also looted.

ALL P.O.W.S WHO CHOOSE WOULD GO HOME, OTHERS TO NEUTRAL STATE

Premier Chou Broadcasts Proposal Like Those of India and U.N.'s Adm. Joy—Allies Are Cautious but Hopeful.

TOKYO, March 30 (AP)—Premier Chou En-lai of Communist China offered tonight a plan to end the war in Korea similar to the Indian proposal before the United Nations which Chou once coldly rejected.

It also resembled a plan advanced by Allied negotiators at Panmunjom last year.

The Peiping radio broadcast a statement by the Red premier—the second apparently conciliatory move by the Reds in four days—which proposed:

1. Let all prisoners of war go home who choose to return.

2. Turn over to a "neutral state"—Chou did not name the state—all prisoners who refuse to go home.

3 The neutral state would allow representatives of each side to explain to the prisoners what their decision would mean.

Like their agreement last week to exchange sick and wounded prisoners, this indicated a more conciliatory attitude. But Chou raised doubts as to whether the Communists ever would accept voluntary repatriation of prisoners, the only issue blocking an armistice.

"It must be pointed out that in advancing this proposal we by no means relinquish the principle of release and repatriation of war prisoners without delay after the cessation of hostilities . . .," Chou said.

"Nor do we acknowledge the assertion of the United Nations command that there are among the prisoners of war individuals who allegedly refuse repatriation."

Chou, who recently returned from Moscow, said he was advancing his proposal "only because the termination of the bloody war in Korea and the peaceful settlement of the Korean question is bound up with the question of peace and security of the people of the Far East and the world."

No Formal Offer as Yet.

At Far East Command headquarters, it was said that no formal communication had been received from Chou as far as known. Most officials there adopted a cautious attitude.

Actually, Chou's plan is almost the same as that proposed to the Reds months ago by V. Adm. C. Turner Joy, then chief of the U.N. command negotiating team.

It also is similar to the plan advanced by India, accepted by a majority vote of the United Nations but rejected by Red China, North Korea and Moscow.

About 51,000 to 132,000 North Korean and Chinese prisoners vow they will resist to the death any return to Red rule.

On this question Chou said that "after the cessation of hostilities, those captured personnel of our side who, under the intimidation and oppression of the opposite side, are filled with apprehension and are afraid to return home, be handed over to a neutral state and that explanations be given them by parties concerned, this insuring that the question of their repatriation will be justly settled. . . ."

The United Nations walked away from Panmunjom last fall after telling the Reds to accept the principle of giving prisoners their choice of returning home—or come up with an acceptable solution.

Favor Immediate Start.

Chou's statement was in the form of a reply to Gen. Mark W. Clark's letter of Feb. 22 proposing an exchange of sick and injured prisoners.

Chou said Red China and North Korea wanted negotiations on this matter begun "immediately" and that armistice negotiators "should proceed to seek an overall settlement" of the prisoner question.

It remained to be seen whether the Communist plan offered enough in the way of new proposals to get the stalled armistice negotiations in motion once more.

(In New York, United Nations delegates received Chou's statement with guarded optimism. A British delegation statement called Chou's offer "most encouraging," and similar statements came from New Zealand and Australia. An American source, however, said the report should be taken with "healthy skepticism."

(In Washington, State Department Press Officer Michael J. McDermott said Gen. Clark is "going to carry the ball on the exchange of sick and wounded prisoners." McDermott declined

STOCK MARKET BREAKS, PAPER LOSS 2 BILLIONS

Shares Down as Much as $5 on Heels of Korea Prisoner of War Exchange Proposals.

NEW YORK, March 30 (AP)— An estimated two billion dollars was wiped out of the quoted value of listed securities on the New York Stock Exchange today in a break on the heels of Korean prisoner of war exchange proposals.

The break sent prices down $4 and $5 a share at the worst with losses from a few cents to around $3 a share frequent. Hardest hit were aircrafts, steels, motors, and railroads together with stocks of companies heavily engaged in defense work.

The selling was based on the fear of uncertainty of the impact on the American economy of any possible change in the present Korean conflict.

Commodity markets both here and abroad joined in the slide. The over-all loss was one of the greatest of the last two years. Volume stepped up to an estimated 2,700,000 shares, an extremely heavy day.

Grain futures sold sharply lower on the Chicago Board of Trade as heavy selling over-ran the market.

COLD-WAR PACT— HOUSEWIVES AGREE NEVER TO SPEAK AGAIN

SHEFFIELD, England, March 30 (AP)—Two English housewives solemnly and formally agreed in court here today never to speak to each other again. They also agreed never to speak to each other's children and withdrew assault complaints against each other.

The two—Mrs. Lily Cutts and Mrs. Emily Dutton—had been quarreling over the back fence.

WHY KOREA HILLS ARE 'VEGAS, 'RENO': 'A GAMBLE TO STAY'

SEOUL, March 30 (AP)—Some folks in Nevada wanted to know how Reno, Vegas (Las Vegas) and Carson (City) Hills on the Korean front came by their names.

Today from that bloody sector where hundreds have died and more are dying for some battle-scarred real estate, came the Marine explanation:

"It's a gamble to stay out there."

Martial Law in South Iran.

TEHRAN, March 30 (AP)—Martial law was proclaimed today in the Bakhtiari tribal areas of southern Iran, where an insurrection led by Abolghassem Bakhtiar has been under way for nearly two months.

Murder Suspect's Collie Balks At Helping Posse Track Master

WHEATLAND, Wyo., March 30 (AP)—A murder suspect's black collie was more interested in hunting rabbits than sniffing out his hunted master, so a sheriff's posse replaced him today with a greyhound.

The collie was used yesterday in a vain attempt to find Clay (Tricky) Riggles, trick roper and crack marksman, wanted for the alleged jealousy killing of a middle-aged couple here Saturday night.

Sheriff W. I. Sutherland had hoped the dog would lead the posse to his master, but the weary sheriff called off the search last night because the dog "only wanted to hunt rabbits."

Sutherland ordered a greyhound from Laramie, Wyo., for today's search, leaving the collie at home.

Witnesses told authorities that Riggles entered a Wheatland poolroom and shot Mrs. Frances Williamson, 45-year-old widow, and her 59-year-old escort, Walt Akerblade, as they sat at a lunch counter.

The killer fled in his automobile after the shooting. The car was found wrecked yesterday on the John Phifer ranch four miles northeast of here.

Authorities said the killing might have been prompted by jealousy. Riggles once had squired the widow.

27 MAYORS URGE REVENUES FROM OFFSHORE OIL BE GIVEN TO SCHOOLS

Darst Is Among Signers of Petition to Congress as House Starts Its Debate on Quitclaim Bill.

By EDWARD A. HARRIS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 30—As the House started debate on the vital offshore oil issue today, the mayors of 27 cities, including St. Louis's Mayor Joseph M. Darst, petitioned Congress to earmark revenue from such lands for the nation's schools.

Timed with the opening of floor debate on a quitclaim bill that would renounce Federal ownership of the much disputed submerged lands, the mayors joined in a "statement on offshore oil" sent to every member of the House and Senate.

They urged defeat of the quitclaim legislation and enactment of the Anderson bill, pending in the Senate, for retention of Federal control and adoption of the "oil for education" amendment being sponsored by Senator Hill (Dem.), Alabama. The amendment also is supported by Senator Anderson (Dem.), New Mexico.

Court Rulings Cited.

The mayors pointed out that the Supreme Court on several occasions has ruled that oil in the submerged coastal lands belong to the United States, rather than the coastal states.

They declared that the civilian and defense needs of the nation require prompt exploration and development of such offshore resources, while "at the same time, national demands require intelligent use and conservation" of these resources.

Pointing out that the education of "more than four million children is being impaired by inadequate buildings" and undertrained teachers, due in part to lack of sufficient tax funds, the statement said revenue from the offshore oil should be used for grants-in-aid to the 48 states for education.

'Enact Anderson Bill.'

"The Congress," it said, "should enact the Anderson bill, with the oil for education amendment, and thereby provide that the offshore oil resources of the nation will be developed in the interest of all the people, and that the Federal revenues gained therefrom would be used to help meet the urgent need of the several states for aid to schools."

This was the first concerted action of any group of municipal or state officials in opposition to the hotly contested quitclaim bills. Heretofore, the unity has been on the other side, with the National Association of Attorneys General fused in an almost solid front for passage of the state-control bills.

In recent weeks, Senator Green (Dem.), Rhode Island, has been denting that front. At his suggestion, the Rhode Island House of Representatives directed the state's Attorney General to study the whole "tidelands" issue, and to take any action necessary to protect the state's share of the offshore oil.

Signers of Statement.

The mayors signing today's statement, in addition to Mayor Darst, were:

Steven Bailey of Middletown, Conn.; George E. Brunner of Camden, N.J.; John J. Buckley, Lawrence, Mass.; Thomas Burke, Cleveland; Lester H. Burnham, Nashua, N.H.; William J. Cahill Jr., Meriden, Conn.; William C. Celantano, New Haven, Conn.; Alex M. Clark, Indianapolis, Ind.; Joseph S. Clark Jr., Philadelphia; Thomas J. Corcoran, Syracuse, N.Y.; Ralph W. Crego, Lansing, Mich.; Brighten C. Diefenderfer, Allentown, Pa.; W. A. Gayle, Montgomery, Ala.; Boyd E. Golder, Utica, N.Y.; N. Karchmer, Springfield, Mo.; Donald W. Kramer, Binghamton, N.Y.; David Lawrence, Pittsburgh; Peter Mandich, Gary, Ind.; Jasper McLevy, Bridgeport, Conn.; P. R. Olgiati, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Walter H. Reynolds, Providence, R.I.; L. A. Touchae, Waterloo, Ia.; Joseph P. Vaccarella, Mount Vernon, N.Y.; Albert J. Zak, Hamtramck, Mich., and Frank Zeidler, Milwaukee, Wis.

Warning By Celler.

A stern warning that the Supreme Court will "overrule" the Congress on constitutional grounds, if the quitclaim bill is passed, was made by Representative Celler (Dem.), New York, ranking minority member of the House Judiciary Committee.

He predicted the new effort of Congress to "erase" the ruling of the high tribunal in favor of the Federal Government will be "purely abortive," because of the constitutional issue involved in any attempt to "give away" the submerged lands.

Representative Celler also poked fun at the Eisenhower Administration for getting its signals crossed in public utterances on the marginal sea issue. He declared that three different spokesman for the Admnistration had got "fouled up"—an apparent reference to Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr., Interior Secretary Douglas McKay, and a spokesman for the State Department. In appearances before House and Senate committees, as witnesses, they had presented varying views on the issue.

"Then," continued Celler "a very astute lawyer realized there had been some very improvement campaign promises." This was an aparent reference to Brownell, as the lawyer, and to President Eisenhower's campaign pledge to sogn a quitclaim bill

Illinoisan Urges Passage.

Representative Reed (Rep.), Illinois, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, which reported favorably the pending bill, urged its passage as a "proper and equitable" solution ot the issue. He said also that a "sense of honesty and justice" makes it desirable to approve the measure, because for 150 years it was the considered opinion of the "best legal minds" in the country that the submerged lands belonged to the states.

"The development of our submerged lands will be of tremendous assistance in solving our oil shortage," Reed declared. "Since the Supreme Court held in three rulings that the lands belong to the Federal Government, there has been a virtual cessation of all drilling activity in these areas.

"This," he went on, "is an intolerable situation. There is simply no statutory authority under which oil leases can be issued at the present time. Only the Congress can remedy that situation, and it can do so by passing this bill."

As to the Supreme Court rulings, he said: "The court rulings are the law of the land, regardless of whether we agree or disagree with them. But under our form of government, the Congress has the right, the duty and the responsibility of making the law, unhampered by the courts, within the limits of the Constitution of the United States."

He said he is satisfied that the pending quitclaim bill is constitutional. Its provisions, he said, are the best that can be devised to meet the situation.

Voting on the quit-claim bill in the House is expected by Wednesday, with easy passage expected despite the more vocal and substantial opposition expressed by many groups, including labor unions.

The new House bill not only would give the coastal states full title to the so-called marginal sea, from low tide seaward to the "historic" boundaries of the coastal states, but in addition would empower such states to levy a tax on all oil, gas, and other natural resources taken, under federal leasing control, from the vast continental shelf. The shelf extends as far out as 150 miles in some areas.

On the Senate side, a bill reported favorably by the Interior Committee will come up for floor debate within a week or two. Its chief point of departure from the House legislation is that it omits the tax-levying clause. Several southern Senators, however, have said that once the pending quitclaim bill is disposed of, they will push for a "companion" bill to give coastal states co-leasing control, with the Federal Government, over the continental shelf.

Chou's Offer on P.O.W.s Stirs Guarded Optimism in Congress

But White House and State Department Are Silent on Proposal by Red China Premier.

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP)—The new proposal by Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai on exchange of prisoners in Korea is nearer, on its face at least, than any previous Red approach to the latest United Nations offer.

Chou's plan in essence would be to let a neutral nation assume responsibility for those who do not want to go home.

Immediate reaction in Congress was favorable, though guarded. The White House was silent and the State Department had nothing to stay immediately.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, was asked shortly after the broadcast of Chou's proposal whether President Eisenhower was "following" that and other Korean developments, including the earlier offer to exchange sick and wounded prisoners.

Up to State Department.

He said the President was doing so but would not elaborate. Any comment would have to come from the State Department, he said.

The department did not have anything to say immediately on Chou's plan, but did say Gen. Mark W. Clark is going ahead with arrangements for the sick and wounded trade.

A spokesman declined comment on the Reds' accompanying proposal for immediate resumption of armistice talks. Press officer Lincoln White said it was "too early" to discuss that.

Immediate reaction in Congress to the Communist proposal for handling a general prisoner exchange was favorable.

Senator Taft of Ohio, the Republican leader, said "it appears the Chinese Communists are inclined to be more peaceful."

"Until the whole matter can be studied we can't be certain how much value it has," Taft said.

Senator Clements (Dem.), Kentucky, called the offer "encouraging."

"Anytime there is a chance for a solution of the problems in Korea, it is worth exploring," he said.

Senator Millikin of Colorado, chairman of the Conference of All G.O.P. Senators, said:

"The offer is all to the good, so far as it goes. It remains to be seen if it extends to other problems in Korea."

It was recalled here that on Sept. 28 the chief U.N. negotiator, Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, set forth three alternative courses.

The first proposal would move all prisoners to the demilitarized zone. There they would be identified and checked against lists in the presence of an International Red Cross Committee, or joint Red Cross teams from both sides or teams representing the Allies and the Communists.

Those refusing repatriation would be returned to the side of their choice and released "in Korea" on the understanding that they would take no further part in the hostilities.

The second alternative would provide the prompt exchange of prisoners who raise no objection against repatriation. Only the objectors would be moved to the demilitarized zone where they would be freed from military control of both sides. There they would be interviewed by representatives of a neutral nation or nations and forthwith freed to go to the side of their choice. Observers would be permitted from the Red Cross or joint military teams under this proposal, but the observers would have no authority to sway or alter the decision of individual prisoners.

The third course suggested is similar to the second except that once the objectors to repatriation are moved to the neutral zone they would state their choice without questioning, interviewing or screening by anybody. Observation of this process would be entrusted to Red Cross and military teams representing both sides.

The U.N. command, after completing the screening of the 122,726 prisoners in its custody, said that 83,000 were ready to accept repatriation. This left 39,726 who would object. The Red negotiators have never accepted this figure and have maintained that all of the 21,000 Chinese Reds among the prisoner total would have to be exchanged and that the total who should be returned to Communist control would be about 116,000.

Wreckage of Airliner Sighted in Africa; No Survivors.

NAIROBI, Kenya, March 30 (AP)—The wreckage of a missing Viking airliner with 13 passengers aboard was sighted in wild African territory today 80 miles southwest of Dar es Salaam in Tanganyika. Officials here said there were no survivors.

(In London, a spokesman of Central African Airways said passengers included a United States diplomatic courier, W. M. Fisher.)

The plane disappeared Saturday on a flight from Dar es Salaam to Blantyre in Nyasaland. Among the passengers were two women.

A dispatch from Salisbury, southern Rhodesia, said the plane carried a crew of five. Reports received there said Louis Yudkin, stage director for the famed Sadler's Wells Ballet and the Covent Grand Opera Company in London, was aboard the plane. There was no confirmation.

ROKS BEAT OFF RED ATTACK ON HILL IN WESTERN KOREA

Marines Dig In on Vegas in West, Smash Chinese Drive—Snowstorm Covers Front.

SEOUL, March 30 (AP)—South Korean troops threw back a Chinese Red drive on Christmas hill on the eastern front in a driving snowfall today as United States marines dug in on bloody Vegas hill in the west.

Some 300 Reds jabbed 50 yards beyond Allied advance defense lines on a 350-yard front west of Christmas hill, which is west of the Mundung valley. South Koreans drove them back, killing or wounding 100 Chinese.

Entrenched marines on Vegas had won back the outpost at dawn Sunday after being knocked off three times in the Reds' spring feeler drive on the western front last week.

Grimy and weary, the Leathernecks smashed a three-pronged Red drive on Vegas late yesterday and broke up a Red force massing for another attack last night with a thundering curtain of artillery fire.

MIG Hit by St. Louisan.

In the air, United States Sabre jet pilots reported probable destruction of one Communist MIG jet and two damaged.

Maj. Eugene M. Sommerich, St. Louis, Mo., was credited with the probable destruction.

In a big day Sunday, Sabre pilots reported shooting down four MIGs and damaging a fifth. Lt. Col. George L. Jones of Vero Beach, Fla., got one of the MIGs, his fifth, making him the thirtieth United States jet ace of the war.

The early spring snowfall deposited up to five inches on the eastern front and up to one inch in the western and central sectors.

The weather sharply curtailed Allied fighter-bomber strikes but pilots reported 13 Red supply trucks destroyed in frontline sweeps.

The Reds backed their drive in the Christmas hill area with 1800 rounds of artillery and mortor fire. The Chinese dented the advance line after an hour of bloody, close-quarter battle with the South Koreans.

Reinforcements Called.

However, the South Koreans called up reinforcements at 1 a.m. and again 15 minutes later. Within 10 minutes after they arrived, the Reds withdrew and the gap was closed.

An Eighth Army spokesman said 15 dear Reds were counted, 51 estimated killed and 42 estimated wounded.

In fighting at outpost Vegas Sunday night, the Reds advanced in three columns of about 100 men each under cover of a 15-minute artillery barrage.

However, the watchful Marines atop the height fired illuminating flares, snapped on searchlights, and called for supporting artillery. The pounding forced the Reds to fall back less than two hours after the jumped off.

Marine artillerymen employed what they call the box technique to smash the Chinese efforts to mount a second attack. It involves dropping shells both in front of and behind the Reds.

Flares Help Marines.

Marine planes dropped brilliant flares over the Vegas area throughout Sunday night to help the Leathernecks on the ground spot the Communists.

The Chinese employed the artillery box technique themselves at nearby Reno outpost, which they captured Thursday in a bloody drive against 10 western front Marine outposts. The reason for the Red barrage wasn't clear, because the Marines have made no effort to retake Reno.

Lt. Gen. Maxwell Taylor, Eighth Army commander, visited the United States Seventh Infantry Division, which yielded Old Baldy hill to the Reds in bitter fighting last week. Taylor also visited South Korean troops on the eastern front.

MAJ. EUGENE SOMMERICH

Maj. Sommerich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Sommerich, 6551 Hoffman avenue, was a National Guard officer before his recall to active duty in March 1951. He has been in Korea about two months and was credited earlier with sharing in the kill of another MIG.

Sommerich, 30 years old, served three and one-half years as a fighter pilot in World War II.

2 JET UNITS CONSOLIDATED, $2,500,000 SAVING EXPECTED

SEOUL, March 30 (AP)—The Fifth Air Force today announced consolidation of two F-84 Thunderjet wings into a new unit designated as the Fifty-eighth Fighter-Bomber Wing Reinforced.

The Air Force said the consolidation would eliminate 900 administrative and other non-combat jobs and save an estimated $2,500,000 annually.

One wing normally consists of 75 planes. The new unit presumably will have at least 150. The abolished outfits were the Forty-ninth and Fifty-eighth Fighter-Bomber Wings.

SPEEDY APPROVAL OF WELFARE DEPT. URGED IN SENATE

Taft Expects Passage—McClellan Questions G.O.P. Haste on Reorganization.

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP)—Senate leaders called for speedy approval today as debate opened on Eisenhower's plan to set up a department of health, education and welfare at Cabinet level.

Republican leader Taft of Ohio expected the Senate to approve the proposal, as the House has already done by a 291 to 85 vote.

Only advance opposition came from Senator McClellan (Dem.), Arkansas, who is not against the plan itself, but does question the Republican move to speed it into operation.

"It will be approved, possibly without even a record vote," McClellan said.

Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, Texas Democrat who now heads the Federal Security Agency, already has been named as Eisenhower's choice to be secretary of the new department.

Reorganization plans normally become effective 60 days after submission to Congress, unless either the Senate or House vetoes them by a majority vote. In this case, Eisenhower's first reorganization plans, Republican leaders decided to speed action by giving affirmative approval. Thus it would take effect 10 days after the approval resolution cleared Congress and was signed by the President.

It is this feature that disturbs McClellan. He says he fears it may set a pattern for future congressional action.

"This tampers with the basic theory of the reorganization act that Congress would get ample time to examine any plan," he said. "This plan certainly is not urgent nor is there an emergency."

There was a probability also that some Democrats, who watched past Congresses reject similar reorganization plans of former President Truman, might chide Republicans about pushing approval on this one.

The new department would handle present FSA activities in the fields of social security, old-age, benefits, health, education, children's aid, and administration of pure food and drug laws.

Chases Dog, Killed by Auto.

DETROIT, March 30 (AP)—three-year-old Laura Goin ran into the street after her dog and was killed by a car yesterday just a few minutes before a scheduled surprise birthday party by neighbors for her mother, Mrs. Carroll Goin, 38.

3 INQUIRIES BEGUN INTO FIRE IN HOME FOR AGED IN WHICH 33 LOST LIVES

25 Patients in Frame Building in Florida Saved — Officials Call for Safety Inspection Law.

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

LARGO, Fla., March 30 (AP)—Three agencies are investigating the wind-swept fire that destroyed a one-story frame nursing home yesterday, taking the lives of 32 elderly patients and a valiant nurse who tried to save them.

Investigations were started today by the state fire marshal, the state hotel commission and sheriff Sid Saunders.

(The United Press said R. Hosey Wick, chairman of the Pinellas County Commission, urged regulation of Florida's homes for the aged to prevent another catastrophe, calling for immediate control legislation.

(Wick said he and other proponents of strict fire and health inspection of homes for the aged by some state agency "will concentrate our efforts" on behalf of such a measure at the next legislative session. "It is regrettable that a catastrophe of this magnitude had to happen to awaken the Legislature and the public in general," Wick said.

Governor For New Law.

(Gov. Dan McCarthy indorsed demands for laws to regulate private nursing homes. He expressed "extreme regret" at the tragedy and said he was fully in accord with proposed legislation, to be brought up again this year after being defeated in 1951, to put such institutions under regulations prescribed by the state board of health.

(In Washington, Representative Courtney Campbell (Dem.), Fla., said that he was considering asking Congress to investigate how elderly people are housed. He said "something must be done" to prevent a recurrence of yesterday's "terrible tragedy." Largo is in Campbell's district.

("We are in the same boat as California," he said, "with so many elderly people retiring to Florida. Something must be done to take better care of them.")

25 Patients Saved.

Twenty-five patients were saved as neighbors turned out barefooted and in night clothes to back up the rescue efforts of the owners, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Littlefield.

Among the survivors was Henry Heinz, 60 years old, of St. Louis.

Fire companies from Largo and Clearwater came quickly, but within half an hour the 185-foot long wooden structure was doomed.

All but three of the victims were women—mental cases, many too old for admission to the state hospital. Others were old-age pensioners and other elderly persons who needed special attention. Most of the dead were from Florida.

The tragedy cost 34 lives in all, for Angus D. Smith, Pinellas county welfare director, was killed in an automobile collision while driving three patients to a hospital.

Many of the victims perished in their beds, unaware of the danger that suddenly roared at them about 3:30 o'clock on a chilly Sunday morning.

Some Resist Rescue.

Of those who gained consciousness, some were too panicky to follow directions; some were too feebleminded, and some too old and stubborn.

"If they had done what I told them they would all have gotten out," Littlefield said in a tired voice.

The Littlefields were sleeping in the home with the patients. Littlefield said he was awakened by the screams of a woman. He tried to fight the flames with fire extinguishers, saw he was losing, and began waking up patients and trying to get them out.

Mrs. Littlefield ran outside, screaming for help, and collapsed with a heart attack. She is in a serious condition.

"One man was sound asleep and he clung to the door and fought me while I tried to get him out," said Mrs. Aletha Herring, who lives across the road.

"They were just like children—they didn't want to be removed from their warm beds," said another neighbor, T. R. Hasty, who carried old people out till he was almost cut off by the raging flames.

However, some of the patients themselves helped others escape.

Will Hardin, 76, Palm Harbor, said: "I carried out Gus Simonson, who is 94 years old. He had two canes and he could walk just a little."

Mrs. Frank Colley, Clearwater, helped get two out.

Mrs. Aletha Herring, 30, a part-time helper at the home, said she "guessed" she carried about six persons out "but it's impossible to say for sure. She said it was "impossible to make them hurry."

George M. Gelsomine, 61, of Jersey City, N.J., who escaped, said: "About a quarter after three Mr. Littlefield came in and hollered 'get up and get out of here. The place is on fire!' I yelled to the others and woke them up. I began to smell a lot of smoke. I dived out of the building and went to a lake and stayed there. When I got back a little later the place was almost burned down."

Rescued and rescuers alike grieved for Mrs. Gertrude Warnick, 55, a nurse who brought one woman out, returned to the flame-swept building and did not come out again.

Thomas W. Clements, 70, accompanied by a nurse, arrived at the nursing home only to learn that his wife had died in flames about two hours before he came.

The scene of the disaster was grim. Weeping relatives were going from cluster to cluster of persons asking if their loved ones had been saved. An occasional can of food in the ashes of the home exploded, startling the crowd.

The charred, shriveled bodies lay for hours on twisted bedsteads or in the smoking ashes beside them until they could be identified. Then the only way they could be named was for a nurse to say who should have been in those beds.

Cause of the fire is not known. The Clearwater fire chief said preliminary checks led him to believe the blaze started near the kitchen and supply room. Littlefield said he thought the fire began in a front bedroom.

Several patients ran screaming from the blazing building, hiding in the surrounding grapefruit grove.

The patients ranged in age from 45 to 98, with most of them above 65. Many were old age pensioners, getting a little additional welfare help from Pinellas county. Others were mental cases.

The Littlefield nursing home is three miles from Largo and 15 miles north of St. Petersburg.

RESCUER TELLS OF SAVING SOME

By ALETHA HERRING

(As told to United Press.)

LARGO, Fla., March 30 — A piercing scream started off a morning I'll never forget.

It was Mrs. (Homer) Littlefield at the rest home across the road, and she was screaming for help. I looked out my window and saw that the wooden building was a blazing inferno.

I got into my clothes as quickly as possible. I later found that I had put on my dress inside-out and completely forgot about wearing any shoes.

It seemed that everybody around was rushing to help. I ran into the building and started getting the old people out. It all happened so quick I don't know how many I managed to get out.

Most of the patients didn't seem to know what was going on and it was hard to make them hurry. When I asked one man to hurry out of the building he asked "What for?"

I half-dragged and half-carried the old folks. I guess I must have gotten about six out, but it's impossible to say for sure.

Mrs. Littlefield, wearing only a nightgown, helped me find my way around with her flashlight. It was all so mixed up, just like a bad dream.

I saw Mr. Littlefield carry out two patients at one time.

On one of my trips, the door caught on fire while I was in a room helping a patient, but by that time the wall had collapsed and I just stepped out of the side of the building.

Most of the patients were very quiet, but occasionally a scream was heard. I work at the Littlefield nursing home twice a week and I knew a lot of the patients. It was terrible. I hope I never see another fire like that as long as I live.

After it was all over I was nervous, but while I was helping those old people out, I wasn't scared.

I just wish I could have saved more.

First of New Traffic Signs

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer

PHILIP VINCIGUERRA (holding sign) and VINCENT FLACKE (on ladder), Traffic Division employes, erecting the first of the new "no parking" signs today in the 2700 block of Market street, on the south side of the street.

MASTER TRAFFIC CONTROL LAW SIGNS ARE BEING PUT UP

Employes of the Streets and Sewers Department today began installing "no parking" signs, under the master traffic control ordinance signed last Friday by Mayor Joseph M. Darst.

The first signs are being erected on Vandeventer avenue and on Market street. Parking will be prohibited on Vandeventer, between Chouteau avenue and Market street, from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. The first signs on Market street, on the south side of the thoroughfare, will announce no parking between 7 and 9 a.m., from Vandeventer to Sixth street.

Traffic Commissioner Charles G. Gonter said his office would work with police in warning motorists, before a date is set for issuing traffic tickets to violators.

DENTISTS' BULLETIN LAMENTS 'MURDER' OF FLUORIDE BILL

Taking the form of an obituary, an editorial in the current issue of the St. Louis Dental Society Bulletin refers to killing of the bill to fluoridate the St. Louis water supply as the "untimely death" of a preventive health measure.

"With profound regret we announce the untimely death of Board Bill 21 on March 21," stated the editorial, entitled "In Memoriam." "While the cause of death was murder and the perpetrators are known, officially we record 'death at the hands of parties unidentified.'"

Praising those who worked for fluoridation, recommended as a means of reducing tooth decay in children, the editorial said: "And so to the honorary pallbearers and the undercover killer, our deepest regret and may their consciences comfort them if they should happen to think of the innocent children's toothaches they might have prevented."

The editorial, written by Dr. Ralph Rosen, editor of the Bulletin, concluded: "Public health cannot long remain a political football or an industrial convenience."

Death of Polish Bishop Denied

VATICAN CITY, March 30 (AP)—The Vatican Press office said today it has received news that Bishop Stanislaus Adamski is living and in good health but in prison in Poland. The Vatican radio reported last week that Msgr. Aadamski, bishop of Katowice, Poland, was dead.

O. L. SCHNATMEIER IS NOMINATED FOR FEDERAL MARSHAL

State Representative Named for Eastern Missouri District—Former Sheriff.

State Representative Omar L. Schnatmeier, former sheriff of St. Charles county, today was nominated by President Eisenhower to be United States marshal for the eastern district of Missouri with offices here.

Schnatmeier, a Republican, will succeed Otto Schoen, an appointee of former President Truman, upon qualifying for the marshal's post.

At Washington it was said Schoen had refused a resign and was being removed.

Elected to his second term in the Legislature last autumn, Schnatmeier, during his first term, was outspoken in his criticism of former Gov. Forrest Smith. He demanded that Smith divulge the name of the "mystery man" the former Governor said had informed him a slush fund had been raised to defeat truck fee legislation.

In a letter to Smith, Schnatmeier said public interest, as well as reputation of members of the Legislature demanded that the informant be named. The identity of the "mystery man" was not revealed, however.

Born in St. Charles, Schnatmeier was an employe of the old Curtiss-Wright Corp. at Lambert-St. Louis Field before his election as sheriff in 1941. He volunteered for military service, but was rejected and completed his term as sheriff in 1945. He then became part owner and editor of the Daily Cosmos-Monitor, published at St. Charles. Selling his interest in the newspaper in 1949, he joined the sales force of an ink firm.

Schnatmeier is married, has one daughter, and lives at 802 Monroe street, St. Charles. He will resign from the Legislature.

Schoen, a leading Scott county Democrat and former merchant, was notified March 20 that he would be expected to resign. He immediately wrote Assistant Attorney General Clyde Palmar in Washington, telling him his term runs to the autumn of 1955 and he had assumed he would be permitted to serve until that time. The letter pointed out that the Department of Justice in 1951 described Schoen's office as "outstanding in the collection of executions."

Edward L. Scheufler, a Kansas City attorney, was nominated by the President to be United States Attorney for the western district of Missouri, to succeed Sam M. Wear, who was appointed by former President Truman. The announcement said Wear is resigning.

Clifford M. Raemer of Salem, Ill., was nominated as United States Attorney for the eastern district of Illinois. He will replace William M. Hart, who resigned recently. The United States Attorney's offices are in East St. Louis, Benton and Danville.

TUCKER ASSERTS STIFEL IS 'LATE' ON CHARTER ISSUE

Asks Where G.O.P. Opponent Was When Freeholders Were Working on New One.

Raymond R. Tucker, Democratic candidate for Mayor, said today that his Republican opponent, Carl G. Stifel, is "three years late" with his support for a new city charter.

"My opponent's sudden interest in doing something about the antiquated charter under which St. Louis has operated since 1914 comes as a complete surprise to many of us who devoted virtually all of our time from April 1949 to August 1950 to writing the same type of charter he is talking about today," Tucker said.

"Where was he then? As chairman of the Board of Freeholders preparing the new charter, I never saw him at a meeting or heard that he was showing any interest in the subject.

"Frankly, I am a bit skeptical about his sudden desire to be for a new charter just before an election. Actually the type of charter we prepared then was the same one he is now advocating. He is about three years late with his support."

Tucker said he "regrets" that Stifel "is attempting to mislead the people of St. Louis into believing that he could immediately bring into existence a new charter and thereby solve all of our problems."

Stifel had "his opportunity to help do just that several years ago, but waited until it came time for him to try to pick up votes before speaking up on the subject," the Democratic candidate declared.

In a talk yestrday before the Third Ward Regular Democratic Organization, Tucker, former city smoke commissioner and civil defense director, said the civil defense program will be carried forward on a realistic basis.

"The progress which has been made has not been spectacular, but there has been no 'cheese cake' in it here," he stated. "No great amounts of public money have been spent.

"Since our beginning in January 1951 a total of $266,500 in public funds has been spent to make St. Louis ready. Of this sum, nearly 30 per cent was secured from federal matching funds."

City Counselor James E. Crowe, addressing the same meeting, defended the present Democratic city administration on its record in opposing utility rate increases, describing Stifel's criticism as "political ballyhoo."

Crowe said: "It is deplorable after four years of intense efforts on behalf of the consumers' interest that we must be subjected to this unjust criticism on the part of people who, for selfish purposes, are willing to cast reflection upon our integrity—people who know absolutely nothing about rate matters and who could not tell where the office of the Missouri Public Service Commission is located."

Predicts Deep Cut in Audio-Visual Program if School Tax Rise Fails

William Kottmeyer Says Educational Broadcasts Would Be Among Curtailed Activities.

The Board of Education's audio-visual program, which directs school radio broadcasts heard in 3000 classrooms each week, will be abandoned or seriously curtailed if the proposed 14-cent increase in the school tax rate is not approved, school officials said today.

A tax rate of $1.15 for each $100 of assessed property valuation has been requested by the school board. The proposal will be submitted to voters at the April 7 city election, on a separate ballot.

The audio-visual division, with an annual budget of about $226,000, will "undoubtedly" be one of the special school programs slated for curtailment if the tax increase is not authorized, William Kottmeyer, assistant superintendent of instruction, said.

Kottmeyer, who directs the school system's special services, pointed out that the tax rate will revert to the 89 cents permitted to be levied without an election unless the $1.15 rate is authorized. The present temporary rate of $1.01 will expire shortly after the election.

Supplements Class Teaching.

The audio-visual program, in operation less than three years, has proved successful as a supplement to basic teaching methods, Kottmeyer said.

"It is safe to say that each of the 88,000 children in the St. Louis school system heard at least one radio broadcast sponsored by the audio-visual division last year," he told the Post-Dispatch.

Principal educational outlets provided by the division are an FM radio station, Station KSLH, and circulation of both sound and silent educational films.

More than 47,000 films, on subjects ranging from a description of the solar system to home photography, were shown last year. Film projectors, charts, prints and other pictorial aids also are provided by the division.

Staff of 35.

The program, under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Golterman, has a staff of 35 persons.

Services provided by the division "grow out of educational needs," Miss Golterman said. "When radio is used, it is because this medium appears to offer the most effective means of presenting an idea."

Twenty-four series of educational programs will be broadcast during the current school term. Programs are selected by a committee of teachers, principals and staff members of the station.

An explanation of the ballot to be used in the tax election was given today by Echeal Feinstein, chairman of the Citizens' School Tax Campaign Committee.

Authorization to levy a tax of 26 cents, in addition to the basic 89-cent rate, will be asked on the ballot, Feinstein pointed out. Actual amount of the increase, however, is only 14 cents, since the temporary $1.01 rate is now in effect.

The tax increase was indorsed today by the CIO Industrial Union Council of St. Louis and the council's political action committee.

"The council has always supported the best possible educational program for our children," Oscar A. Ehrhardt, executive secretary, said. "We are fully acquainted with rising school costs, and we believe that school employes are entitled to a decent living wage."

Ehrhardt, who is a member of the Board of Education, said school finances were studied by the council before approval of the proposed tax rate was voted.

5 Candidates Indorsed.

Five candidates for election to the school board April 7 were indorsed yesterday by the Rev. C. Oscar Johnson, pastor of Third Baptist Church, 620 North Grand boulevard.

Four of the candidates—William Charles, Louis H. Antoine, Daniel L. Schlafly and Lemoine Skinner Jr.—are sponsored by the Citizens' School Improvement Committee. The fifth is the Rev. Joseph W. Nicholson, Negro pastor of All Saints' Episcopal Church.

The Rev. Dr. Johnson, who made the indorsement in a Palm Sunday radio broadcast, is a former president of the school board. He had previously indorsed the school tax increase.

HARVEY BEAVERS JR., UNION BOSS'S BODYGUARD, WANTED

Police yesterday issued an order for the arrest of Harvey Beavers Jr., former convict who is wanted for questioning in connection with a reported attempt to assassinate Lawrence Callanan, boss of AFL Steamfitters' Local 562, about 18 months ago.

An eyewitness to the shooting, which occurred early one morning in the 4100 block of Ashland avenue, told the Post-Dispatch he saw Beavers standing in the street after hearing a number of shots fired. Beavers, a member of the union, has served as Callanan's bodyguard.

Detective Lt. Nick Kube, head of the homicide squad, is conducting an investigation of the shooting to determine if it would have any bearing on recent bombings of the steamfitters' office, 1558 South Vandeventer avenue, and at the home of Callanan's brother, former Sheriff Thomas F. Callanan.

STIFEL CHARGES TUCKER 'STILL IS PUSSYFOOTING'

Asserts Opponent 'Loves the Political Straddle' on Important Issues in Campaign.

A charge that Raymond R. Tucker, Democratic candidate for Mayor, is "pussy-footing" was made by his Republican opponent, Carl G. Stifel, in a talk today.

"You know well where I stand on important issues for the improvement of St. Louis," Stifel said at Maryville College.

"I have spent my time intelligently setting forth my ideas for benefitting each and every one of you, while Mr. Tucker was lambasting his opponent, Mr. Eagleton, during the primary.

'My Position Is Clear.'

"Now that we approach the end of the campaign, my position has been made crystal clear, while, within a little more than a week of the election, my opponent is still pussy-footing."

Continuing, Stifel asserted: "The big issue in this campaign is simply this: Does Mr. Tucker, my opponent, welcome the publicly announced support of those Democrat factions which he denounced with all the power of his command during the campaign for the nomination?

"Over and over again I have asked him this question. I've done everything I know to get a statement from him.

'Political Straddle.'

"Why is he afraid to state his position? I think I know why. My opponent is trained as a typical City Hall politician. He loves that 'political straddle.'

"He is constantly thinking in terms of what will bring him the most votes. As a politician, he thinks the people's memory is short.

"Therefore, he thinks that the people who voted for him in the primary because he denounced the Democratic machine will have conveniently forgotten about his denunciation when election time rolls around.

"On the other hand, my opponent also thinks that he needs the support of the Democrat machine to win. He is afraid to offend them. Therefore he keeps silent on this big issue, taking refuge in what I like to call the 'political straddle.'"

Stifel gave a similar talk yesterday at Pilgrim Rest Baptist Church, 2900 Gamble street.

DURKIN PROPOSES $10,403,000 CUT FOR LABOR DEPT.

Fourth Cabinet Member to Trim Truman Budget Suggestion — Wants $321,415,600.

WASHINGTON, March 29 (UP) —Secretary of Labor Martin P. Durkin presented Congress a revised budget for the Department of Labor today showing a reduction of $10,403,000 from recommendations made by former President Truman.

Durkin told the Senate Appropriations Committee his department would need $321,415,000 for the fiscal year beginning July 1. Truman had asked for $331,818,600.

Durkin's revised estimate represented a reduction of about 3¼ per cent.

Durkin said also the Labor Department is returning to the Treasury $1,000,000 provided as working capital to administer the law governing the recruitment of Mexican farm labor.

Labor was the fourth department heard from in the Eisenhower Administration's campaign to whittle down the Truman budget. Combined, the four—Labor, Justice, Commerce and Agriculture—have reported they can get along with approximately $417,000,000 less than Truman had requested.

Republican congressional leaders reported after conferring with Eisenhower today that the $7,500,000,000 Truman requested for the foreign aid program definitely will be cut. They said a "drastic cut" in overseas payrolls of the aid program is already under way.

G.O.P. Congressmen regard the showing by the four departments as evidence that President Eisenhower's "new team" is moving in the right direction. They are keenly aware, however, that the economy drive must bite much deeper — particularly in such big items as military and foreign aid spending—if there is to be any hope of balancing the budget and clearing the way for tax cuts.

It was disclosed yesterday that the Justice Department had submitted appropriations requests totaling $184,425,000, a reduction of $7,450,000 from Truman's figure. Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. proposed no reduction in the Truman Administration's recommendation of $77,000,000 for the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The Department of Justice reduction was much smaller than those of $130,000,000 and $169,000,000 reported previously for the Agriculture and Commerce Departments, respectively.

Reds Offer Plan to End War Similar to One They Rejected

to comment on the new Red statement.)

A spokesman for Gen. Clark said "we are not selling the statement short but so far it is just a Communist radio broadcast."

Some Allied officers said privately and unofficially that the proposal, if it meant what it seems, might end the Korean war. But they had their fingers crossed and there was a feeling of super-caution among the command.

The Chinese premier, No. 2 man in the Asian Communist heirarchy, is the one usually selected to make important announcements. He had just returned to Peiping from a trip to Moscow where he attended the funeral of Joseph Stalin and signed new, important economic agreements with Russia.

Time Now Ripe, Chou Says.

Chou preceded his proposal with a lengthy review of the armistice negotiations which started in July 1951 and finally broke up last Oct. 8.

After repeating Saturday's Communist acceptance of Gen. Clark's proposal for the exchange of sick and wounded P.O.W.s, he said only the interruption of negotiations, for which he held the U. N. negotiators responsible, had prevented earlier acceptance of this proposal.

The broadcast quoted Chou:

"A reasonable settlement of the question of exchanging sick and injured (wounded) prisoners of war clearly has a very significant bearing upon the smooth settlement of the entire question of prisoners of war."

Chou said "it is, therefore, our view that the time should be considered ripe for settling the entire question of prisoners of war in order to insure the cessation of hostilities in Korea and to conclude the armistice agreement."

Chou said the opposing sides should sit down again immediately at the armistice table and try to work out an armistice.

Before Chou's new statement was received, Washington and the U. N. Command had been cautiously studying the Reds' earlier acceptance of the U. N. proposal for exchanging sick and wounded P.O.W.s'.

Washington was officially receptive but watchful lest several thousand Americans become the pawns in a deadly new chess game. A similar waiting attitude was apparent in other western capitals, on the basis of the Red move to exchange the sick and wounded.

Hidden Reason Suspected.

A military officer familiar with the Communists commented that "they never ask for a truce, unless they are in trouble."

Far from being in trouble now in Korea, the Reds have been launching the strongest attacks they have mounted in five months. So, if trouble is the cause, it apparently lies elsewhere and must be serious enough for extraordinary overtures.

The best Army opinion here is that necessary talks for P.O.W. exchange would be a "working level" arrangement and not by any means a resumption of the truce talks.

Such talks would be in the hands of lower ranking Red and U.N. officers to make detailed arrangements. They could be started in minutes, once the go-ahead is given. That directive had to come from Washington.

What India Proposed.

The U.N. General Assembly adopted the Indian Resolution by a vote of 53 to 5 last Dec. 1. The resolution set up a four-nation neutral commission with an umpire to take over control of the prisoners until their future was determined.

Assembly President Lester B. Pearson forwarded the resolution to Peiping and received an outright rejection from Chou. If the Red Chinese position has really altered, U.N. sources believed, protocol would call for Chou to notify Pearson of this.

The Indian resolution named Czechoslovakia, Poland, Sweden and Switzerland to serve as the neutrals. They would have chosen a statesman from a fifth state to serve as their chairman.

These four countries were named in Paragraph 37 of the draft armistice agreement drawn up at Panmunjom, previously agreed to by both Communists and U.N., as proposed members of a neutral nations supervisory commission. All four had agreed to serve.

A proposal that prisoners not desiring repatriation be turned over to neutral countries also was advanced in the U.N. by Mexico, but it never was acted upon.

U.N. Delegates Optimistic but Cautious in Commenting.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., March 30 (AP)—A Peiping radio broadcast indicating a possible break in the deadlocked Korean prisoner of war issue was greeted with guarded optimism at United Nations headquarters today.

The British delegation issued a statement calling Chinese Red Premier Chou's statement "most encouraging," but saying "it will be for London to decide the exact implications."

Leslie K. Monro of New Zealand said "it is better than anything we have had before."

Sir Percy Spender of Australia said: "If the foreign minister of the People's Republic of China is correctly reported, his statement, taken with other recent statements made in Moscow, appears at first sight to suggest a possible basis for discussion."

An American source said the report should be viewed with "healthy skepticism." He said the United States views such broadcasts and recent peace talk in Moscow as "straws in the wind. The question is to decide how strong is the straw and how hard the wind is blowing."

Rajeshwar Dayal, chief permanent Indian delegate — whose country sponsored the U.N.'s prisoner plan—noted that the resolution is still on the books and the Communists are free to accept it. Asked if India would serve as the "neutral state" proposed by Chou, he said India was not neutral, but had supported the U.N. effort in Korea.

The U.N. has not yet received any formal communication from Chou on the issue.

Informed sources said the Political Committee is about to take up the problem of Korea again as part of a Polish "peace package." They recalled that every Korea debate in the U.N. so far has been preceded by a Peiping radio "offer" which, on examination, turned out unsatisfactorily.

STASSEN CHARGES M'CARTHY HARMS U.S. ON TRADE BAR

with McCarthy, Stassen said: "I plead with you for co-operation between the two branches of the Government."

"You needn't plead with me, Governor," McCarthy snapped.

McCarthy's move had raised a constitutional question, since it is the President who is charged with the conduct of foreign affairs under the Constitution.

It was not clear whether McCarthy's subcommittee, in bypassing the executive branch of Government to negotiate an agreement with foreigners, had infringed upon presidential prerogative.

Lincoln White, State Department press secretary, said the Greek decree "had the effect of law immediately, although it is subject to ratification by the Greek Parliament. Its effect is binding on all ships of the Greek registry."

In announcing the agreement with Greek ship owners Saturday, McCarthy called attention to the Greek government decree and said his action went "far beyond it."

At one point Stassen demanded to know whether the subcommittee in making the agreement had agreed to call off an investigation of the Greek owners who signed.

"That is no concern of yours, Mr. Stassen," McCarthy retorted tartly, but not before Flanagan had responded "absolutely not."

Not Discussed by G.O.P.

Senator Taft (Rep.), Ohio, told reporters there was no discussion of the McCarthy ship agreement at today's conference of Republican congressional leaders with Eisenhower.

Asked how he felt about the agreement announced by McCarthy, Taft repliced:

"I'm afraid I haven't studied the matter."

McCarthy said that of the 242 ships involved in his subcommittee's action, 51 fly the Greek flag, 88 the Panamanian, 52 the Liberian, 34 the Canadian and 17 the British.

A State Department spokesman pointed out that this Government had made agreements more than a year ago with Panama and Liberia under which ships registered in those countries would not trade with Red China or North Korea. He also pointed out that Canada and Britain have agreed to prevent shipments of materials to Red China and North Korea aboard ships registered in those two countries.

Stassen told the subcommittee some of the Greek owners involved in the agreement were among the large shippers this Government had been trying to drive out of trade with the Reds.

Tax Case Weapon.

He said the filing of "tax cases" against some of them has been one device used to discourage them. He said he now wants to know whether McCarthy had agreed that "they are to be excused" in exchange for a promise to withdraw from the practice.

Stassen contended that if such an agreement was made it certainly was "undermining" the Government effort.

McCarthy contended that at their meeting 10 days ago "you told us you could deal with the Governments. . . . You advised us to deal with the ship owners." He said that in view of those statements he couldn't understand Stassen's present complaint. Stassen disputed this interpretation of his earlier testimony.

Only Part of U. S. Effort.

Stassen said that working with the Greek Government is only one phase of this Government's overall effort.

"We are working to close out all trade with Red China," Stassen said, recalling a recent United States-British agreement which he said should remove British ships from trade with Communist China.

Stassen said that patting the Greek shipowners on the back could be "harmful of our efforts to close down on East-West trade" because they have been guilty of "past violations and have profited extremely."

Before the McCarthy-Stassen skirmish, the White House and State Department had replied "no comment" to published reports that high Administration officials resented McCarthy's venture into personal diplomacy in connection with the Greek ships.

Senators Disagree.

Members of McCarthy's subcommittee were sharply divided over the Wisconsin Senator's surprise "agreement" with Greek ship owners.

Democratic Senator Kerr of Oklahoma said McCarthy "has no authority to make an agreement binding on this Government" and said he could not understand why a G.O.P. Senator would "go over the heads" of a Republican President and Secretary of State.

Senator Mundt (Rep.), South Dakota, conceded that McCarthy's operation may have been "unusual," but said "it's an effective way of getting things done."

Credits Fear of Hearings.

He said the Greek ship owners were motivated by a desire to avoid being "discredited and pilloried in public" by having Senate invstigators spotlight their trade with the enemy. He said they also may have dreaded the prospect of Senate investigators "raking up stuff in their past."

2 WOMEN BEATEN BY ROBBER

The youth, a Negro, first grabbed Mrs. Robben's purse, she said and struck her in the face and abdomen. He then turned to Mrs. Blackburn and struck her, but was unable to grab her purse. He ran through a yard and disappeared.

46 AGENTS OF U.N. CAPTURED IN NORTH KOREA, REDS SAY

TOKYO, March 30 (AP) — The Red China radio at Peiping said today that 46 armed agents of the United Nations Far East Command, disguised as members of the Korean Red Army, were captured "within a few days after they had been air-dropped in February."

The broadcast said the agents were under order to wreck factories, rail lines, bridges and warehouses and to assassinate government officers in North Korea.

Peiping didn't say what happened to the alleged spies.

EGYPT BACKS U.S. PROPOSAL ON U.N. WORKERS' LOYALTY

Delegate Sees Danger in Employes of Doubtful Integrity, but Also in Any Harsh Action to Bar Them.

By ALVIN H. GOLDSTEIN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., March 30—Egypt today pledged support to the resolution submitted by the United States disqualifying for employment in the United Nation's secretariat anyone disloyal to his own nation or whose loyalty is suspected. The resolution, co-sponsored by eight other nations, indorsed that policy established by Secretary General Trygve Lie.

Ali Kamel Fahmy said Egypt would not consent to any action which would destroy the international character of the secretariat. The dignity and prestige of the U. N., however, would be irrevocably damaged if employes of questioned integrity were hired, he added, and that course would create dissension and mistrust.

In his indorsement of the nine-nation proposal, commending Lie's report that he was receiving advice on the fitness of American employes from the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Civil Service Commission, Fahmy pointed out that the U. N. had no facilities for such inquiries and must rely on member governments to supply information.

Lie reported that 18 American members of the U.N. staff had been discharged after refusing to answer questions before congressional investigating committees concerning Communist activities or affiliations. Five others were dismissed before the public hearings began.

Lie criticized the congressional committee exposure methods, asserting they reflected unfairly on innocent staff members, but welcomed inquiries by the FBI and Civil Service. He agreed that the U.N. should not employ anyone of doubtful loyalty to his own government.

Fahmy warned the General Assembly, however, that any "harsh or repeated action would shake the prestige of the United Nations." He recalled that it had been agreed when the U.N. charter was written that employment in the organization should not depend on the consent of member states. Where loyalty has been proved doubtful or questionable, however, it became a matter of rightful concern to members, he concluded.

Sir Percy Spender, Australian delegate, said that if a U.N. employe refuses to answer questions dealing with espionage, there was no other course than to fire him.

However he took sharp issue with a statement by Lie that he would fire American employes refusing to answer Senate groups or other United States bodies about "subversive activities" on grounds that it was misconduct by the employe. Spender contended such refusal is the legal right of an employe.

Opposed to the nine-nation resolution is a 15-nation Asian, African, Indian proposal for the establishment of special investigating committee to look into the situation and report to the next Assembly. It too commends the Lie policies.

STORE OWNER FIRES TWICE AT BURGLAR, CAPTURES HIM

Mike Zeppetilla, who with his wife runs a grill and market at 1227 North Thirteenth street, fired two shots at a burglar in the store early yesterday, then captured and held him until police arrived.

The man captured gave his name as Grandison Jefferson, Negro, living in the 4200W block of Page boulevard. He was treated at Homer G. Phillips Hospital for cuts on a hand, suffered apparently when he broke the front door glass at the store in gaining entrance.

Zeppetilla said he and his wife, asleep in upstairs quarters in the rear, were awakened by a noise in the store. Zeppetilla got his pistol and found the man at a cash register, from which he had taken a small sum of money. Jefferson surrendered after Zeppetilla fired the shots.

EX-MEMBER SAYS PARTY BOSS IDENTIFIED PROFESSOR AS RED

WASHINGTON, March 30 (UP) —Nathaniel Weyl, admitted former Communist, testified today that Boston university Prof. Maurice Halperin was identified to him as a Communist in 1936.

Halperin, who had a long Government career which included a State Department job and work for a government intelligence project, refused to talk to the Senate Internal Security subcommittee about Communist activity in testimony taken at Boston last week. Elizabeth Bentley had testified previously that Halperin was a member of her World-War II Communist spy ring in Washington.

Weyl told the subcommittee that in 1936 he was told by Homer Brooks, Communist party organizer for the Oklahoma-Texas district, that Halperin—then at the University of Oklahoma—had been accredited to the Communist party of Mexico. Weyl said he met Halperin in Washington in 1942 or 1943 regarding the transfer of an employe when both were employed by the Government.

FATHER KILLS AFFLICTED SON TO PUT END TO HIS SUFFERING

CLIFTON, N.J., March 30 (AP) —A tavern and hotel owner has admitted killing his 5-year-old son because he could "not stand to see him suffer any longer" from cerebral palsy.

Police arrested the father, Albert J. Sell, 44, when they found him in a parked car at a deserted spot near a road yesterday. The body of the black-haired, brown-eyed boy was in the back.

"I shot my boy. He's in the back seat there. I knew the police would find me," Sell was quoted as saying to the officers. Sell will be arraigned today on a murder charge.

The boy, Albert Jr., had been shot through the head. A victim of cerebral palsy since birth, the boy never had been able to talk and had difficulty in walking.

FOUND GUILTY OF OBTAINING $90,000 FROM BANK BY FRAUD

CHICAGO, March 30 (UP) — Alvin Schulz of Indianapolis was found guilty today of obtaining $90,000 from a Chicago bank for a non-existent shipment of steel. Schulz pleaded no contest and United States District Judge Michael L. Igoe set May 1 for disposition of the case, pending a pre-sentence investigation by probation officers.

Schulz, of Sheet Steel Mills, Inc., Indianapolis, was indicted in August 1951 on a charge of obtaining $90,000 from the Harris Trust & Savings Bank for a shipment of 1,320,000 pounds of sheet steel to the Carrier Corp., Syracuse, N. Y.

Elmer W. Simms, of the Simms Motor Transport Lines, was indicted with Schulz on a charge involving transportation of the shipment, but the indictment was dismissed today on the Government's motion.

EISENHOWER HEARS SCOTTISH FRIEND PREACH SERMON

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP) — President Eisenhower did the listening when he met a friend from Scotland in church yesterday.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower heard a sermon by the Rt. Rev. James Hutchison Cockburn, moderator of the Church of Scotland and chaplain to Queen Elizabeth of England.

Eisenhower and Dr. Cockburn met when both received honorary degrees at Yale University in 1948 and again in London when the general commanded North Atlantic Treaty forces.

After the Palm Sunday service in the Georgetown Presbyterian Church, where Dr. Cockburn preached as guest minister, the Eisenhowers and the minister chatted briefly on the church steps.

The small church was full and several hundred persons stood outside to watch the Eisenhowers come and go.

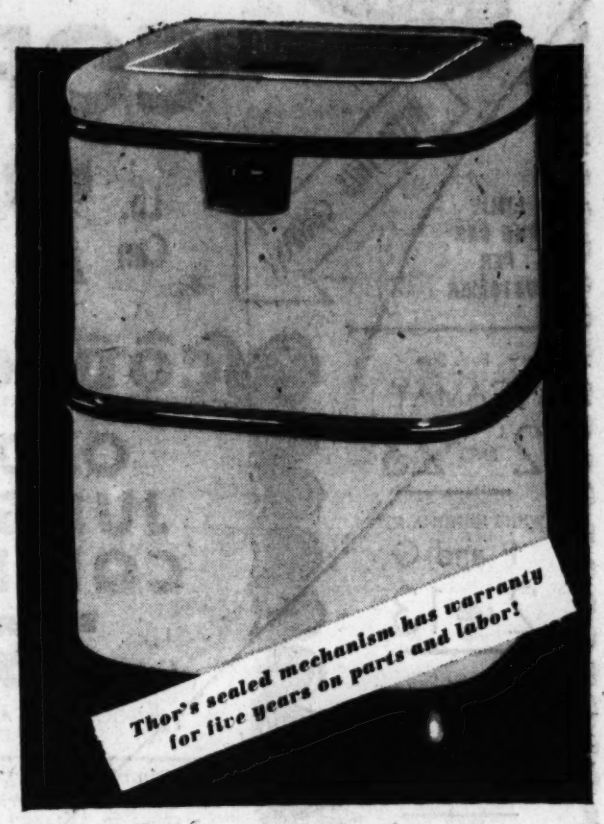

Dr. Cockburn, minister of Dunblane Cathedral, is on a lecture tour in the United States. He was a leader in the World Council of Churches' program for rehabilitation of churches in Europe after World War II.

REUTHER ASSAILS 'NECESSARY EVIL' VIEW OF UNIONISM

Wants Taft Act Repeal, but 'Sees Handwriting' and Will Back Amendment Approach.

By JOSEPH HANLON
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 30 — Walter P. Reuther, president of the CIO and of the CIO United Automobile Workers, led off the labor attack on the Taft-Hartley act today as the Senate Labor Committee began its second week on hearings on proposed changes in the law.

Reuther, accompanied by CIO general counsel Arthur Goldberg, was the only witness to be heard today. Last week the committee listened to industry representatives.

Although still arguing for repeal of the act and substitution of another law closely approaching the Wagner act, Reuther said his organization could "read the handwriting on the wall" and was prepared to support Taft-Hartley amendments that would bring it within the boundaries set by President Eisenhower in campaign speeches that there must be justice and fairness in the law.

There was no pretense that the Administration, or the labor committees in Congress now holding hearings on more than 50 proposed amendments, would agree with Reuther's conception of what would be a fair and just law.

Attacks Many Proposed Changes.

Reuther, in fact, savagely assailed most of the substantial elements of the law as it stands and many of the proposed amendments.

"You can't have free collective bargaining and free democratic unions if you approach this subject of labor relations from the belief that unions are a necessary evil which must be tolerated but which must be kept in their place," he told the committee.

The CIO, he said, was convinced the only fair federal labor relations statute that could be worked out must be based on the proposition that free collective bargaining and the right of workers to join unions of their own choice is sound public policy.

After saying that a fair and just law serving the interests of workers, employers and the public could be written if members of Congress would assume that unions are free voluntary associations as concerned with the public welfare as any member of Congress, Reuther lashed out with what he called a "bill of complaint" against the Taft-Hartley act.

Injunction Theory Denounced.

First, of course, came what he termed the "hated and discredited theory of government by injunction." Here he proposed that the new labor act contain no injunction provision but leave the settlement of disputes to collective bargaining.

He closely approximated one method of dealing with national emergency strikes suggested by Chairman H. Alexander Smith of the Senate committee, who has said there ought to be a variety of methods of dealing with such situations so that neither party to a dispute would know in advance what to expect, but Reuther did not go the whole way with Smith.

What Reuther suggested was that if neither party to a dispute could by law expect government intervention that would favor him there would be genuine collective bargaining. If that failed to end the matter, he said, the President could refer the quarrel to Congress.

Congress, Reuther said, was "always available, and possessed plenary authority to create a tailor-made remedy which will resolve a particular dispute with equity and on its merits."

Deading with other points Reuther called for repeal of the Taft-Hartley prohibition of the closed shop—not a characteristic aspect of CIO contracts even before Taft-Hartley—and of the law's restrictions on union shops, which are and have been the prevalent form of CIO contracts.

This might be taken as an indication of one of two things, either a gesture in favor of the closed shop, which exists in fact if not in name in some American Federation of Labor contracts, or of an approach toward unity of the two big labor organizations, the CIO and the AFL.

Committees of each have been appointed to try to develop some plan for a sort of consolidation of the AFL and CIO. That is something the two groups have talked about for years with no concrete result and the likelihood is that nothing will come of the talks this year.

Textile Union Complaint.

A spokesman for the CIO Textile Workers complained today that a drive to organize Southern textile workers has been brought practically to a "dead halt" under the Taft-Hartley law.

"We don't say that the Taft-Hartley law has been knocking our head off," William Pollock, executive vice president, told the House labor committee. "We're willing to give full credit to the Southern textile manufacturers and the courts, the police, the Chambers of Commerce, the citizens committees and, yes, even the clergymen who are under their control.

"But we do say that Taft-Hartley has pinned our arms to our sides, while providing our enemies with an arsenal of weapons to use against us."

Pollock said the bulk of the 700,000 textile workers who "aren't organized at all" are in the southeastern states, where the union has concentrated its efforts. He said at the present rate it would take more than 50 years to organize them. In the five and one-half years since the Taft-Hartley law was enacted, he said, "we have actually established collective bargaining in the grand total of 24 mills with 7364 workers," he said.

Pollock backed, in general, the CIO's proposals for "drastic" amendments to the law. He said penalties against employers who violate the law should be stiffened.

WEBSTER GROVES EXPLOSION ATTRIBUTED TO GAS MIXTURE

An explosion which leveled a building at the Tret-O-Lite chemical plant in Webster Groves Saturday—and shattered windows for blocks around—is thought to have been caused by a gaseous mixture which formed in a pipeline trench, it was reported today.

W. C. Adams, vice president and plant manager of the firm at 937 East Pacific avenue, said cause of the blast could not be determined definitely but that investigators agreed the gaseous accumulation was the most probable explanation.

About 100 feet of the trench, which carried chemical, water and steam pipes, was destroyed, along with the plant building. The chemicals are non-explosive, Adams said, and the nature of the gas mixture which seemingly formed was not known. Damage was estimated by Adams at about $500,000. The plant will be back in production by midweek, he said.

VANDALS DAMAGE 14 AUTOS IN NORTHWEST ST. LOUIS

Vandals damaged 14 automobiles in northwest St. Louis last night. Police believe they were the same persons who smashed windows in three stores in the area early Saturday and escaped in a car after a police officer fired a shot at them.

Damage to the autos consisted of broken radio aerials, broken rear vision side mirrors and paint scratches. In one case the canvas top of a convertible was slashed.

Autos damaged were in the 5000 block of Claxton avenue, 4800 block of Anderson avenue, 4600 block of Penrose street, 4200 block of Clarence avenue, 4200 block of Holly avenue and 4300 block of Steinlage drive. Windows smashed Saturday were at 4150 North Newstead avenue, 4046 North Newstead and 4149 North Grand boulevard.

EIGHT JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES JAILED AS SPIES BY CZECHS

VIENNA, March 30 (UP)—Eight Jehovah's Witnesses in Czechoslovakia have been sentenced to from five to 18 years in prison for being American spies and traitors, the Prague radio said last night.

The eight defendants were "directed from Brooklyn, New York," and carried out "espionage, warmongering and subversive" activities, the radio said.

The defendants were found guilty by a Prague regional court Friday and Saturday, the Prague radio said.

The official Red Czech news agency said the defendants "carried out subversive activity, incited the people to ignore the peace movement, not to join any mass organization and particularly to refuse to take part in the defense of the state."

The sect has been barred in Czechoslovakia since 1949, said a dispatch broadcast by the Prague radio.

G.O.P. SHOPPING IN EARNEST FOR NEW CHAIRMAN

Party Dispute Possible—Gov. Dewey May Oppose Hall if He Is Contender for Post.

By EDWARD F. WOODS
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 30—The Republican leadership here today began shopping in earnest for a successor to C. Wesley Roberts who on Friday submitted his resignation as chairman of the Republican National Committee after a Kansas legislative investigating committee found him wanting in the matter of an $11,000 "lobbying" fee.

Although there is not yet a single announced candidate for the position there was speculation that the influence of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey with the Administration of President Eisenhower may become a source of contention when the national committee meets here April 10 to select a new chairman.

A hassle between Dewey and anti-Dewey forces within the Republican ranks was foreseen here if Leonard W. Hall, a surrogate judge in New York, advances to the position of an avowed contender for the position.

Hall, Dewey at Odds.

Hall, a former Representative in Congress, has been at odds with Dewey, politically, for many years and Dewey might reasonably be expected to oppose him for national committee chairman. Some forecasters here foresee that Dewey may be impelled to exert his influence with the White House to block Hall's selection, since it is a foregone conclusion that whoever becomes head of the committee will do so only with the approval of Eisenhower.

It was pointed out that note was taken of the political coolness between Dewey and Hall by Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr. Saturday night at a testimonial dinner for Hall at Kings Point, Long Island.

Martin told reporters that "local indorsement" was not necessary for Hall to become national chairman, another way of saying Hall did not require a go-signal from Gov. Dewey.

At the same time, Martin, himself an "anti-Dewey man," said he was going to do everything within his power to see that Hall is named chairman.

Meanwhile, McIntire Faries, chairman of the executive committee of the G.O.P. national committee, has arrived here from California and though his name has been mentioned prominently as a possible successor to Roberts he declined to declare himself in or out of the running for the position.

He asserted that in the selection of a new chairman the principal task of the committee will be to get a man who will immediately take an aggressive attitude toward the 1954 congressional elections, when all of the House seats and one third of the Senate will be at stake.

Constant Turnover.

Faries said he was very much concerned about the "constant turnover" in the G.O.P. chairmanship but added that he did not think his becoming chairman would necessarily be the answer to it.

He said it was not too important from his point of view whether the new chairman came from within the committee or outside of it and that he did not anticipate opposition from any other sources to the selection of a non-committeeman for the position.

The latest name to be advanced as a possibility for the chairmanship is that of Representative Richard Simpson of Pennsylvania, who is chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee. Simpson has publicly displayed no interest in the position but his friends express strong belief he could be "drafted."

Other G.O.P. leaders whose names are believed to be in the hopper for varying consideration for the chairmanship are Barak T. Mattingly of St. Louis, former national committeeman for Missouri; Ralph Gates, Indiana national committeeman; G. Mason Owlett, Pennsylvania committeeman; Walter S. Hallanan, West Virginia committeeman; John W. Danaher, former Senator from Connecticut; Ralph H. Cake, former Oregon committeeman; Victor A. Johnston, now with the Republican senatorial campaign committee; Bayard Ewing, of Rhode Island, unsuccessful candidate for the Senate in the November election; Committeeman Robert K. Goodwin of Iowa; former Senator Fred Seaton of Nebraska, a top Eisenhower campaign adviser; Charles White, an executive of of Republic Steel Corp., and B. E. Hutchinson, former president of the Chrysler Corp.

Roberts notified National Committeemen and the White House that he was leaving the chairmanship a few hours after a Kansas legislative investigating committee reported that he had "deliberately and intentionally violated the 'spirit' of the law."

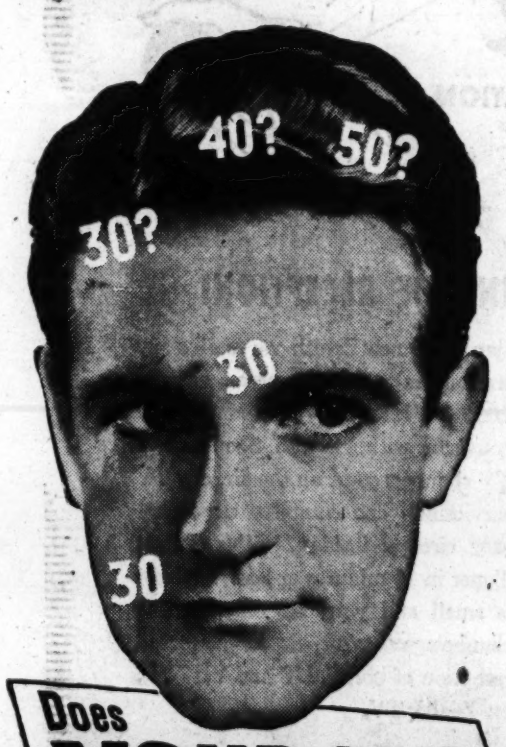

Roberts had been accused of acting as an unregistered lobbyist, in violation of Kansas law, and as an influence peddler, in a real estate transaction with the state of Kansas which brought him a fee of $11,000.

SWARMS OF LOCUSTS AGAIN THREATEN CROPS IN JORDAN

AMMAN, March 30 (AP)—Swarms of locusts again are threatening Jordan's cultivated areas. Moving in from the desert, the insects have started laying their eggs around Amman, Jordan's capital, and in the vicinity of Maan, in south Jordan.

Experts from Egypt, Syria, Lebanon and Kenya met in Maan today with Jordan officials to discuss co-ordinated action against the crop menace.

Turkey also has sent 10 tons of poison for Jordan's aid and specialists from Syria and Lebanon are working with local experts.

DEFENSE RESTS IN PERJURY TRIAL OF E. MERL YOUNG

Defendant Denies He Intentionally Lied to Senate Committee and Grand Jury.

WASHINGTON, March 30 (UP)—The defense rested in the perjury trial of E. Merl Young today with the former Reconstruction Finance Corporation employe insisting he never intentionally lied to a Senate committee and a United States grand jury.

"There was no reason for me to lie to them," he said. "They had all the records. I wouldn't intentionally lie to them."

Young insisted unnder cross-examination that he testified to the best of his recollection in a Senate investigation of the RFC and before the grand jury which returned the perjury indictment.

Attorneys hoped to wind up their closing arguments this afternoon and send the case to a jury of six men and six women by nightfall.

Young testified there was "no significance whatsoever" in the fact that her esigned from the RFC to work for Lustran Corp. on the same date the housing concern got a $10,000,000 RFC loan.

One charge against Young accuses him of swearing falsely to a Senate investigating committee that he never had anything to do with Lustron loan applications while employed by RFC.

The fact that Young's resignation and final approval of the Lustron loan occurred on the same day — July 9, 1948 — was brought out during cross-examination by William A. Paisley, the chief Government prosecutor.

Young said he had been negotiating with Lustron for a job for several weeks, and that his employment by the concern had to be approved by the RFC board of directors.

He also said that his date for going to work for Lustron was July 16, and that the resignation was dated so that he could use leave coming to him.

Under cross-examination, Young stuck to his earlier testimony that he did not intend to deceive Senate investigators or a federal grand jury which investigated the RFC and reported it found "a web of influence" in its operations.

Young said that all his records had been taken over by the investigators and that he had to testify solely from memory. He conceded he made some mistakes, but said they resulted from his inability to refresh his memory from his records.

Young, whose rise from a $25-a-week government messenger before World War II to a $7500-a-year RFC examiner intrigued Senators, went to work for Lustron at $12,000 a year and eventually became an $18,000 vice president before the pre-fabricated housing venture failed, despite more than $35,000,000 worth of Government loans.

63 CHURCHES ACT TO BAR RACE TRACK IN ILLINOIS COUNTY

MOLINE, Ill., March 30 (UP)—Members of 63 Rock Island county Protestant churches were asked yesterday to sign petitions protesting against the proposed establishment of a race track in the area.

The Rev. Arthur T. Clark, head of a ministers's campaign to keep horse racing and pari-mutuel gambling out of the county, said he believed a final count would show at least 6000 church-goers had signed the petition.

Petitions were circulated at services but few ministers actually preached on the subject.

The petition said a race track with gambling would make the county "again a wide open area in which professional gamblers would wield power to corrupt politics and corrupt the character of our people."

Rock Island county borders on the Mississippi river and includes the cities of Rock Island, Moline and East Moline. It had a reputation as a "wide open" area until about four years ago, when a reform movement came into power, the Rev. Mr. Clark said.

"Things have really been closed up since then," he said. "Now the parishoners are really up in arms about this race track business."

The Rev. Mr. Clark said the petitions would be handed over to State's Attorney Bernard J. Moran, who has promised to do "everything in his power" to keep the race track out of the county.

FOUND HANGED AT HIS HOME

The body of Nick Racheff, a retired confectionery store owner, was found yesterday hanging from an electric cord in a closet of his home at 2016 East Adelaide avenue.

The body was discovered by his nephew, Louis Nolfo jr., with whom Mr. and Mrs. Racheff were living temporarily. Nolfo told police Racheff formerly lived in Chicago and had retired following an illness which left him partly paralyzed. Racheff was 55 years old.

INSECT BITE BLAMED IN DEATH OF BOY

Physician Says Child Apparently Was Victim of Black Widow Spider.

William Borgmeyer, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Borgmeyer, St. Charles, died yesterday at St. Joseph's Hospital of poisoning, which an attending physician said probably had been caused by the bite of a black widow spider.

Members of the family reported the boy complained of a sharp pain in his right armpit when he put on an old shirt Saturday morning. Believing there was a pin in the shirt, he removed it and donned another shirt before going out to play.

The arm became sore and began to swell that night. About midnight the father took William to an osteopath, who diagnosed the cause of the swelling as an insect bite.

William became ill in the morning and was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital when an injection of penicillin was administered. He was taken home but again was rushed to the hospital when his condition grew worse. He died shortly after his return to the hospital.

The boy was one of eight children of the Borgmeyers, who live at 1050 South Fourth street. He was a third grade student at St. Peter's Catholic school. Funeral services will be Wednesday at 8 a.m. at St. Peter's Church with burial in the church cemetery.

PASTOR DENOUNCES M'CARTHY FOR DEAL WITH SHIP OWNERS

Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (Rep.), Wisconsin, "should be severely censured" for his efforts to negotiate an agreement with Greek ship owners to reduce shipments to Communist China, the Rev. Dr. Edwin T. Dahlberg, pastor of Delmar Baptist Church, said yesterday in a sermon.

"McCarthy acted without the authorization of the President or the Congress or the State Department, and that is the taking over of a right which legitimately belongs only in the hands of the citizens and their constituted representatives," the Rev. Dr. Dahlberg continued.

"We stand in very grave danger today that in the name of Americanism there should be introduced into our national life the methods and practices of a discarded Fascism," he asserted. The sermon was given at his church at 6195 Washington boulevard.

WOMAN SHELTERS 4 MOTHERS, 16 CHILDREN ROUTED BY FIRE

Four mothers and 16 children, routed from their homes in the pre-dawn chill yesterday by fire at 2307-09 South Tenth street, found sanctuary at the home of a neighbor, Mrs. Betty W. Steller, 2302A Menard street.

Awakened by the sirens of fire equipment, Mrs. Steller, child welfare chairman for Broadway Memorial Post No. 244 of the American Legion Auxiliary, found children huddled in blankets, bare-footed and shivering, in the yard of their five-family residence.

She quickly led the mothers and children, who ranged from 6 weeks to 15 years of age, to her own three-room apartment. There she served coffee and hot milk, then arranged to get clothing and food from American Legion and church sources. The fire, which started in a third-floor apartment, caused $375 damage.

ETHICAL SOCIETY SPEAKER FOR RECOGNIZING RED CHINA

Recognition by the United States of Communist China, "which has succeeded just to the extent that it is not Communism," was urged here yesterday by A. Eustace Haydon, leader of the Chicago Ethical Society.

"Opposition to Communism in China does not mean support of liberalism and democracy, but the giving of American backing to reactionaries, landlords, usurers and exploiters of the people," Haydon, professor emeritus of history of religions at the University of Chicago, said. He spoke before the St. Louis Ethical Society at Sheldon Auditorium, 3646 Washington boulevard.

"When we oppose Communism in China, we may be setting ourselves against liberal principles which Americans have long approved," Haydon asserted. "We find ourselves in uncomfortable alliance with Syngman Rhee in Korea, Bao Dai in Indochina, and Chiang Kai-shek in Formosa," he said.

FRENCH PREMIER, AIDS IN CANADA FOR TALKS

Mayer Calls Visit 'Friendly Call' to Discuss 'Great Problems.'

OTTAWA, March 30 (AP) — France's Premier Rene Mayer and key members of his cabinet carried their American talking tour today to Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent and members of his government.

Mayer, accompanied by his Finance Minister, Maurice Bourges-Maunoury, arrived yesterday by Royal Canadian Air Force plane from Washington, where they conferred last week with President Eisenhower and his aids. French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault arrived in Canada Saturday night, ahead of his chief.

What they will talk about here was not announced. Mayer described his visit as a "friendly call" to strengthen Canadian-French ties and to discuss "the great problems that face the democratic nations."

There was some speculation Mayer would discuss shipments of military supplies which Canada is furnishing Allies in the North Atlantic pact.

The situation in the Far East was expected to bulk large in the conferences, particularly in view of a joint French-American announcement after the Washington talks that those two governments would view a Chinese Communist attack outside Korea as a violation of any Korean armistice that might be reached.

Jean Letourneau, French Minister to the Associated States of Indochina, remained in Washington for State Department talks today and tomorrow on a stepping up of the Indochinese war.

JET PLANE SERVICE PLANNED FROM AUSTRALIA TO HAWAII

SYDNEY, Australia (UP) — A Canadian flag-carrier will inaugurate the first commercial jet airliner service to North American territory on April 28 when scheduled flights begin between Sydney and Honolulu, using the famed British Comet.

Hawaiians will be the first North Americans to see regular commercial air service by jet-liners, to be operated by Canadian Pacific Airlines.

Between Honolulu and Vancouver, Canadian Pacific will use new Douglas DC6B four-engined planes because the Comet Mark 1-A cannot carry an economical load more than the 2730-mile hop.

WORLD OUTPUT UP 2 PCT. FOR 1952; NEW RECORD SET

Income More Unevenly Distributed Among Nations Now Than Before War, U.N. Reports.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., March 30 (UP)—World production hit a new high last year, but world income is now even more unequally distributed among nations than before the war, the United Nations world economic report for 1951-52 said today.

Industrial and agricultural production showed a 2 per cent increase over the previous year, but food production rose only 1 per cent, barely keeping up with population increases, the report said.

High percentage increases in industrial production were reported for countries with "centrally planned economies," including the Soviet satellites in Europe and Communist China. Military expansion in the eastern European countries caused the output of heavy industries to rise faster than the production of consumer industries.

The report, based on official data from governments, is designed to aid the U.N. Economic and Social Council in evaluating the world economic situation and making appropriate recommendations.

Total national production in the industrialized countries of North America and Western Europe rose on the average from 1951 to 1952 by 2 per cent, according to the report. Although world production reached a new high last year, the report notes that the rate of increase has fallen off considerably.

The report said an expansion in the world supply of dollars could result from "a rise in economic activity in the United States, an easing of tariff barriers, and increased long-term capital loans." It said the most important single symptom of the unequal world economic situation "is the inability of most countries to balance their accounts with the United States."

East-West trade has declined by one-half since prewar years, but the volume of trade among the Iron Curtain countries of Europe and mainland China continues to grow, the report said.

A United States delegation spokesman said that the findings will get close scrutiny to see whether actual production results or only announced goals were used to reach conclusions about conditions in Red countries.

The report, quoting "official figures" published early in January in Communist Chinese newspapers, says China's industrial production increased at an average rate of about 30 per cent a year, between 1950 and 1952, calculated on the basis of the output of 35 major industrial products.

Similar glowing reports about state-planned economies were criticized by western observers at recent Geneva meetings of the U.N. Economic Commission for Europe.

TEAMSTERS LOCAL NO. 632 VOTES TO MERGE WITH NO. 600

Members of Teamsters Local 632 voted yesterday to confirm a merger of their union with Teamsters Local 600, with the consolidated unit to be known as Local 600.

The consolidation brings all freight truck drivers and handlers together to form one of the largest local unions in the city, with a membership of 5500 to 6000. Previously the freight handlers in Local 632, approved the consolidation, but objected to their local's loss of identity. Local 600 was formed in 1903, Local 632 in 1947.

Thomas E. Flynn, international union representative sent here to regroup the teamsters local unions, following reports that gangsters were infiltrating several of the unions, addressed yesterday's meeting at 4141 Forest Park avenue. Flynn explained that the merger would strengthen the teamsters' position in St. Louis.

Its object is to draft a plan for an international organization devoted to nuclear study and to work out details of how the nations involved would share costs.

"The Report Nobody Knows"

15 PAGES OF FACTS ABOUT THE CURIOUS FINANCIAL OPERATIONS OF—

SEN. JOE McCARTHY

The NEW REPUBLIC scoops the nation's press in its March 30 issue, now on sale—by reprinting the major portions of the "lost" Senate report on the private financial history of Joe McCarthy.

This report, dated January 2, 1953, is Washington's most cherished "collector's item"—for of the entire edition of 2,500 copies (printed at Government expense) not a single copy seems to be available to the public. As Senator Charles W. Tobey remarked on March 22, "You can't get a copy to save your soul."

This issue of the NEW REPUBLIC is of intense interest to every American who wants the FACTS uncovered by the investigators of "McCarthy the Investigator" (and since then unaccountably pigeonholed)—FACTS about Joe McCarthy's loans, debts, savings accounts and stock market dealings—and his refusal to appear before his own Senate colleagues to answer questions.

ALSO IN THE MARCH 30 ISSUE:

(which is, incidentally, the New Republic's 2000th consecutive issue)

"'CITIZEN' ADLAI IN JAPAN"

First of A Series of Eight "On The Spot" reports of Gov. Stevenson's Travels

Whom he is seeing—what he is saying and what he is hearing. Later reports will be from Korea, Formosa, Indonesia, Burma, India, Pakistan, and Israel.

GET THEM ALL—ANOTHER NEW REPUBLIC EXCLUSIVE!

Special $1 SEND ONLY for 10 issues (regular subscription $6.50 per year)

RED-LED RIOTING IN ITALY FOLLOWS LIMITED STRIKE

1000 Demonstrators in Rome Are Arrested — Communists Protest Against Vote Bill.

ROME, March 30 (AP)—Communists, angry at a legislative setback, provoked riots tonight in cities down the length of the Italian peninsula. Police quickly samshed the outbursts and hauled thousands of demonstrators into custody.

At least 1000 persons were arrested in Rome. Scores were injured. One fatality was reported—a policeman killed when his riot jeep overturned while racing toward a demonstration.

The police and Red demonstrators fought with clubs and stones in the streets. The mobs smashed two police jeeps.

The rioting followed a largely unsuccessful Communist call for a 16-hour nation-wide strike, the outgrowth of Red anger at being out-voted and out-slugged in a turbulent weekend legislative session. They were protesting against Premier Alcide de Gasperi's new election law.

The Communist-dominated Italian Federation of Labor called the walkout in "indignation" at Senate approval yesterday of the new election measure. The bill cleared the upper house after a wild free-for-all in which Senators were slugged, chairs and desks smashed and a woman senator slapped a male opponent.

The legislation, expected to swell De Gasperi's Government majority after general elections next June, now goes to President Luigi Einaudi to be signed into law.

Motorized police and Army troops patrolled the major Italian cities today to forestall strike violence.

Most public streetcars and busses failed to run early today and thousands walked to work, but the Government mustered emergency transport, including Army trucks.

The Senate vote came after a 78-hour Communist filibuster, a record-breaker for the Italian Parliament.

Votes were cast in a riot of desk smashing, shoving, shouting and slugging. There were 174 ballots for the Government and three abstentions. The rest of the 330 senators, including 68 Communists ad 41 pro-Red Socialists, didn't quit swinging long enough to vote.

The new law would be unfavorable to the Communists and their bloc in the coming elections. It increases the number of seats in the Chamber of Deputies from 574 to 590. Of these 380 will be awarded automatically to the party or coalition of parties which receives 50.01 per cent or more of the total popular vote.

NEIGHBOR SHOT BY ANOTHER OVER CHILDREN'S QUARREL

Wilburn R. Leonard, a dock foreman for a trucking firm, 2029A Madison street, was shot in the right thigh with a rifle yesterday by a neighbor in a quarrel begun by their children.

Leonard went to the home of Raymond Eldridge, 2027 Madison street, to remonstrate after his daughter, Judith Ann, 9 years old, reported that Eldridge's stepson, Paul Wayne, 6, had fired at her with a BB gun. At City Hospital later Leonard told officers that Eldridge became abusive, grabbed a .22-caliber rifle and shot him.

Eldridge, booked for discharging firearms and suspected of assault with intent to kill, said he fired after Leonard threatened him and seized him by the shirt.

The principal speaker will be United States Senator Robert S. Kerr (Dem.), Oklahoma, who will reach Springfield early Saturday for a reception at the Colonial Hotel between 3 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. Gov. Phil M. Donnelly and most state officers will be present at the reception.

STORE IS ROBBED OF $600

Burglars stole $600 from a drawer in a shoe store at 1036 Franklin avenue over the weekend, the proprietor, Herbert Brown, reported to police today.

Brown told police the burglars apparently sawed a bar from a rear window, smashed a pane of glass and unlocked it. The money was kept in a canvas sack in the drawer, he said.

YOUTH GETS 11 YEARS FOR GANG MURDER

Pleads Guilty in Shooting of Teen-Ager Attempting to Flee After Being Halted.

Malvin Saunders, 16-year-old sophomore at Sumner High School, was sentenced to 11 years in the state penitentiary by Circuit Judge Waldo C. Mayfield today on his plea of guilty of second-degree murder in a Negro youth's gang shooting last Sept. 14.

Saunders, 3457 Lawton boulevard, admitted firing two shots with a revolver at James Berry, 18, a Negro, 1550 Lovejoy lane, on a sidewalk at Sarah street and Evans avenue.

Police reported Saunders was one of a group of youths who accosted Berry and a companion and demanded to know whether they were "Downtown Turks." The shots were fired as Berry turned to run awawy after denying he was a "Turk."

The case had been certified to criminal court by juvenile court because of the seriousness of the offense.

A similar charge against a 15-year-old boy, who was in the group with Saunders, was dismissed at the same time by Assistant Circuit Attorney George W. Draper II, who told Circuit Judge Michael J. Scott that investigation showed the boy had not participated in the affray.

The shooting was one of a series in a flare-up of fighting between youths' gangs.

DRAFT ORDER FOR PHYSICIAN CANCELED AFTER MIXUP

A draft order for Dr. Lon B. Klink, young St. Charles physician, who was to have entered service today as a private, has been canceled, it was announced, after Dr. Klink received a medical commission in the Army.

Dr. Klink, 25 years old, is from Sedalia, but has been connected with the St. Charles Clinic since last July. The draft mixup occurred when he failed to receive the necessary forms for a commission offered some time ago.

The papers arrived last week, and Dr. Klink is now awaiting results of his physical examination. Meanwhile, the Sedalia draft board canceled the induction order.

Fire which broke out in a trailer truck at Gateway Transportation Co., 512 South Sixth street, coused damage estimated at $3100 yesterday. Coals from a charcoal salamander in the truck apparently started the blaze.

Spreading rapidly, the fire caused $2500 damage to the truck and its general merchandise contents, $300 to three other trucks, and $300 to adjacent loading docks.

MAN WHO FIRED AT LOITERER IDENTIFIES WOUNDED SUSPECT

Joseph Thurman, 28 years old, was identified by Robert Breen, 273 Plaza drive, as the man he shot and wounded seriously last night when Breen answered the doorbell at his apartment and saw Thurman loitering in the hallway.

The shooting climaxed a series of annoyances, which began Friday when Mrs. Breen's purse was snatched by a Negro. The purse contained Breen's unlisted telephone number. Subsequently Mrs. Breen received telephone calls from a man, who asked to "make dates," and discussed the return of the purse. Breen, a salesman, notified police. When an officer was stationed at the apartment the man telephoned and chided Breen for going to police.

Thurman, a Negro, who gave an address in the 4200 block of Enright avenue, was found wounded in the chest in the basement of an apartment house at 5355 Pershing avenue an hour after the shooting. Breen's home is a short distance away. Thurman, in serious condition in Homer G. Phillips Hospital, denied having gone to the Breen home.

INSTRUCTIONS TO VOTERS

On receipt of this ballot the voter shall forthwith, and without leaving the enclosed space, retire alone to one of the voting booths so provided, and shall prepare his ballot for voting in the following manner: Should the voter desire to vote a "straight" party ticket he shall place a cross (X) mark in the circle immediately below the party name. If the voter desires to vote for one or more candidates on more than one party ticket, by voting what is commonly called a "split ticket" he may place a cross (X) mark in the circle immediately below one party name and mark cross (X) marks in the squares at the left of the names of candidates on other tickets for whom he wishes to vote. If the voter desires to vote for one or more candidates whose name or names do not appear on the printed ballot, he may do so by drawing a line through the printed name of candidate for such office, and writing below such canceled name the name of person for whom he desires to vote, and placing a cross mark in the square at the left of such name. The squares so marked shall take precedence over the cross marked in the circle. Where there are two or more candidates for like offices in a group a cross (X) mark in the square to the left of a candidate's name, automatically votes against the candidate whose name appears within the same horizontal lines in the column under the circle in which appears the cross (X) mark unless the voter indicates another candidate, to be voted against by drawing a line through such candidate's name. All candidates of the party whose circle is marked shall be counted as voted for except where squares are crossed preceding the names of the candidates in other columns; if two or more candidates for the same office are thus designated, neither shall be counted. If the cross (X) is not placed in the circle immediately below the party name at the head of the column; but does appear in the squares opposite the various candidates' names, then only these names shall be counted for, and none other. A cross (X) mark is any line crossing any other line at any angle within the voting space, and no ballot shall be declared void because a cross (X) mark therein is irregular in form. It shall not be lawful to deface or tear a ballot in any manner nor to erase any printed name "except as provided above in this section," figure, word or letter therefrom, nor to erase any mark made thereon by such voter, nor inclose in the folded ballot any other paper or any article. If the voter deface or tear a ballot, or wrongly mark the name or make an erasure therein, he may obtain one additional ballot on returning to a judge in charge of the ballots the one so defaced or wrongly marked. A ballot placed in the ballot box without any marks shall not be counted. Ballots shall be counted only for the person for whom the marks thereon are applicable; when a voter shall place a mark against two or more names for the same office, and only one candidate is to be chosen for the office none of the candidates shall be deemed to have been voted for and the ballots shall not be counted for either such candidate. Before leaving the booth the voter shall fold his ballot in such a manner as to conceal his marks thereon. He shall mark his ballot without undue delay. He shall then hand the ballot to the judge of election selected to take ballots, who shall number the ballot, place over the number and paste down a black sticker so as to conceal but not destroy the number, and deposit it in the ballot box. The voter shall quit and leave said enclosed place as soon as possible.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the undersigned, composing the Board of Election Commissioners for the City of St. Louis, Missouri, have caused this notice to be signed and the official seal of the office affixed at office in St. Louis, this 20th day of March, 1953.

TITO SAYS SOVIET AGGRESSION IS LESS PROBABLE

Yugoslav Head Thinks Stalin's Death Decreases Real Possibility of Such a Policy.

SPLIT, Yugoslavia, March 30 (AP)—President Josip (Tito) Broz of Yugoslavia said today that the "real possibilities of an aggressive policy" by Russia "have been somewhat decreased since Stalin's death."

His opinion was voiced at a brief press conference shortly after arriving at this Adriatic seaport aboard the Yugoslav training ship Galeb following a visit to Britain—his first outside Yugoslavia since this country's break with the Soviet-led Cominform.

Resplendent in a scarlet and gold-trim blue uniform and deeply sun-tanned by his voyage, Tito was welcomed by thousands who chanted "Hero Tito!" and "We are Tito's—Tito is ours!"

He spoke to the crowd from a specially constructed rostrum, reporting in general terms on the success of his mission to Britain and on the prospects of greater co-operation between the two countries, economically.

A few hours before Tito's arrival home, the Yugoslav Government officially gave its peasants a chance to withdraw from state-operated co-operative farms and till the soil independently.

A formal decree by the Central Executive Council spelling out the procedure for those desiring to quit the co-operatives was published in the provincial edition of Borba, the Communist party organ.

The decree marked a major victory by the country's peasants in their long struggle to resist state domination.

It also marked another major step by Tito's anti-Cominform state away from Moscow's version of Communism. Soviet pronouncements in recent months have forecast increased state control of Russian agriculture.

One major feature of the decree was the clause permitting peasants withdrawing from co-operatives to take with them property they contributed upon entering the group, some of them admittedly under pressure. In cases where withdrawal of land would damage a co-operative the peasant would be compensated with other land of equal value, the decree specified.

As outlined in the decree, future co-operatives will be governed by regulations drafted by the members themselves. Those who choose to remain in co-operatives or those who join later will be required to sign three-year contracts.

The move to loosen the tightly regulated co-operative system had been forecast earlier in semi-official quarters.

An announcement in Borba yesterday by Vice President Edvard Kardelj made it clear the latest step does not mean the government is relaxing completely its controls over farm production.

Kardelj, acting chief of state in Tito's absence, said total crop production still will be fixed by the government and thus prices will be controlled indirectly. The government also will control farm credits, making it possible to reward co-operatives for good efforts.

4 YOUTHS HELD FOR HOLDUP ADMIT SERIES OF CRIMES

Four youths, arrested yesterday for the holdup of a filling station Saturday, have admitted to police they committed another holdup, four automobile thefts and two burglaries in the past three weeks.

Police said the youth, two of whom are 17 years old, one 16 and the other 18, would use a stolen auto in the holdups and burglaries, later abandoning the machine and escaping in an auto owned by one of them.

They were arrested for the holdup of a filling station at 733 South Vandeventer avenue and admitted the holdup of another filling station March 13 at 2800 North Florissant avenue and the burglaries of a tavern at 5312 St. Louis avenue on March 9 and a confectionery at 5306 St. Louis on March 20.

Flashes of Life

Flaming Youth.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Police said a 5-year-old boy took a taxicab from a parking lot late Saturday, drove it a block and crashed against the Dixie Court Hotel when he tried to turn the corner.

The boy fled the wreckage on foot but was caught four or five blocks away and taken to police headquarters where juvenile authorities and his parents took charge.

Only minor damage was caused the hotel but damage to the taxicab was estimated at $150.

No Job for Young Man.

SPRING VALLEY, N.Y. (AP)—Too old under state law, 72-year-old Frank Eckerson has to give up next week the job of village clerk, which he has held for 20 years.

While a younger and stronger man takes over the paper work of the clerk's job, Eckerson doesn't plan to be idle. Now he'll be able to devote his full time to his other job—as a blacksmith.

And No Accessories.

MADISON, Wis. (UP)—Dane county traffic officers yesterday found what remained of a 1953 Cadillac automobile.

Missing from the hard-top, which had only 559 miles registered, were: The engine, radiator, transmission, radio, headlights, left front parking light, and the front and rear emblems.

FORMER CONVICT REPORTED IDENTIFIED IN TWO HOLDUPS

Robert E. Burns, former convict, arrested Saturday at his home on Foxcroft drive, in South St. Louis county, has been identified in two holdups in the city, police announced today. He is to be viewed by victims of more than 10 other robberies.

Burns, 22 years old, was identified, officers said, in the $2000 holdup of the Melcher-Schene Hardware & Lumber Co., 4800 Natural Bridge avenue, March 21, and in the robbery of a drug store at 3201 Ivanhoe avenue last month, in which several hundred dollars was taken. Witnesses in other robberies had identified a police picture of him, and now will view him.

Held at Clayton on an old warrant naming him in a $60 delicatessen holdup, Burns is to be questioned about the robbery of the Famous-Barr Co. Clayton store last month, in which Miss Mabel Troy, a cashier, was shot and wounded. The company has offered $1000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the two robbers.

RABBI ISSERMAN CRITICIZES STATE CARE OF MENTALLY ILL

Many persons in Missouri suffering from mental illness could be cured but are not because of incompetent personnel and understaffed institutions, Rabbi Ferdinand M. Isserman declared yesterday in a Jewish service on Post-Dispatch Station KSD.

Because of the great advance made in treatment of the mentally ill in nearby states of Kansas, Illinois, Iowa and Minnesota, "the heads of Missouri institutions cannot compete for skilled personnel," Rabbi Isserman said.

As a result patients in our mental hospitals are treated "as lepers were in other civilizations," he said.

AUTO STRIKES BRIDGE GIRDER, DRIVER KILLED

Three Passengers Are Injured, One Seriously, in Mishap on McKinley Span.

One man was killed and three other persons were injured, one seriously, when an automobile in which they were riding rammed a steel girder on McKinley bridge early yesterday.

The dead man was William Finney, Negro clerk, 4280 Labadie avenue, driver of the machine. Police said he apparently failed to see the girder in the middle of the bridge several hundred feet east of the west toll station. The machine was westbound.

Injured were Miss Corinne Anderson, 3427 Franklin avenue, who suffered a broken left leg and head injury; Olden Vaughn, 3428 Franklin, knee abrasions, and Miss Nina Johnson, 3428 Franklin, leg cuts. They were taken to Homer G. Phillips Hospital. Vaughn and Miss Johnson were released after treatment.

BILL TO STOP DOGS BARKING KILLED IN ST. CHARLES

The trouble was, barking dogs never read city ordinances.

So St. Charles Mayor Henry Vogt, and a city council committee, killed a clause in a proposed ordinance which would hold owners of noisy dogs guilty of a misdemeanor, it was reported today.

Veto of the barking bill came after many St. Charles residents sent up howls of protest about the clause. They contended it was impossible to legislate against a dog's bark and Mayor Vogt, who felt there were already plenty of ordinances to prosecute in such cases, agreed.

The Mayor added: "Such legislation might lead to requests for laws against singing birds or pecking woodpeckers." St. Charles dogs, unperturbed throughout the discussion of legal aspects, continued to woof away.

COLE ASSERTS TRUMAN KNEW LITTLE OF ATOMIC MATTERS

WASHINGTON, March 30 (UP)—Representative W. Sterling Cole (Rep.), New York, said last night that former President Truman "didn't know what he was talking about" when he expressed doubts Russia had a workable atomic bomb.

Cole, a member of the joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee, said Truman "did not take much personal interest in atomic matters." Cole made the statement in a radio interview with Gannett News Service.

"His personal knowledge of the subject was quite limited—something that has been apparent from other statements he has made in the past," Cole said. "His suggestion that Russia might not have the atomic bomb is, of course, utterly false."

PRICE U.S. GOT FOR PLANT LESS THAN YEAR'S RENT

Representative Says Plane Factory in California Was Practically Given Away.

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP) —A Government agency was criticized today for selling for $1,050,000 a San Diego (Calif.), airplane plant which now rents for more than that amount yearly.

The criticism was made by Chairman Cunningham (Rep.), Iowa, of a House Armed Services subcommittee. It is considering a request by the Air Force for permission to buy the property, now leased by Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corp. in San Diego to build the F-102 Intercepter plane.

Undersecretary of Air Force James H. Douglas told the committee rents would amount to $8,800,000 in five and one-half years, while estimates indicate that the property might be purchased or acquired by condemnation for $5,000,000.

The property was sold by the Government as war surplus in 1947 to C. W. Carlstrom for $1,050,000.

Since 1947, the subcommittee was informed, Carlstrom has sold parts of the property for about $3,000,000 and estimates its present value at $15,000,000.

Representative Hardy (Dem.), Virginia, a subcommittee member, said he takes the position that if the owners are insisting on too high a price, the Air Forc should go lswhr to manufacture the plane.

Douglas said it is desirable that Convair, which designed the plane in its San Diego plant, proceed with its manufacture there. Moving the manufacturing site would mean "major delay," he added.

Cunningham said the War Assets Administration had practically given away the plant in 1947.

Carlstrom will be given a chance to present his position to the subcommittee tomorrow. He told a Senate subcommittee Friday the Governmen'ts appraisal estimates are much too low and said he would be willing to lease the plant to the Air Force at less than market value.

Arthur C. Eddy, assistant county assessor of San Diego county, said the land and buildings at the plant are assessed at $3,400,000 for tax purposes. Tax valuations in the county, he said, are running about 34 per cent of actual sales prices.

He asked the committee to consider some kind of payments in lieu of taxes if the Air Force buys the property to prevent further encroachment of the county's tax base.

THREE ST. LOUIS ARTISTS IN WEST COAST EXHIBITION

Three artists who teach at Washington University are represented by prints in a national exhibition that opened today in Los Angeles. They are Fred Becker, instructor in print-making, Werner Drewes and Charles Quest.

Becker contributes "Interruptions," a color intaglio print, and "The Crusaders," an engraving; Drewes, a color woodcut, "Pensive," and Quest a wood engraving, "Composition."

The show, sponsored by the University of Southern California, includes 140 prints chosen from 500 entries submitted from all parts of the country. It will close May 3.

P.S. CO. LOAN PLAN FOR BUYING OF 100 BUSSES APPROVED

The Missouri Public Service Commission approved today the proposal of St. Louis Public Service Co. toborrow $1,800,000 to buy 100 new busses.

Total cost of the busses will be $2,200,000 but the company announced it was prepared to pay the difference in cash. Four St. Louis banks have agreed to give the utility a joint loan for the $1,800,000 payable in six years through equal monthly installments with interest of 3½ per cent.

The Public Service Co. said the 50-passenger busses were needed to supply adequate transportation for St. Louis.

ARSON SQUAD INVESTIGATES SMALL FIRE AT AMES SCHOOL

A teacher's desk was destroyed by a small fire last night at Ames school, 1313 Hebert street, apparently started by vandals. Damage was estimated at $100.

Arson squad members and the fire marshal's office today continued investigation of the fire, which was reported by a passerby and put out by firemen in a short time. Police said entrance was gained by breaking a pane of glass in a side door. The desk of Miss Esther Green, second-grade teacher, was destroyed, a piano nearby partly scorched, and wall furnishings and pictures burned near the desk. The blaze was confined to her classroom.

An empty can which had contained lighter fluid was found near the desk, and other rooms showed evidence of prowlers, although nothing was reported stolen, police said.

SOCIAL WORKERS DISAPPROVE OPENING AID ROLLS TO PUBLIC

The St. Louis Chapter of the American Association of Social Workers today voiced disapproval in a letter to Gov. Phil M. Donnelly, of a law signed March 17 which opened state relief rolls to public inspection.

The chapter, representing more than 300 professional social workers in the metropolitan area, protested on ethical grounds the "subtle undermining of the security and self-respect of our less fortunate citizens."

As an economy measure the bill was attacked as futile. Arkansas, Illinois and Indiana were cited as reporting no greater reduction in relief expenditures after opening their rolls than in states keeping the names confidential.

ST. LOUIS WOMAN WON $1200 ON IRISH SWEEPSTAKES TICKET

Miss Marie F. Gleason, 4433 Pershing avenue, won $1200, less tax, on an Irish Sweepstakes ticket she bought from a real estate office co-worker, she said today.

The Irish Hospital Trust informed Miss Gleason that she drew the horse, Larry Finn, for the running last Saturday. Her horse didn't come in but a letter explained she is to receive the sum of 420 pounds, or one-thirty-sixth of a "pot" for those who drew names of horses in the runing.

Miss Gleason will share her winnings with a nephew, Mark Kenny, whose name she wrote in on her ticket.

Stevenson and His Four Advisers Are Studiously Hunting Answers To Complex Problems in Asia

Democratic Leader Trying to Evolve Constructive and Responsible Alternatives to Eisenhower Policy Without Petty Fault-Finding.

By ALBERT RAVENHOLT
The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright 1953.

HONG KONG, March 30.

ADLAI E. STEVENSON has embarked upon his new role as leader of the "constructive opposition" by first seeking an answer to the thorniest problem confronting the United States abroad.

It is the question of what to do next in Korea, Formosa strait and wherever America and its allies encounter the revolutionary power of Communist China.

Stevenson's success may determine whether the Democratic party now can rise to the challenge and offer the American people meaningful alternatives by which to judge the foreign policy of the Eisenhower Administration.

Stevenson wants to avoid permitting the opposition to degenerate into petty fault-finding and vindictive personal attacks.

The major conclusion he seems to have arrived at so far is that he was right during the campaign in opposing the enlargement of the Korean war and calling for defense and development as necessary joint features of American policy in the Far East.

Meanwhile, Stevenson's fact-finding trip through Asia is emphasizing one of America's major national handicaps. This is the failure of its political parties to develop the staff of trained specialists needed to evolve policies that take account of America's world-wide involvement.

Stevenson's Team.

Stevenson is accompanied by four companions who work with him as a team, each exploring particular problems and rejoining the group for general discussions. They are his special assistant William McCormick Blair Jr.; University of Chicago history department chairman Walter Johnson; Louisville Courier-Journal & Times publisher Barry Bingham, and Look Magazine foreign editor William Attwood.

The group, now in the third week of the Far Eastern stretch of its trip, has visited Japan, Korea, Formosa, Hong Kong and Manila.

In Japan, Stevenson visited with government officials, political leaders and intellectuals. He breakfasted with college students, had tea in their temple with Buddhist abbot and monks, saw the inside of a textile factory and explored conditions among Japanese farmers in rural villages.

Near Pusan, Korea, Stevenson saw prison camps and visited ROK training centers on the island of Chedyo.

The party's chief investigator, Prof. Johnson, interviewed Korean educators, officials of the United Nations Korean rehabilitation administration and American specialists.

Visits with American, British Commonwealth, ROK and other United Nations troops, talks with Gen. Maxwell Taylor and his staff, and a day with the United States Navy on Korea's east coast helped brief the party on the Korean struggle.

During a two-day stopover in Formosa, Stevenson heard Chiang Kai-shek's views on Chinese Nationalist intentions, hopes and needs. He also saw other senior nationalists and their troops. He visited the countryside with the Chinese-American joint commission on rural reconstruction which has so successfully improved the life of Formosan farmers.

In Hong Kong, March 22, the Stevenson party was largely concerned with learning the trend of events in Communist China. While other members of his party interviewed Britishers, Americans and others here, Stevenson visited the British defenses facing Communist China in the new territories.

The man, who during last autumn's American presidential campaign set a new tone for political campaigning with his polished phrases and quick wit, has been very cautious in all his statements since arriving in this region. This partly reflects Stevenson's own hesitation in the face of a mass of impressions, personalities and sometimes conflicting information with which he is confronted.

Sense of Responsibility.

It also reflects his unusual sense of responsibility. He seems to recognize far more than the great majority of American political leaders who have visited here the manner in which Asians may interpret his remarks.

The Stevenson group's search for non-official information avoids official receptions and briefings of the type all too common in such studies.

The unusual approach of the Stevenson team, however, cannot set aside the fact that in a couple of months its members are seeking to master enormous complex problems that confront Asia and American relations. Half of the human race lives in Asia.

It is doubtful if any group of men could accomplish this fully in such a short time. And yet if the Democrats are to become a responsible opposition their spokesmen must comprehend the essential nature of the problems in which the United States is involved around the globe.

Out of the Stevenson tour is developing a suggestion that both major American parties develop staffs of specialists to advise party leaders on problems abroad. Only in this way, it is reasoned, could adequate debate be joined.

Quirino Bitter At 'Meddling' Of U.S. Envoy

Filipino President Says Ambassador Is Siding With the Opposition.

MANILA, March 30 (AP).

PRESIDENT ELPIDIO QUIRINO has accused the United States Embassy of "siding with the Nacionalistas," the opposition political party, and "meddling" in Philippine politics.

The President made the accusation yesterday in an informal meeting with reporters in Baguio, a mountain resort north of Manila.

He cited as an example a recent dinner given by Ambassador Raymond A. Spruance for Adlai Stevenson. Quirino said it was attended by nine Nacionalistas and only one Liberal (administration) party member.

In another administration move, Representative Diosdado Macapagagal, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, accused the American Embassy of "undue interference with the political struggle" in the country.

Magazine Article.

The President's press office issued a reprint of a magazine article which said "United States Embassy and Army officials" were trying to "foist a 'man on horseback' on the Filipinos" in the presidential elections in November. Although former defense secretary Ramon Magsaysay was not named, the article left no doubt as to who was meant. The press office said the article appeared in the Feb. 25 issue of Bataan, described as a privately-owned Filipino magazine issued in Washington, D.C.

House Speaker Eugenio Perez, who was present at Quirino's press conference, challenged Spruance to "clarify" reports he was keeping a document guaranteeing that Magsaysay would be nominated as the Nacionalista party presidential candidate.

This agreement supposedly was between Spruance, former President Jose Laurel, Nacionalista leader; Senator Claro Recto and Magsaysay. Magsaysay recently resigned as defense minister.

Spruance today issued a statement emphasizing that the United States Embassy would observe "strict neutrality" toward the forthcoming presidential campaign, but otherwise refusing to comment. The embassy said, however, that otne liberal who was invited declined to attend the affair.

Quirino's Complaint.

Quirino, elaborating, said: "Now why did the American Embassy go out of its way to round up all these Nacionalista leaders to meet Stevenson?"

The President said he was curious why no Liberal outside of Foreign Secretary Joaquin Elizalde had been invited to the dinner so that Stevenson could round out his appraisal of conditions here. Stevenson is here on a world tour.

Quirino said he was "particularly irked" at the seating arrangement at the dinner. Stevenson, he said, was surrounded by Nacionalista leaders headed by Senators Laurel and Recto, and Magsaysay.

Recto said, however, he had not been invited to the dinner and was not present.

Trumans Arrive in Hawaii, 'Sleep And Rest' Head Their Program

Wife of Republican Governor Drapes Lei Around Neck of Ex-President—Family to Stay at Pauley Estate.

HONOLULU, March 30 (UP).

FORMER PRESIDENT HARRY S. TRUMAN and his family moved to tiny Coconut island near here today on their vacation in hope of getting "as much sleep and rest as possible."

Truman, his wife, Bess, and daughter, Margaret, arrived here yesterday aboard the liner President Cleveland and were given a warm typically Hawaiian reception by hundreds of well-wishers.

Mrs. Samuel Wilder King, wife of Hawaii's Republican Governor, draped the first colorful flower lei around the former Chief Executive's neck.

Adm. Arthur W. Radford, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, had an automobile take the visitors over the mountains to Kaneohe. A waiting launch took the party to the Coconut island estate where they will be guests of Ed Pauley, wealthy Los Angeles oil man and prominent Democrat.

The former President was in a hurry to get to the estate.

"I intend to get as much sleep and rest as possible," he said. "It's been 30 years since I've had a chance to contemplate the future."

Truman would not answer questions concerning the international situation or United States politics. He said only this: "I think there is a prospect that we will have peace."

PREMIER'S PARTY WINS 9 MORE SEATS IN GREEK ASSEMBLY

ATHENS, March 30 (AP)—Returns today from weekend by-elections swelled by nine more seats the big parliamentary majority of Premier Marshal Alexander Papago's Rally party.

Calm, orderly balloting yesterday—in districts where an electoral court invalidated for legal reasons the November general election returns—gave the government all nine contested seats. This increased to 243 the number it controls in the 300-seat parliament.

The opposition left-wing EDA party made a strong showing in early returns but lost out in the final tally. The voting was described as "a real triumph for the government" by Interior Minister Pausanias N. Lycourejos.

Six of the voting districts were in the Piraeus area, Athens's port. The others were at Karditsa, Grevena and Rethynnon.

ATTLEE UNDERGOES SURGERY

LONDON, March 30 (AP)—Former Prime Minister Clement Attlee underwent an appendix operation today. His doctors said his condition after the surgery was "quite satisfactory."

Attlee, 70 years old, heads the Labor party and leads the opposition to Prime Minister Churchill's government in the House of Commons.

STEVENSON 'VERY SKEPTICAL' OF ANY RED PEACE MOVES

MANILA, March 30 (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson said today it "might be well worth-while to try out some" Nationalist Chinese forces in the Korean war.

He also told a news conference he would be delighted if the Communists are sincere in their acceptance of a United Nations proposal to exchange sick and wounded Korean war prisoners. However, he is "very skeptical" of any Communist peace offensives, he added.

He recalled that Chinese Nationalist President Chiang Kai-shek proposed "quite a while ago" that Nationalist troops be used in Korea, but the proposal was never accepted.

Team Concept Of Eisenhower Saves M'Carthy

Senator's Charges Against Bohlen Almost Made President Attack.

By DORIS FLEESON

WASHINGTON, March 30.

WITH his magnificent defense of Charles E. Bohlen, President Eisenhower stood poised on the brink of an attack on Senator Joseph McCarthy.

Senator McCarthy has not only contended that Bohlen was unfit or that a better Ambassador to the Soviet Union could be found. The Senator has hinted that the President's choice is depraved and treacherous. He has said Secretary of State Dulles deceived the Senate. He has suborned Secretary Dulles's security officer, Scott McLeod, to breach departmental security.

With these facts in mind, reporters invited the President to take the plunge at his press conference Thursday. He wouldn't.

Nothing to Lose.

The President, of course, is not afraid of Senator McCarthy. Politically he has nothing to lose, thanks to the way Majority Leader Taft and the whip, Senator Knowland, have stood up in the Bohlen debate against McCarthy. The President has said repeatedly in private that he dislikes Senator McCarthy.

The best guess of those who have studied him almost closely as a public figure is that Gen. Eisenhower can't get it out of his head that he is captain of a team and so cannot attack the other players. Apparently the fact that some of the players are attacking the captain and not strictly according to the rules has not registered.

The President is fanatically devoted to "the team" conception, as those reporters who covered his campaign can testify. It is the basis of his order to his administrators that they must get along with Congress.

Apparently he doesn't want any Democrats on his team, either. He has been cleaning them out very thoroughly in the executive branch, where he has the power to move, and he agreed to shake up the civil service to keep the good work going.

Permanent Opposition.

On matters like the Bohlen nomination he can count on more than enough Democratic votes to carry him over the line. However, Democrats have already noted that, pleasant as he is to them personally, he thinks of them as on the other side permanently.

War correspondents recall that as supreme commander, Gen. Eisenhower stood aloof from quarreling generals in much the same way that he does nowadays above Senators. They believe he thinks of himself as a leader who doesn't "take sides."

Malenkov Believes Only in Power of Machine-Like Bureaucracy

Scornful of Human Element, He Is Skillful Manipulator of Impersonal Party Apparatus in Stalin Tradition.

By MIKHAIL SOLOVIEV
Former reporter for Izvestia in Moscow.
(Copyright, 1953)

SECOND OF A SERIES

NEW YORK.

IF a Soviet official were to give an honest opinion, he would probably say that the best single explanation of Malenkov's power is that he is a supreme "apparatchik." In the jargon worked to death by Soviet regime to put across its own specialized ideas, one word stands out: "Apparat" (machinery).

It conveys a concept almost universal in the Communist world. Government is the "apparat" to guide the country. The party is the "apparat" to guide the government. The NKVD is an "apparat" to ensure obedience, and so forth. Each institution is in turn dominated by its own inner "apparat." It is no longer the people, the constitution, the customs, the law, which are the source of authority, but the "apparat."

An environment dominated by the "apparat" naturally gives birth to the "apparatchik" (bureaucratic manipulator or "operator" would probably be the best translation)—a completely impersonal, unfeeling, unhuman type of being. Stalin was the perfect "apparatchik"—perhaps the first complete embodiment of the word. Certainly no man before him ever saw so clearly the possibilities for power latent in bureaucracy, and no man had ever exploited them so fully to establish his domination over a huge empire.

Malenkov has long sought to follow in Stalin's footsteps and to make of himself another "perfect apparatchik." His new top position is proof that he learned his lessons well.

The "apparatchik" has no faith in the force of popular movements and is blind to the human elements of history. As far as he is concerned, the "apparat" creates and the "apparat" destroys. "Even an old shoe can be endowed with prestige, if one controls the "apparat," Stalin once said, and Malenkov firmly believes it.

Avoids Public Life.

It is typical of the "apparatchik" that he avoids public life as much as he can. Speeches "by" Stalin were notably rare, and usually he had some one else read them for him. (It may be significant that Stalin, though he did not hesitate to proclaim himself a linguist, never did master the Russian language and to his last day spoke a kind of pidgin Russian). According to the code of bureaucracy, the place of the leader is behind the scenes, manipulating the strings.

When it comes to manipulating, Malenkov is a supreme artist and may well surpass Stalin himself. In this he is rivalled by Beria who also fully mastered Stalin's methods and undoubtedly is now working out his own maneuvers against Malenkov.

Malenkov is particularly adept at destroying the prestige of those who stand in his way. His favorite gambit against an adversary is to have him "kicked upstairs" to a more vulnerable position.

Knifed Kaganovich.

Thus, at a time when Kaganovich, member of the Politburo, was considered second only to Stalin, Malenkov initiated a campaign against him—but by apparently helping to push him ahead. In the early '30s, a widespread revolt against collectivization was sweeping Russia's southern provinces. Malenkov proposed that Kaganovich be entrusted to put down the peasant revolt. Kaganovich was given the necessary powers, including the control of NKVD troops, and with his characteristic ruthlessness he flooded the provinces with the blood of the peasant rebels. The revolt was crushed.

Kaganovich's success with this difficult mission won him fresh honors inside the "apparat" and Stalin's praise. He was given the Order of Lenin for his services. But, as Malenkov had anticipated, his prestige as a popular political leader suffered drastically. He was now labelled as an executioner and had to drop back to Morse and Capehart Discuss Each Other's Intellectual Flexibility in Exchange Over Moving Independent's Seat.

By DREW PEARSON
(Copyright, 1953.)

WASHINGTON.

OREGON'S bristle-browed Senator Wayne Morse and Indiana's plump Senator Homer Capehart had quite a brush the other day over Morse's request to move his seat out of Republican territory.

The Oregon independent asked to switch from a front-row Republican seat on the Senate floor to a back-row Democratic seat.

"I think the Independent party is entitled to have a few square feet on the minority side," he argued.

"Above ground or underground?" cracked New Hampshire's Senator Charles Tobey, who was presiding temporarily over the Senate.

"I always work above ground," rejoined Morse. "However, I must protect myself so far as my back is concerned. That is why I would like to have a seat on the back row with my back to the wall."

"If we move the Senator's seat, as he requests," blurted Capehart, "what assurance do we have that he will not wish to move somewhere else in about 30 days?"

"I assure the Senator from Indiana that one great difference of many differences between us is that I take pride in my intellectual flexibility," shot back Morse.

Capehart's Rejoiner.

"How can one entertaining that philosophy expect anyone else to believe in anything he says?" needled the Indiana Republican.

"Whenever the Senator from Oregon changes his mind on any question, he always sets forth the facts which suggest the change," snapped Morse. "I suggest to my friends like the Senator from Indiana that they get off the partisan line and substitute political principle for political expediency."

"Does that mean in the case of the Independent party, which the Senator from Oregon is trying to start, that if I wanted to join the party, I would have to wait for perhaps 60 days before joining, because at the end of 60 days the Senator from Oregon might have new facts which would convince him that he should not after all start a new party?" replied Capehart, his voice dripping with sarcasm.

"I am sure my good friend from Indiana is speaking 'hypothetically,'" retorted the sharp-tongued Oregonian. "I cannot imagine the Senator from Indiana ever having the intellectual flexibility which would cause him to want to become a member of an independent party, and to place in first position an independent judgment."

"My personal opinion," Capehart rasped back, "is that the able Senator from Oregon thoroughly and completely and 100 per cent enjoys being different."

"I wish to assure the Senator from Indiana that I would not enjoy being like him. I enjoy that kind of difference," Morse replied.

That ended the debate. Capehart took his seat.

MADAME PANDIT LEARNS—Madame Pandit, scholarly sister of India's Prime Minister Nehru and now Indian Ambassadress to the United Nations, was in the running recently to be the first woman secretary-general of the U.N. But during the race she learned that you can't do business with the Russians.

Soviet diplomats had pushed Madame Pandit for the secretary-generalship in order to gain favor with the Asiatic nations. But just before the matter came to a vote in the Security Council it was obvious that Madame Pandit couldn't make it, so she asked the Russians to withdraw her name, to save her the embarrassment of defeat.

However, Valeri Zorin, the Russian delegate, scornfully declined. He introduced her name anyway, and Madame Pandit was subjected to a humiliating overwhelming negative vote.

As a result, the irate Madame Pandit sent off a long and indignant cable to her brother in New Delhi, who has tried to get along with the Russians, denouncing them.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Up to the President

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The Republican party should be proud of its Frankenstein which it now finds it cannot control. Senator McCarthy has proved that he cannot and will not submit to a leash and all the high G.O.P. officials who indorsed him in 1952, including Taft and Eisenhower, must bear complete responsibility for all he says and does.

But McCarthy is really not the guilty one because there has always been and will be demagogues. The real guilt lies with those who accept the demagogue and refuse to refute him. The Wisconsin Senator has got the whole G.O.P. bulldozed and afraid, and none will stand up and publicly denounce him.

Even Senator Margaret Chase Smith who made the famous Declaration of Conscience in Congress, has not the courage today to say what she really thinks about him. Last year in Columbia, I had occasion to ask her about McCarthy and she refused to make a comment, and implied that differences between her and McCarthy had been fostered by the press.

Like all of the party faithful, she stated the weak premise that she agreed with McCarthy but did not necessarily approve his methods. We have heard that tune so much that it is sickening.

Yes, the tail is wagging the elephant, and as a result, the Republican party and the United States is suffering great embarrassment. It has been stated that Eisenhower is a man of deep integrity and conviction and is a great fighter.

Let him do something about Joe McCarthy. Let him knock off the chip on McCarthy's shoulder and he will gain the undying support and admiration of the entire American people.

SOREN A. TOROIAN.

The Fifth Good Man

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

A reader, C. I. Linhart, in his letter, "Four Good Men," referred to the candidates of the Citizens' School Improvement Committee, and reminded St. Louisans of their opportunity to elect qualified men to the Board of Education.

May I respectfully remind Mr. Linhart and your readers of the "fifth good man," the Rev. Joseph W. Nicholson, rector of All Saints Episcopal Church?

About one third of our school children are Negroes, and the problems confronting them are in many respects appalling. Their need for a spokesman on the Board of Education is pressing.

The fact that the Citizens' School Improvement Committee has not yet indorsed a qualified Negro as a candidate for the board is, in my opinion, a serious oversight to which the committee would do well to give thought.

MARGARET BUSH WILSON.

Rhetorical and Now Moot

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

No doubt the Post-Dispatch was following the dictates of journalistic protocol when, in commenting on the recommendation by the President of a lobbyist for the rubber industries to a seat on the Federal Trade Commission, it asked the question: "Does the President know?"

But the Post-Dispatch readers, who approve of its cogently reasoned comment on this and other special interest appointments which have formed such an unending stream the past couple of months, need be under no such compulsions of restraint.

For those readers, who have listened to the appraisal by the President that the country's best brains are identical with its best-lined pockets, and that economic freedom consists of permitting the business man to pursue his predatory aims at the expense of the rest of the community without hindrance, the question should be worded: "Does the President know any better?" —a phraseology which renders the question purely rhetorical.

Reflections on a Civic Defeat

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

While walking in Olive street from Seventeenth to Sixteenth streets prior to the Plaza bond election, I noticed in a business establishment window a sign to the effect that we don't want higher taxes—vote No!

There are many voters in a metropolitan area who can not or do not take the time to learn what the issue is. To take advantage of these people with large red and white signs and play up the word "TAXES" is a poor way of meeting an issue.

Come on St. Louis. Let's fight above board and be sincere in what we say.

B. McDONALD.

Butter and Beef

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I'm outraged at the Government's latest move to buy frozen hamburger and chuck from packers "to bolster sagging cattle prices."

Just when we wives of white-collar workers could afford ground chuck instead of the fatty hamburger which has for so long been our usual fare.

I wonder if those who recommended this purchase would, themselves, consider chuck stew a treat? Our family does.

Only recently could we afford boneless beef stew, and an occasional beef roast for Sunday dinner.

I suppose the beef will be keeping company with the millions of pounds of butter now standing in Government warehouses. We have had to forego butter since the price went over 50 cents a pound; and our children can't remember ever having tasted it, along with other luxuries such as steaks.

MRS. WHITE COLLAR.

Contempt of White House

If President Eisenhower did not know it at the conclusion of the Battle of Bohlen Ridge, he now should be able to see that the effrontery of Senator Joseph R. McCarthy is utterly boundless. By comparison the Wisconsin publicity seeker's so-called anti-Communist deal with the Greek ship owners makes of his baseless fight against the President's Ambassador to Russia a model of senatorial propriety.

Under the Constitution the President is charged with the conduct of the foreign relations of the United States. By statute the President has a Department of State, whose Secretary is the foremost member of the Cabinet in rank, to assist and advise in this vital and delicate work.

Yet Senator McCarthy has so little conception of this basic framework of the Federal Government that he has treated President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles as if they did not exist. His excuse for not consulting them about his subcommittee agreement with Greek merchant ship owners not to trade with North Koreans and the Communist Chinese is the contemptuous remark: "I didn't want any interference from anyone!"

The Wisconsin demagogue treated the four members of his subcommittee with little more respect than he treated the White House and State Department. Without showing the alleged agreement to a one of them, he called a surprise news conference. By prior arrangement the conference was filmed for subsequent television broadcast—all to the glory and advancement of the personal ambitions of Joseph R. McCarthy.

The utter emptiness of all this grandstand stuff is made clear by the announcement at the Department of State that the Eisenhower Administration and the Greek Government reached an agreement within the last 10 days to do what Senator McCarthy now claims credit for doing.

This raises the question whether a leak of information from the State Department to one Senator was not at the bottom of the McCarthy venture into foreign relations for the benefit of television audiences. Secret FBI information leaked out in the Bohlen case. Is it now leaking out on other executive matters?

The issue is Joseph R. McCarthy vs. the White House. It is the Senator who rode the Eisenhower coattails to a second term vs. the President. And it is an issue that cannot be ducked or dodged any longer.

President Eisenhower's hope for party harmony is both understandable and commendable. But the President cannot expect harmony with Joseph R. McCarthy. A man who will not grant a new Administration even two months to show what it can do in the field of foreign affairs will understand only one treatment. That is complete and burning repudiation.

Parking Jam Ahead

The bill to let St. Louis operate offstreet parking garages has run into the same opposition in the Missouri Senate which it met in the House. Local parking lot operators still maintain St. Louis has no shortage of parking facilities.

If this argument were ever true, it is not worth listening to now. In a short while the new city master traffic ordinance will go into effect. The law drastically restricts parking on streets in the downtown district. This means the district has got to have more offstreet parking facilities—and only the city government is likely to do anything about it.

Parking is going to be a more serious problem in the months ahead. That is why the State Senate Municipal Corporations Committee ought to approve the offstreet parking bill without delay.

Job for a Determined Man

Whomever Gov. Donnelly selects to succeed Ralph W. Hammond as state director of civil defense, one thing is sure. He will need to be a man willing and determined to fight for adequate appropriations, as was Mr. Hammond. He will also need to have Gov. Donnelly and the legislative delegations of Missouri cities in there fighting with him.

State civil defense is in a parlous way. It will go out of existence in Missouri entirely June 30 unless a bill is passed to extend its life. Mr. Hammond has resigned as director. He asked for an appropriation of $150,000 a year, Gov. Donnelly cut it to $37,500, and the House Appropriations Committee further reduced it to $12,500.

Either the sum recommended by the committee or that proposed by the Governor would be too little to do any good and too much to waste. Illinois has appropriated $526,000 a year for civil defense, Wisconsin $825,000, Tennessee $969,000, Ohio $1,562,000. Missouri's principal cities are in the same danger as the principal cities of those states.

If the state civil defense act is allowed to lapse, St. Louis and other cities in the state will be unable to work with the Federal Civil Defense Administration, for that agency deals only through state agencies. Unless the State Government of Missouri appropriates matching funds, civil defense will cost St. Louis and other cities more than their share. Federal matching funds are appropriated on the assumption that the state will put up 25 per cent and the city 25 per cent. So far St. Louis has had to put up its share and the state's share, too.

Do Gov. Donnelly and the big-city delegations in the Legislature realize the need for civil defense? Their actions do not indicate that they do. Mr. Hammond informed the Post-Dispatch:

> I have been told from very excellent authority that the leaders from your city are very definitely cool, if not cold, on the subject. Something should be done about it. There is no question in my mind but what those Senators alone could guide the destiny of the entire program.

What do the seven Senators from St. Louis and the three from the county mean to do about it? After all they constitute nearly one third of the State Senate.

Censor for Tax Inquiries

It would be interesting to know why Senator Millikin of Colorado is insisting that Senator John J. Williams of Delaware clear any further tax scandal exposes with him.

Senator Williams originated the investigations of the Bureau of Internal Revenue in the Truman Administration and it might have been supposed that the Republican leadership would be glad to have him continue his work. But Senator Millikin, a powerful ally of Senator Taft, has offered Williams the chairmanship of a subcommittee to investigate the Treasury Department and Internal Revenue Bureau only on condition that the full committee approve any disclosures it may make.

Does this mean that Senator Millikin does not trust Senator Williams's discretion? Or does it mean that Senator Millikin wants to hold the power of deciding which investigations shall be exposed and which suppressed?

As a general principle, it is desirable to require an investigating subcommittee to have the consent of the full committee before embarking on a particular inquiry. But once an investigation is under way, any censorship on its findings immediately raises the question of who should be the censor and why. Senator Williams is not sure he wants the job on Senator Millikin's terms, and his reluctance is perfectly understandable.

Donnelly's Lack of Leadership

Gov. Phil M. Donnelly's recommendation of improvements in Missouri's mental hospitals and his subsequent undermining of that recommendation by a proposal to slash an already inadequate appropriation is only one example of his failure to assert the leadership which was expected of him.

In his first term in the office, Mr. Donnelly developed a reputation as a strong Governor. Even though the lower chamber of the Legislature, then as now, was dominated by the Republicans, the Democratic chief executive battled successfully for major items in his legislative program.

But as Herbert A. Trask, the State Political Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch, reported Sunday, things are different now. The Governor outlined a generally commendable program in his inaugural message, but he has done little, even with the Democrats in control of the State Senate, to promote its enactment.

His proposal for the lifting of the state sales tax from foods and his plan to have the state recover aid payments from the estates of old age pensioners already have been scuttled.

Important measures for the creation of a nonpartisan state park board, for more adequate aid to the blind and to dependent children, for a change in the August primary date, for the introduction of voting machines, for a fair employment practices law, for a little Hoover commission, and for new highway legislation are languishing in the State Senate. Hope for them diminishes as the Legislature draws nearer and nearer to its compulsory adjournment date.

The House, on the whole, has done better than has the upper chamber. This is especially true in connection with the state hospital improvement program, an issue on which the Governor seems to have gone back on his original humanitarian position. Good work in the House, however, will be in vain if the Senate remains indifferent and obstructionist. Here is a splendid opportunity for such leaders as Senator Michael Kinney of St. Louis.

Above all, it is an opportunity for the Governor to reassert his leadership in all its vigor.

Supt. Job

Everyone who has ever stood and watched while excavators, riveters or structural steel workers went busily about the construction of a new building, will approve what the Nashville Electric Service did. When the handsome Electric Center was being put up, to house the municipal electric system, a Sidewalk Superintendents' Bar was erected at a choice vantage point. At one end of the bar was a low peep-hole labeled "Junior Supts." At the other end, adjoining the painted likeness of a fire plug, were two small, eye-like peepholes still closer to the ground, labeled "Dog Watch." In the center of the bar was a slot flanked by the words, "Suggestions are Welcome."

If the sidewalk superintendent has come thus far into his own, there may be a brighter future than many people suppose for the poker kibitzer, the Monday morning quarterback and the backseat driver. This Tennessee setup was really sidewalk superintending in luxury. The one point at which it could be improved, it seems to us, is at the suggestion slot.

Sidewalk superintendents we have seen are in no mood for making suggestions. There is something about the nature of the job that leads a superintendent to drop his jaw and take on a glassy stare. It is wonderfully restful to watch other people at work. Occasionally a superintendent will rouse himself sufficiently to wonder what that big lumbering piece of equipment is, or why they are putting that dingbat over against that whatchamaycallit. It is for occasions like these that the suggestion slot should be a question slot, which the superintendent can poke his query into, and have his answer pop right back out.

Back of the Dumps

Facts coming out of St. Louis county hearings on garbage disposal ought to shock county residents into demanding better sanitary practices.

One fact, brought out when garbage haulers and hog feeders attended a hearing, is that the county's chief method of disposing of garbage still is to feed it to hogs. That may be satisfactory for a rural area but for a growing county, hogs will hardly remain adequate garbage cans.

Another fact, stated by Health Commissioner Domke, is that the county now has 40 dump areas—and 39 of them do not comply with sanitary requirements. That is why county officials are studying ways to establish sanitary land fills.

Land fills are not only the most economical answer to sanitary garbage disposal—they are the only answer in sight unless the county wants to pollute itself.

Parents Can Help

Can St. Louisans afford to deny their school system the additional tax money which it must have to sustain itself?

Are they willing to abandon or seriously curtail public school education for the deaf child, the youngster with only partial vision, the boys and girls who are crippled and otherwise handicapped, either physically or mentally?

Would they kill the speech correction classes now attended by some 4000 youngsters in 61 elementary schools? Are they willing to cut out the home teaching service whereby children with serious illnesses can continue with their studies?

And what of the programs of instruction for school-age patients at City, Homer G. Phillips, Koch and Shriners' hospitals? Or the special classes at Bellefontaine Farms for boys and Meramec Hills for girls?

What of the activities in the regular elementary and high schools? Are they to be supported? Is the quality of teaching to be maintained at current high levels? Or is it perhaps to be diluted because citizens decline to pay fair salaries, and teachers seek better treatment in other systems?

To know the schools is to realize that there can be no thought of abandoning or curtailing educational services and cutting salaries. Surely those parents who have taken advantage of "open house" visits in the schools are convinced that St. Louis must meet the bill. And if they spread the word, conviction can be translated into approval at the April 7 election.

HAUNTED STORAGE HOUSE

Power Challenge for 3,000,000 Farms

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Though private companies get 64.9 per cent of all public power, utilities are attacking law giving preference to rural co-operatives and municipal systems; these priorities protect electricity of millions of consumers, yet law is now said to be in serious danger.

Alex Radin, General Manager, American Public Power Association, in an Address to the National Rural Electric Co-operative Association

Each of us has the privilege of representing non-profit organizations whose purpose is to provide the maximum amount of power at the lowest possible cost. You have chosen to band together and provide yourselves a necessary service which you could not obtain individually.

In no case were co-operative or public systems instituted because of any ideological preference. They were organized simply because there was an unmet need for an essential service, electricity, or because consumers felt they could obtain lower rates or better service in this manner.

Alex Radin

You are entering your second decade of service to the rural electric co-operatives and over 3,000,000 farm families of the nation.

One of the foundation stones of our power policy stands in imminent danger today after having been a basic part of the fabric of our national policies for almost 50 years.

I refer to the preference policies which were first enunciated in the Reclamation Act of 1906, and which have been reaffirmed and strengthened on at least 10 different occasions since that time.

Core of American Conservation

These are the provisions which require that local public bodies and rural electric co-operatives receive preference in the marketing of power from federal power projects.

These preference provisions go to the very core of American philosophy as to the use of our natural resources. That philosophy, expressed repeatedly by Congress, in one act after another, has been that our natural resources belong to the people of the nation, and their use shall not be monopolized by private individuals or corporations.

These original preference provisions were adopted under a Republican administration, and have been reaffirmed under both Republican and Democratic administrations. The preference provisions, therefore, do not bear a partisan label.

The intent of Congress has been unmistakably clear. Congress has categorically rejected the converse of the preference clause—that is, the sale of power at the dam, on a first-come, first-served basis, to available customers. Congress has recognized that sales at the dam would result in monopolization of publicly developed power by private companies, and that the non-profit public agencies and co-operatives would be denied the benefits of this public resource.

Utility Lobby Seeks Repeal

Today, the preference policies stand in the greatest danger they have faced during the entire period of their existence. During recent months there has been an ever-increasing clamor from the private utility companies against them. The chief lobbyist of the private utilities, Purcell L. Smith, has stated publicly on several occasions that one of the primary objectives of his organization in the current session of Congress will be to seek the repeal of preference provisions.

I think it is well to examine the principal charges being leveled by the private utilities against these provisions. Perhaps the charge most frequently made is that the preference clause is discriminatory; that it favors the publicly owned utilities and does not permit the private utilities to obtain their fair share of public power.

The most recent figures which are available show that the Department of the Interior, which is the principal marketing agency for federal power, sold 35.2 per cent of all its power to private utilities in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1951. In contrast the local public agencies, such as the municipalities, public utility districts and state government utilities, received only 24.5 per cent of the Interior Department power.

Rural electric co-operatives received only 2.5 per cent of the federal power.

It is also significant to note that 29.7 per cent of the power being marketed by the Interior Department was sold directly to industrial and commercial companies. When you add this amount to that sold to the private utilities, a total of 64.9 per cent of the power is shown to be marketed to private companies — about twice the amount sold to all preference customers.

The private utility arguments against the preference clause in reality are merely a smoke-screen to hide their real purpose, which is to attempt to monopolize for themselves the power produced at these valuable hydro-electric resources.

Will Congress Reverse Tradition?

Now, none of us knows what action Congress will take in the current session on repealing the preference provisions in national legislation. We earnestly hope that Congress will see the implications of a reversal of basic national policies which are so deeply rooted in American traditions. The preference provisions can be undermined or circumvented in other ways, and we must be on guard against these developments as well as the overt attempts.

One of the most striking cases is in the present attempt to secure approval of the St. Lawrence seaway and power project.

It now appears that the principal legislative effort in Congress will be behind a bill by Senator Wiley of Wisconsin which would provide for American participation in the seaway, but would leave the power provisions entirely in the hands of New York state and the Province of Ontario.

In intervening in this proceeding, we were fearful that, unless the Federal Power Commission required the New York Power Authority to give preference to local public agencies and co-operatives, the Power Authority would not do so.

Power Cut Down to 5 Per Cent

Our fears were confirmed during the course of the hearings, for under cross examination the chairman of the New York Power Authority stated that the Power Authority would not give preference to local public agencies and co-operatives, but instead would give these non-profit agencies a pro-rata share of the power, along with the private utilities. Under this plan, the public agencies and co-operatives might receive as little as 5 to 10 per cent of the total amount of power available at the project.

The New York Power Authority was further in the anomalous position of asking for a preference in the issuance of the license, since public agencies are entitled to a preference from FPC in obtaining permits for hydro projects; yet the chairman of the Power Authority stated he would not pass that preference along to the local public bodies and co-operatives.

INSIDE LOOKING OUT

From the New York Post.

For many years Edward F. Howrey has been a lawyer and lobbyist for many big business enterprises. He has fought their battles long and hard before the Federal Trade Commission, which is entrusted—among other things—with the protection of small business against unfair economic practices by the big boys. The record indicates that Howrey has served his corporate clients with a zeal almost above and beyond the call of duty. Now Howrey will no longer have to argue with the Commission; he has been picked to run it.

Between Book Ends

Modern Israel's Ancient Fight

PRINCE OF ISRAEL, by Elias Gilner. (Exposition Press, 347 pgs., $3.50.)

In the preface to this historical novel, Gilner says:

"This is the story of a war for freedom . . . of a struggle between two religious philosophies . . . that of Judea . . . and pagan Rome under the Emperor Hadrian. . . . It is the story of an oppressed people who . . . rose, scantily armed, hastily organized and woefully outnumbered (and) defeated the oppressor and attained a brief period of freedom.

"What impelled the author to write it was the striking resemblance of the drama enacted 18 centuries ago and the events of the last decade (the emergence of Israel as a world state). Somehow he felt that the final curtain of the drama had not yet come down and humanity could still write a just and happy ending to many acts of stark tragedy."

Elias Gilner

It is indeed that—and more. It is a bitter distillation of all the fierce yearnings for a homeland, the unflagging pride and determination of people long subjugated and exploited.

That it is melodramatic detracts from it not at all.

Leader of Judea's struggle against Rome was Shemon, who emerged from the caverns of his native hills to become the liberator of his people. By sheer faith and force of personality, he forged and armed a guerrilla band that became a triumphant army.

His victories spread through all of Judea, but as Rome rallied its forces he was forced to watch his triumphant tide recede. The towns he had liberated were recaptured, and one by one his armies were destroyed. And finally he himself was destroyed, leaving only a son to carry the embers of his once ardent hopes.

For his struggle, Shemon was made Bar-Kokba, prince of Israel, and as such is the symbol of the struggle that still goes on—for a strong and united homeland for Judaism.

To those who have a personal interest in the future of the Israeli, this will be inspirational reading. For those whose interests are only literary it will be a mildly pleasant blend of history and legend.

ARTHUR R. BERTELSON.

With a Camera in the U.S.S.R.

PICTURE BOOK OF RUSSIA, by Marie Noele Kelly. (British Book Centre, 80 pgs., $3.50.)

The author-photographer of this contemplative picture survey of western Russia is the wife of Sir David Kelly, British Ambassador in Moscow between 1949 and 1951. On travels through portions of the country that outsiders rarely see any more, she photographed what she calls the "panorama of kremlins and churches, palaces and homes, smiling children and wide horizons."

It is, of course, a one-sided report. She made no attempt to photograph the "forever-smoking factories, guarded railway bridges, immense aerodromes, barracks and propaganda posters." But, bypassing the forbidden, stark aspects of the Soviet Union, Lady Kelly proved herself a perceptive observer of the more mellow side of that contradictory land.

In this book, the landmarks of old Russia are sympathetically and often entrancingly presented. Her attention dwells largely on architecture, much of it pre-dating medieval times and preserved in church buildings. Some are falling into ruins, some converted into museums and some, she reports, are in immaculate condition and still used for worship.

Their hundreds of majestic towers and domes dominate the skylines, raising the question of whether their explicit symbolism can ever be lost so long as they stand. Her notes include bits of history about towns and people, competent explanations of structural detail and touches of atmosphere. Her pictures are both good compositions and good reporting.

GEORGE McCUE.

WALTER LIPPMANN

Realities in French-U.S. Relations

WASHINGTON.

THE FRENCH MINISTERS have come to Washington at a difficult moment for them and for the new Administration. Neither they nor the Americans they will negotiate with command a secure majority which permits them to make firm commitments. In fact they will be negotiating about what each might propose to its parliament, rather than about what the two Governments can and will in fact do. Neither, it might as well be recognized, is able at the moment to speak with sovereign authority.

This means that each will be looking for help from the other in winning support at home. Monsieur Mayer comes in search of indications of financial, military and diplomatic support which might reconcile the French Assembly to a ratification of the European Defense Community. And on our side, in order to reconcile Congress to the idea of not cutting down drastically on foreign aid, the President and Secretary Dulles will be looking for promises and predictions about the ratification in the French Assembly.

Mayer

The situation is one which puts a high premium on working for the appearances rather than on the realities and the substance. Might it not be better, even better politics, to think less of how to win the next vote in the French Parliament and in the American Congress, relying on the ultimate good sense of the two nations if they are spoken to frankly and informatively about the vital interests which bind them together and the great unresolved issues which are pushing them apart?

Without Honor at Home.

We have seen in the recent past how a French foreign minister became more and more popular in Congress as he lost more and more influence at home. And we have seen an American Secretary of State who could have had a vote of confidence in any Western European legislative assembly but never one in his own.

Both men were trying to deal constructively with urgent problems. But having so little authority to commit their governments, having come almost to despair of leadership by persuasion, they set to work on a bureaucratic structure leaving the hard issues of the Franco-German reconciliation and of the participation of these two countries in extra-European affairs undiscussed and unsettled.

Yet it is these neglected but impressive questions which are festering in Europe. By the hard issues I mean such things as what happens under the pacts to the problem of German unity; what happens to the German frontier not only in the Saar but above all in the East; how is the French army, heavily involved in Indochina and in Africa, to avoid being swallowed by a larger and more powerful German force inside the European army.

These are questions which trouble Germans and Frenchmen, as they would Americans if we were faced with them in the concrete.

French Plan Backfires.

In effect, France and Germany are being urged to unite, to fuse their armies, to put their conscripted sons under foreign command, but not to talk or think much about the questions which trouble them the most deeply.

It is this combination of demanding what it is difficult for any nation to concede, and yet avoiding what any nation must worry about, which accounts for the fact that the Schuman-Acheson system does not have in either France or Germany—even if the votes can be scraped together to ratify—the kind of national support which must be there if the system is to be made to work over the years.

Eventually, and so why not now, there will be a break through the embarrassment and pretense which has enveloped Franco-American relations since the historic encounter in September 1950 between Mr. Schuman and Mr. Acheson over German rearmament.

The fact is that the French government was profoundly opposed to German rearmament and improvised the European army at short notice, believing that the scheme would never be accepted. Its purpose was to prevent the creation of a German army. In this maneuver it was being clever rather than candid and resolute. The device has backfired.

The French find that the plan, which everyone scoffed at when they first presented it because it made German rearmament impracticable, has been converted into a scheme which now promises to make the German army the dominant military force inside the European army.

No Substitute for France.

The French do not like their own — though radically transformed—invention and there is acute embarrassment for them in their relations with us and their other allies. The situation cannot be cured, I believe, by promises about ratification sometime in the future. You can lead a horse to water but you cannot make him drink. You can make a parliament sign a pact, you cannot make a nation support it against its will.

The situation could be cured, I believe, if the two governments would only nerve themselves to the idea of treating the two nations as adult, and then of making what they say in public express in some substantial degree their serious and actual views of these momentous matters.

If they did that, they would dwell on the unchanging condition which is that France cannot be defended except within the Atlantic Community and that without France the security of the Atlantic Community cannot be organized. There is, therefore, no substitute for France, leaving aside the great imponderables, in the military constitution of Western civilization.

It is sheer silliness and geographical illiteracy to talk about "substituting" Germany for France lies between Germany and the United States and the high roads to Germany must cross France. There is no possible way in which the United States could make an effective military alliance with Germany unless France not only consented but collaborated.

Ratification Not Enough.

Without a strong and friendly France, the position of Britain, as we saw in 1940, is one of mortal peril. Without a strong and friendly France, as we saw also in 1940, the United States cannot surely guarantee the security of South America.

That being the underlying reality, our French policy is bound to begin and end with the certainty that the vital interests of the two countries are indissolubly linked. On that foundation the true problem is not how to get the pacts ratified but how to get them into a shape where they are genuinely accepted and supported by the German and French peoples.

I have no doubt myself that if this were the American attitude, things would fall into their true proportions and we should win what matters most in this whole business—namely, the true agreement of France to a reconciliation with Germany within the Atlantic Community.

Editor's Note: Following talks in Washington, the French mission is now in Canada for similar discussions.

ELEANOR LEEK SHINES IN CLARINET RECITAL

Gives Enjoyable Performance With Dazzling Technique, Colorful Tone.

By CHARLES MENEES.

Clarinetist Eleanor Leek gave a recital at the Wednesday Club yesterday under sponsorship of the Artist Presentation Committee. It was the first appearance of a woodwind soloist on this series since it was started in 1948 to provide concert opportunities for deserving St. Louis musicians. The change of pace from singing and piano playing, which have predominated in these annual series, was as enjoyable as the recital itself.

Miss Leek is no stranger in St. Louis music circles. She has been first-desk clarinetist with the St. Louis Philharmonic since 1944 and with the Little Symphony for the last six summers. She teaches music at Hanley Junior High School in University City.

In a program as attractive in content as in performance, Miss Leek displayed maturity in both musical interpretation and playing technique. Her clarineting was a joy to hear and behold. Her fingerwork was ever accurate and, in difficult passages, was dazzling. She achieved the true tone of the instrument in all registers.

The program began, surprisingly, in the modern idiom with "Sonatina," a 1948 composition by Poland-born Antoni Szalowski. Miss Leek manipulated with ease the composition's chromatics, octave jumps, tenths, tremolos and the concluding pyrotechnical flourish.

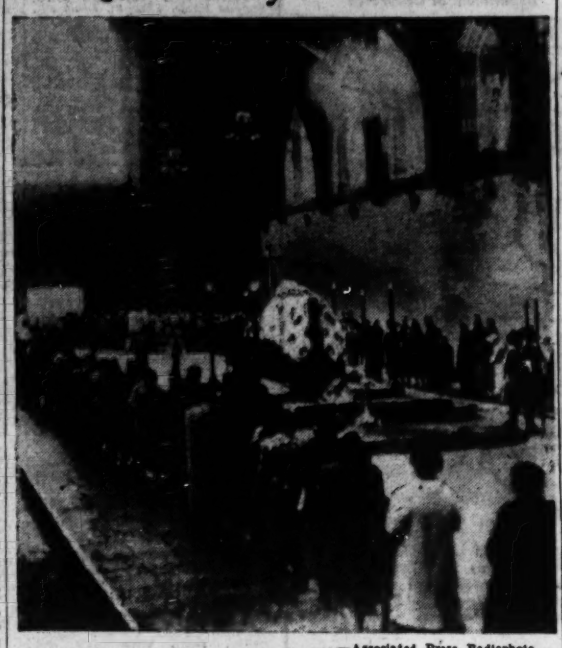

Turning to the classic literature, Miss Leek played the larghetto from Mozart's quintet for clarinet and strings. She took no undue liberties with the noble legato line of the music. There was spirit in her playing, too.

Milhaud's "Suite for Violin, Clarinet and Piano" offered few solo opportunities for Miss Leek, but it did reveal her as an astute chamber ensemble performer. Her playing was expertly integrated with the equally impressive work of Dorothy Ziegler at the piano and Ernest Walker on the violin. Nothing of the charm, gaiety and humor in the modern score escaped the trio.

Miss Leek's final offering was the F Minor Sonata of Brahms. This sonata, one of the composer's last works, needs the virtuoso's touch to keep it from sagging, particularly in the first two movements of slow tempo. Miss Leek had all the requirements in technique, tonal coloring and rhythmic understanding. She and her accompanist, Miss Ziegler, handled the intricate rhythms, the three-against-four in three-quarter time for instance, with perfect co-ordination.

For encores Miss Leek played two Shostokovich dance pieces. Miss Ziegler's accompaniments added immensely to an enjoyable afternoon.

European Royalty Going to Britain For Queen Mary's Funeral Rites

—Associated Press Radiophoto.

Mourning Britons form two lines as they pass bier of Queen Mary in London's Westminster Hall. Casket is draped with the Queen's standard. (Additional picture in Everyday Magazine).

LONDON, March 30 (AP)—The thinning ranks of European royalty headed for London today to pay homage at the funeral of Queen Mary.

The royal delegations were to include young King Baudouin of Belgium, Queen Juliana of The Netherlands and her husband, Prince Bernhard; Crown Prince Olav of Norway, and ex-King Umberto of Italy. Greece's Queen Frederika arrived yesterday.

They will journey to Windsor Castle for simple funeral services tomorrow for the 85-year-old Queen Grandmother whose death last Tuesday severed British royalty's last living tie with the Victorian era. The dowager who so long had symbolized the monarchy for Britain's millions will be entombed beside her husband, King George V, in St. George's Chapel.

Throughout last night and today, mourning Britons moved past the dead Queen's coffin as it lay in state in ancient Westminster Hall, adjoining the Houses of Parliament.

By dawn, nearly 40,000 persons had passed the candlelit catafalque. Queen Mary herself had made similar mourning pilgrimages to the hall 13 months ago, when her son, King George VI, lay in state there.

The Queen's coffin was brought to the hall yesterday, carried through crowded, silent London streets from Marlborough House, her residence where she died. Before the procession, the royal family attended a memorial service for her in the chapel there.

Detachments from the Guards Brigade, the Household Cavalry, the Royal Navy, the Royal Marines, the R.A.F. and nursing services escorted the bier to Westminster. Behind the coffin marched the four royal dukes—her two surviving sons, the Dukes of Windsor and Gloucester; the Duke of Edinburgh, husband of Queen Elizabeth II, and the 17-year-old Duke of Kent, a grandson.

Her granddaughter, Queen Elizabeth, and the other women of the royal family had driven directly to the hall and awaited the procession there.

Queen Mary's standard was draped on the bier. There was only one wreath. The card read—"In loving memory, from her devoted Lilibet and Philip." Lilibet was the pet name of Elizabeth II when she was a little girl; Philip is the Duke of Edinburgh.

The lying-in-state was televised to millions last night. It was the first telecast of such an occasion in British history.

Meanwhile, speculation developed that Queen Mary has left large fortunes to some of the less affluent members of the royal family.

Some reports have estimated the Queen Grandmother's fortune at between $8,400,000 and $19,600,000, inherited from her husband. The fortune is subject to death duties, which could run as high as 75 per cent. The size of her legacy will not be known publicly, since the wills of British royalty are never published.

Among those mentioned as probable beneficiaries were the Duke of Windsor, the Duchess of Kent, the Princess Royal and her sons, and Princess Margaret.

McCarthy Drives Men to Disgust

WASHINGTON.

"IF WE HAVE SO DESTROYED confidence in men in the Government of the United States, then God help us!" Those were the words of Senator William Knowland of California spoken in the debate on the confirmation of Charles E. Bohlen to be ambassador to Soviet Russia. They are noteworthy for several reasons.

In the first place, they put movingly the real nature of the crisis in our political life today. They were uttered by the chairman of the Policy Committee of the Republican majority in the Senate at the beginning of the third month of a Republican Administration that came into power with a great popular majority. But, above all, Knowland's passionate invocation serves to pinpoint once again the technique used by Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep.), Wisconsin.

Knowland

This technique has varied scarcely at all since the Senator first began to use it in 1949. That was before he had discovered the Communist menace in the State Department.

Essentially it is a technique of distortion. A little fact or merely rumor or hearsay is seized upon as the basis for flat assertions and charges that grow in magnitude as a McCarthy campaign develops. It is this method of leaping from one exaggeration to a greater distortion that overwhelms men accustomed to tradition apolitical debate.

Helped Reds in Germany.

The technique should now be recognized for what it is. The variations since it was first employed have been few. In 1949 McCarthy set out to prove that American Army officers prosecuting SS troopers charged with the massacre of unarmed American prisoners at the time of the Battle of the Bulge had used the most savage brutality to obtain confessions.

All evidence to the contrary was brushed aside and the McCarthy statements became more and more sweeping. He accused Americans in Occupied Germany of doing what not even, in his words, the Russians would do.

This happened, of course, to be a great gift to Communist propaganda in Germany. In the view of knowledgeable observers at the time, it had not a little to do with the strong anti-American attitude prevailing among many Germans.

Using the Lie Dector.

Nothing was lacking in that first instance of the use of the now-familiar technique. Just as he did in the Bohlen matter, McCarthy proposed the use of a lie detector. He urged the lie detector for a witness, Lieutenant Perl, a naturalized American who had spent considerable time in German concentration camps.

Although expressing doubt as to the usefulness of the device, the witness said he was perfectly willing to submit to it. Then McCarthy said:

"I think you are lying. I do not think you can fool the lie detector. You may be able to fool us. I have been told you are very, very smart.

"I know you are a psychologist and a psychiatrist and work at it. I have been told I can get nothing from you in cross-examination and I think that is true. I am convinced you cannot fool the lie detector."

Baldwin Quits in Disgust.

The chairman of the investigating committee—McCarthy was not even a member—was former Senator Raymond Baldwin (Rep.), Connecticut. Trying to be scrupulously fair, Baldwin pointed out difficulties in the use of a lie detector. That was Baldwin's struggle throughout the hearings —for fair play.

One consequence was a harvest of publicity for the Senator almost as large as that received by the committee for its sober findings that there was little or no evidence to substantiate the charges of brutality.

Another consequence, and this gets to the heart of the matter, was that Baldwin left the Senate to accept a judgeship in Connecticut.

He told friends that if what McCarthy could do in the Malmedy Massacre inquiry was to prevail in the conduct of the Senate of the United States, then he could not remain.

Gunning for Mr. Dulles.

So an able and fair-minded man was driven out of active participation in political life. One can see this process going on again and again. In the Bohlen case, McCarthy has moved closer to a larger target—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

He moved from point to point until he was accusing the Secretary not of mistakes and misconceptions but of deceit and untruths.

That is the steep slope which the McCarthy technique prepares for its victims. Senator Knowland well knew this when he made his angry and anguished protest.

If the technique is continued, there will be no one left who can be trusted with power in the United States except Senator McCarthy himself.

ST. LOUIS HAILED AS GROWING ART CENTER

Ernest Fiene, New Equity Head, Calls Museum Here a Model.

St. Louis is becoming a major American art center because it has a model museum with progressive policies, a favorable geographical location and a top-notch group of professionals in art, Ernest Fiene, noted New York artist, said here yesterday.

Fiene, who was elected president of Artists Equity Association Saturday at the organization's three-day convention here, spoke after a tour of the City Art Museum, which he had often visited before.

"I was delighted to see the museum's exhibition of work by members of Equity's St. Louis chapter," he said. "That display could be shown with credit anywhere in the world.

"With the vital 'grass roots' art movement now pervading rural communities, St. Louis as the center of a vast farming region can't help increasing in importance as an art center. Professionals needn't fear amateurs in painting. Amateurs are really a help. Does sandlot ball-playing hurt the big leagues?"

"Your museum and its collections are enormously impressive. Your new Rembrandt is absolutely first-rate, and when I say that I'm considering all the Rembrandts I've studied in Holland as well as in America.

"The museum's and Washington University's El Grecos are superb, the Titian is tops and so is the Holbein. I see that I'm hitting the high spots of art history, and the remarkable thing about your possessions is that their peaks are also the peaks of history. That is no accident but comes from wise buying.

"Though small, your modern collection is of the finest quality. Everything is displayed with consummate taste—never 'stunty' but always warm and attractive.

"Your smoking lounge in that beautifully re-arranged Sculpture Court, for instance, exemplifies today's concept of living. That's sound public relations. So is your new gallery marking the Louisiana Purchase sesqui-centennial and devoted to outstanding art of the old Midwest. The region should respond well to that, because of the immediate appeal of one's own history and background."

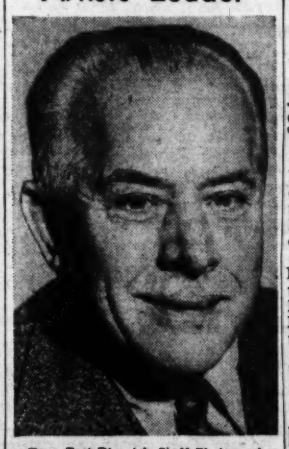

Fiene, whose paintings are now in almost all major public collections, has had a picture here since 1938, when the museum bought his prize-winning "Frosty Morning," a winter landscape. He was born 58 years ago in Elberfield, Germany, and came to the United States at the age of 16.

Like Yasuo Kuniyoshi, an earlier Equity head, he was once called an advance-guard artist and a modernist but now, because of recent violent changes in the art world, is thought of as a traditionalist.

Reminded of this, he gave an eloquent shrug.

"It happens to all of us," he said.

LOADING OF PIPES CHECKED IN WRECK OF THREE TRAINS

Investigation On to Determine Whether Safety Rules on Tying Down Freight Were Met.

(Pictures in Everyday Magazine.)

By ROBERT H. COLLINS
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CONNEAUT, O., March 30—Inspectors of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the New York Central Railroad today sought to determine whether the several 18-inch pipes which caused the disastrous wreck of three trains near here Friday night were secured in compliance with regulations. Twenty-one persons were killed in the accident and about 150 injured.

The pipes were part of a load on a gondola car in an eastbound freight train which came loose and bounced against rails on the adjoining westbound roadbed with terrific force, knocking them out of line.

New York Central passenger train No. 5, westbound, struck the loosened tracks and was derailed, W. K. Dice, assistant superintendent of the railroad's Erie division, said. A westbound freight train, following closely, piled into the wreckage and then the Southwestern Limited from St. Louis plowed into the other two trains.

"One-in-a-Million" Accident.

A railroad spokesman described the accident as occurring under a "one-in-a-million set of circumstances."

"The engineers on the passenger trains were operating close to the 80-mile-an-hour speed limit and never had a chance to stop," he said. "We are only thankful the death toll was not higher."

A. L. Wright, superintendent of equipment for New York Central, said regulations of the American Association of Railroads require four heavy steel bands with ends crimped together around loads of pipe.

He said the rules also call for four heavy stakes on each side of a gondola, a car which has sides and ends about five feet high.

Wright said he made a preliminary inspection of the car, being held for study on a siding here with most of its load intact, and found the steel bands apparently had snapped, freeing the pipes which broke all four stakes on one side of the car.

It appeared the pipes had been loaded in compliance with fundamentals of the regulations, Wright said, but there was some doubt as to the location of the bands. He declined to explain that statement until a full investigation has been made. Regulations required an inspection of the load at point of origin to ascertain whether it met safety standards, Dice said.

Loaded in Pittsburgh Area.

He added that it had not been determined whether such an inspection was made of this load, which originated in the Pittsburgh area. He said the gondola had been brought to Youngstown, O., by the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad and there taken over by the New York Central.

The gondola and its load will be given a thorough study here, he said, and at the same time inspectors will check the load back through intermediate stations to its point of origin in an effort to learn whether safety measures were carried out.

In spite of a cold drizzle mixed with snow flurries and a piercing wind, hundreds of spectators, many with small children in their arms and many obviously in a holiday mood, sloshed through the mud of country roads for a mile and a half yesterday to reach the scene of the wreck and watch the final stages of the clean-up operation.

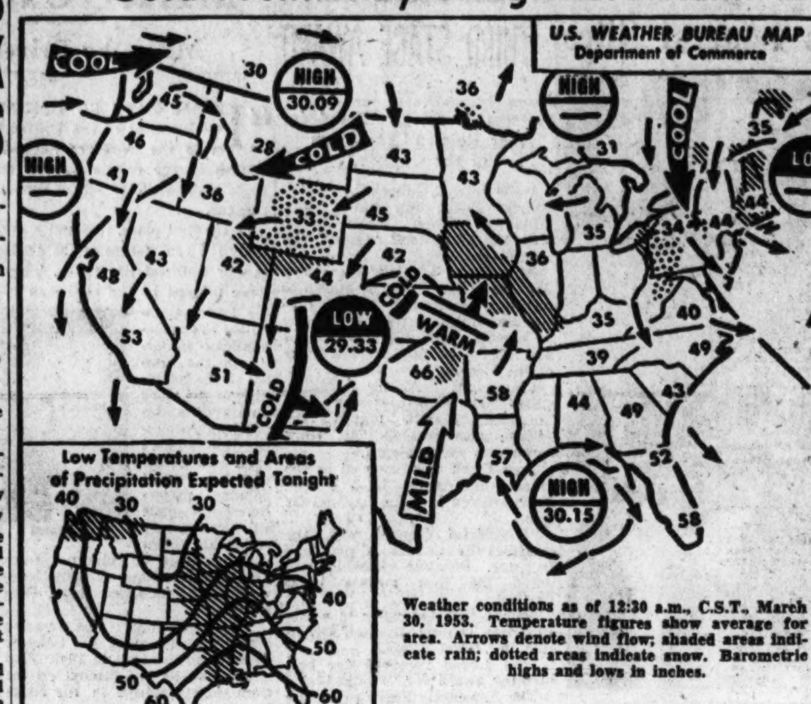

About 20 uniformed policemen stood guard to prevent unauthorized persons from entering the immediate area, where huge cranes tugged hour after hour at great chunks of creaking wreckage.

Platoons of section hands hammered spikes with powerful rhythmic blows as bright new rails gradually stretched in a gentle curve through the middle of the pile-up.

Bulldozers darted about with great urgency, shoving obstacles twice their size off the right-of-way. At a glance the working area appeared a scene of loud confusion with workers moving about ant-like, engines roaring and foremen bellowing orders.

Actually it was a well-planned swiftly executed operation. At 6:25 o'clock last night traffic was resumed and No. 14, a fast mail train eastbound from Chicago to New York, cautiously eased its way through a thin corridor of the wreckage, walled in on each side by crumpled and splintered cars. Long sections of steel rails twisted into odd patterns still stood grotesquely in the background.

Cold Front May Bring More Rain

The low pressure area in the southwest is expected to move to southeast Missouri tomorrow, with a cold front extending from there to southern Texas. This condition should bring occassional showers or thundershowers to the St. Louis area tonight and tomorrow forenoon with cloudy weather in the afternoon, the St. Louis Weather Bureau said.

A low temperature of about 45 and an afternoon high in the upper 50s in St. Louis was forecast for tomorrow. A total of .4 of an inch of rain fell in St. Louis over a 24-hour period, ending at 8:30 a.m. today.

The low pressure area off the coast of southern Maine brought heavy rains to New England yesterday with 2.89 inches at Boston. Flood danger was heightened in the Connecticut river valley, Massachusetts and the Biddeford-Saco area of Maine. The Schroon river in New York began to fall today after reaching a crest six to seven feet above normal.

Showers and rain were forecast for tonight over the central section of the nation and in the northwest along the Canadian border, as shown by the map at left. A high pressure area over the Montana-Canadian border should move to northern Nebraska tomorrow.

Over Missouri this morning, temperatures ranged from 40 at Kirksville to 61 at Joplin and over the nation from 16 at Winnemucca, Nev., to a minimum of 73 at Brownsville, Tex. Yesterday's high was 92 at Laredo, Tex.

BRAIN SURGEON CITES REHABILITATION NEED

Stresses Importance of Therapy After Operation for Parkinsonism.

Rehabilitation therapy is of great importance following operations for Parkinsonism, a disease affecting brain tissue, Dr. Roland M. Klemme, professor of neurosurgery at St. Louis University School of Medicine, said here today.

Dr. Klemme addressed a clinic at Missouri Baptist Hospital as the North Central Section of the United States Chapter, International College of Surgeons, opened a three-day meeting.

Physicians often inadvertently discourage Parkinsonism patients, Dr. Klemme said, and a defeatist attitude tends to develop. The disease, a neurological residual of encephalitis, is characterized by tremors of the extremities and head, slow speech and other symptoms.

The St. Louis surgeon said extremely favorable results occur in about 65 per cent of patients who undergo modern surgery for Parkinsonism. Such patients, he said, can be rehabilitated to such an extent that they can return to their former jobs.

At Jewish Hospital, where visiting surgeons attended another clinic, it was pointed out that modern methods call for replacement of substances, mainly sodium and potassium salts, which are lost to the patient's body through nasal gastric suction following surgery.

The clinic was arranged by Dr. Paul S. Lowenstein, assistant professor of clinical surgery, St. Louis University School of Medicine, and a surgeon on the staff of Jewish Hospital.

Doctors Richard Sisson and Morton D. Pareira explained that insertion of a nasal tube to drain fluids from the stomach following certain operations would cause disturbances unless the substances were replaced.

Modern treatment, they said, usually includes sodium and other essential elements in the glucose solutions given patients, intravenously at first and later by mouth.

Another report at the Jewish Hospital clinic dealt with the manner in which blood vessels lose their elasticity and develop arteriosclerotic conditions, particularly in blood vessels of the lower extremities.

Dr. Herman Blumenthal, associate professor of pathology at St. Louis University School of Medicine and pathologist at Jewish Hospital, collaborated with Drs. Pareira and Fred Handler, of the hospital staff, in giving the report.

Operative clinics were held today at Jewish, DePaul, St. John's, St. Mary's and Missouri Baptist hospitals. More than 300 persons were expected to attend the regional conference.

MALENKOV BELIEVES POWER IS DERIVED FROM BUREAUCRACY

fourth man in the Kremlin hierarchy.

Similarly, Malenkov had Nikolai Yezhov promoted to the position of secret police chief, in which Yezhov lost his neck.

Malenkov is noted for his card-index memory, but he devotes it primarily to adverse information—the skeletons in everybody's private closet. He can tell at any time who among the party workers has been guilty of what offense, who gets drunk, who chases women, who has been careless with public funds, etc. He uses this knowledge of the weakness of others to build his own strength.

He formed an integral part of the party "apparat" for almost two decades. Little by little he mastered the role of "apparatchik" and learned to run the machinery created by Stalin.

This, however, is the only thing he learned. He never read anything; he reads nothing today, except Lenin's and Stalin's works. This will not prevent him, however, from being proclaimed a torch of science and a connoisseur of the arts if that suits his purpose.

Has Fanatic Faith.

To Malenkov, the world is divided into two parts: one which has already been conquered by the Communist "apparat," and one which is yet to be conquered. Everything outside the control of his "apparat" is something hostile, something to be destroyed or changed. Malenkov is one of those who know little, and distrust knowledge, but who have a terrible fanatic faith, and they never doubt faith. It was only to such a disciple that Stalin could hand down his empire.

Thus Malenkov donned the cloak of his late master. He can rule only with the assistance of the "apparat," which he must keep under his control. Whether he can retain that control is the key to whether he will be able to keep the cloak on his shoulders or whether he will eventually lose it—and his head as well.

TWO EAST SIDE TAVERNS, OIL STATION ROBBED OF $1120

Two East Side taverns and a filling station were robbed of a total of $1120 yesterday, it was reported by St. Clair deputy sheriffs and the Illinois State Highway Patrol.

The taverns, Bluff Side Tavern, Millstadt, and Straw Hat Tavern, 4606 Caseyville avenue, East St. Louis, apparently were held up by the same man, deputy sheriffs said. In both instances the robber lined up the customers and locked the proprietors in a rest room.

At the Millstadt tavern the man took $488 from the proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Richenbacher. At the East St. Louis tavern, the bartender and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Cleaver, were robbed of $529.

James Casserty, attendant at the service station at 6401 Collinsville road, north of East St. Louis, told highway patrol officers two armed men took $103 from the cash register yesterday.

CARDINALS KEEP UP SLUGGING TO BEAT REDS, 9-5

REDBIRD BATS HAVE RATTLED OUT 52 HITS IN FIVE GAMES

CARDS-PHILLIES

At St. Petersburg, Fla.

PHILLIES	2 0 0 1 0 0 1 1

Batteries: Phillies — Konstanty and Burgess; Cardinals—Mizell and Rice.

By Bob Broeg
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 30—The Cardinals' bat rack rattled today just as loudly as wise old Casey Stengel predicted it would.

The seamy-faced Stengel made a sage observation about the Redbirds the other day just after they had won the St. Petersburg City title from his world champion New York Yankees.

Using his face-contorting wink to punctuate his sentences, Ol' Case said, "it's starting to cool off and those fellas are getting hot."

The Cardinals just had snapped out of their spring-long batting slump to win two straight from the Yankees, and Stengel was in the midst of paying a compliment to Eddie Stanky, the Redbirds' young manager.

Five Wins in Six Games.

"That fella," said the Yankee graybeard, who seldom uses first or last names, "got his ball club in better shape in two weeks than anybody I've ever seen, but he didn't take one thing into consideration. We happened to get the hottest spring weather we've had here in years, and his ball club went stale. But just watch now, the weather has cooled off, and his guys have snapped out of it. They clobbered me and they'll make some more noise before they get out of there—they're a pretty damned good ball club."

The lemons of the Grapefruit League for better than two weeks down here, the Redbirds now have won five out of their last six games, a record which in itself could scarcely be considered more conclusive than their unimpressive over-all spring mark of eight victories and 13 defeats. But the important things is that Cardinal bats have become as active as Stengel said they would.

Even though shut out on four hits last Friday by Washington after a long, wearisome bus ride to Orlando, the Redbirds have collected 52 hits and 32 runs in their last five games. The most recent outburst was a 16-hit attack at the expense of the Cincinnati Reds, who were whomped yesterday at Tampa, 9 to 5.

Stanky, advised of Stengel's earlier appraisal nodded and said, "Anybody who doesn't value Casey's opinion is crazy. I'm sure he's right and from a condition standpoint I wish we were going to start the (National League) season today."

Off Harry Perkowski, the fast-firing Cincinnati southpaw who has troubled them in the past, the Cardinals started Palm Sunday slugging that continued at the expense of Clyde King and Frank Smith, the Reds' top relief pitchers.

Jablonksi Gets 3 Hits.

Red Schoendienst ripped off three singles, giving him 10 hits in the last three games he has played. Stan Musial belted two singles and his fifth spring-training homer. Capt. Enos Slaughter hammered a homer and a triple, and Ray Jablonski, the rookie who resembles a solid major league hitter the more often he steps into the batter's box, whacked two doubles and a single.

It would be gross exaggeration as well as premature optimism to compare Jablonski with Rogers Hornsby. But it wouldn't be stretching the imagination or bewitching the memory to suggest that for at least one fleeting instant—when he socked that side-armed offering to right center in the seventh—Rookie Ray resembled the Rajah at bat.

Working with a comfortable lead, Harvey Haddix went six innings for the Cardinals. Giving up eight hits and four runs, which included a homer by Jim Greengrass with one on. Dick Bokelmann finished effectively and gave up a hit, three walks and a run in the last three frames.

Haddix, who had lefthanded 11 previous scoreless innings against the Reds, walked only two batters and struck out six, including three on called third strikes in the fifth inning. The Kitten thought his control was off, but Stanky brushed off the suggestion that Haddix hadn't been sharp.

"I think I've got him sized up pretty well by now," the little Redbird manager said. "He's like Gerry Staley and a lot of good pitchers. He doesn't bear down unless the game is close."

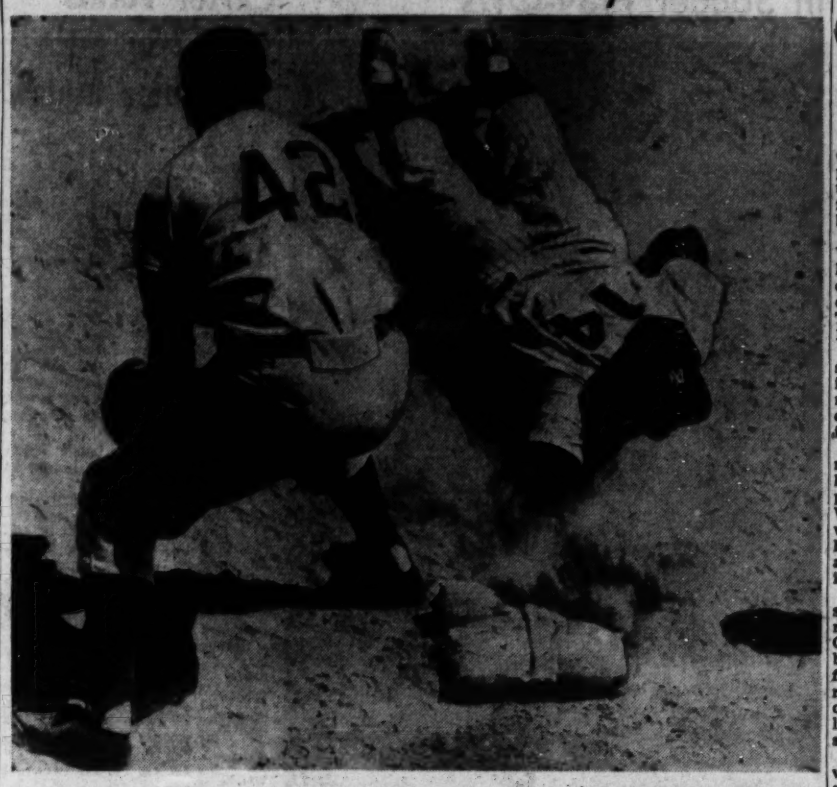

If Stanky was in a charitable mood, there was good reason. Yesterday morning Eddie Yuhas, the righthanded half of baseball's best two-man bullpen, tested a sore arm that had bothered him since the first time he went to the mound this spring. Rawhide wasn't cutting loose, but he reported only a little pain "and 200 per cent improvement."

"And that," said Stanky, "looks like the end of my biggest spring worry."

Pressing base-running tactics by the Cardinals helped force Cincinnati into three second-inning errors that helped produce four runs . . . Slaughter's second-inning homer off Perkowski was only the second tally yielded by the big Redleg southpaw in 16 spring innings, but then the roof fell in . . .

Musial missed a fourth straight hit when pinch-runner Virgil Stallcup, thinking Stan's drive to deep center had been caught in the eighth, retraced his steps and was retired in a force play.

Robbie Is at Home at Any Base

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

Manager Charley Dressen stirred up a storm when he shifted JACKIE ROBINSON (42) to third base recently, but the Dodger star is settled now at first base. He has given up his old second base berth to Junior Gilliam. Above, GENE WOODLING slides safely back into first as the Dodgers try a pick-off play. Brooklyn won the practice game at St. Petersburg, 1-0.

Four Golfers in Greensboro Open Meet Play-Off

GREENSBORO, N.C., March 30 (UP) — Pro golf's second mass playoff within a month was on tap today, this time with the first four prizes in the $10,000 Greensboro Open tournament at stake.

Sammy Snead, Doug Ford, Art Wall, and Earl Stewart were the links quartet that tied at the end of regulation 72 holes yesterday, each with a five-under-par 275. That threw the decision into an 18-hole playoff round.

On March 1, the putt-for-pay stars finished in a similar tangle in the Houston, Tex., Open tournament with dentist Cary Middlecoff defeating four other stars, including Stewart, in a playoff.

But today's extra round would not have been necessary if Snead had been able to hold his early pace. The favored "slammer" from White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., went into yesterday's final 36 holes with a two-stroke lead and a clear shot at his fifth victory in this annual meet.

But Slamming Sam soared three strokes over par with a 73 in the morning tour of the Sedgefield Country Club course as his famous booming drives strayed too far from the straight-and-narrow. He recouped in the afternoon with a one-under-par 69, thanks to a brilliant eagle on the last hole, to salvage a shot at the title.

Stewart was a fast closer. The veteran Dallas, Tex., pro came steaming down to the finish line after shooting a 69 in the morning and a 68 in the afternoon. He just missed bagging the $2000 top prize when his 40-foot putt for a birdie on the final hole missed by inches.

Al Hebel Leads Rugby Scoring; Recs Defeat Knights, Radisons Win

Al Hebel took over individual scoring honors for the season as he registered eight points in leading the Radisons to victory in a Missouri Rugby Union match at Forest Park, yesterday. Hebel's total now is 58 points. The Radisons scored a shutout, 11-0, over the Raiders.

Earlier, on the same field, Grand Recs, the league leaders, downed Knights A.C., 6-0.

The Recs earned their points when Ed Bronczyk and Mel Loncaric scored tries.

Desbats Race Winner.

PARIS, March 30 (UP)—Robert Desbats of France yesterday won the national cycling road championship, covering the 222 kilometers through the Paris suburbs in 5 hours, 55 minutes and 20 seconds.

Turpin to Fight France's Humez For 'World Title'

LONDON, March 30 (UP)—Randy Turpin of Britain will meet Charles Humez of France for the "world middleweight title" in London June 9, Promoter Jack Solomons announced today.

Solomons said the contracts for the fight, which will take place at the White City Stadium, already have been signed. He said there had been some delay after both parties had agreed to the purse money offered, because Turpin demanded 60 per cent while Humez stood out for 50 per cent. Solomons said he hurdled this difficulty by agreeing to pay the extra money.

Capacity of the White City Stadium, which was built for the 1908 Olympic games, is 54,000. Solomons said he expects a sell-out crowd.

Solomons's contract with Humez bars the boxer from driving a car or motorcycle after dark, riding horses, traveling by air and boxing exhibitions without permission. Humez will travel to London by rail and boat for the fight.

Trainer Saddles Four Agua Caliente Winners

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex., March 30 (AP)—Four of five horses entered by Trainer Wesley Cain won their races here yesterday. Officials said they didn't recall any trainer with that many winners in a day at the track before.

S.S. Charkee started the Cain parade by winning the first race to pay $6. The others were Royal Decree in the sixth ($15.20), Bill's Bullet in the seventh ($17.20) and Gold Venture in the eighth ($3.40).

The day's feature was won by Cool Breeze ($17.00) in 1:44 for the mile and 70 yards.

Browns Battle Dust, Wind and White Sox, Win in Ninth, 6 to 4

By L. A. McMaster
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 30—The Browns, including President Bill Veeck, are at their last stand in Arizona. Headquartered here, they are playing for two days at Mesa—with an eye to the Grapefruit League championship.

From here on out, Marty Marion's men play the Cubs and San Antonio and Brooke Medical Center—but only the Cubs in competition that will count in Grapefruit standings.

Bob Cain or Bobo Holloman or Virgil Trucks will pitch today against the Bruins and Marion still isn't ready to ask a pitcher to go nine innings, so two or three of those named may see action.

By the simple process of rallying at the end of the battling, the Browns took care of the White Sox, by two to one in Marion's book, in their series of three games. Players with "St. Louis" and "Chicago" on their shirt fronts engaged in a second game of seven innings, at Tucson yesterday. But that was only for exercise for the "B" athletes, Marty said a couple of days before the Tucson party.

Browns Work Squeeze Play.

At Tucson yesterday, Satchel Paige and Harry Brecheen and Mel Held divided the pitching as the Browns overcame the Sox, 6 to 4, in the rubber meeting of their three-game spring schedule.

It was a fine victory, with Marion resorting to the squeeze play to gain the final run, Billy Hunter bunting and Bobby Young sprinting home. That was the Browns' fifteenth win against seven losses in exhibitions. Against major league opposition, they have won seven, lost three. And they have played the Cleveland Indians and New York Giants, in addition to the Chicago clubs, winning all three against the touted pennant contenders.

Wind and dust made play difficult in the first game. Three times in the first inning play was stopped because of the dust. The groundskeeper tried to relieve the situation by using tank trucks of water and sprinkling the parking lot. "I think I've got this licked," he said. Just then half of New Mexico blew in over the right center-field fence.

Sox Score 3 in First.

It was an ill wind for Paige. After the first two Brownies up hit Bob Keegan safely, the team failed to score. Then the Windy City Sox blew themselves to three runs with the aid of their only safety off Satch and two errors.

Paige gave up the first of two passes with one away. Minoso single to center, Paige struck out Vern Stephens, passed Jim Rivera intentionally, then Jim Dyck dropped a high twisting pop fly near the plate and two men scored. The batter, Outfielder Bill Wilson, then broke for second on a double steal and when Bobby Young's return throw went high over Catcher Clint Courtney's head, Rivera scored.

The Browns made no more hits until the fourth, when with two out, Kokos on second and Sievers on first on a pass and a single, Courtney doubled off the left field wall.

After Brecheen took over in the fifth, the Sox counted once on a single by Sherm Lollar and a double by Fox, counting pinch-runner Boyd.

The Browns were held hitless by Connie Johnson in the sixth and seventh and missed a great chance in the eighth, making only the tying run after filling the bases on Hunter's second hit and two passes, with none out. Lou Aloma replaced Johnson, there was a double play and a fly.

But Marion's men took care of Aloma in the ninth. Courtney opened with his second hit and Neil Berry ran for him. With one out, Hank Edwards batted for Brecheen and doubled Berry home with the tying run. Then Young tripled to score Edwards and Bobby, who had missed several games because of a leg muscle misery, sprinted home on Billy Hunter's squeeze bunt. Held held the Sox in the ninth to gain victory for Brecheen.

Browns Lose 'B' Game.

The second game started just like the first, with the Sox getting two runs this time. Freddy Marsh led off against Duane Pillette with a single and Boyd hit the first pitch to him for a home run over the right field fence.

Willie Miranda surprised Tommy Byrne by hitting over the left field fence but Lenhardt's two-out single was wasted. In the second, with Moss on third after beating out a bunt, Miranda hit a long fly for the score.

The Sox added two in the third

Jack Diamonds Eliminate Champion Pastures in Muny Soccer

WRAY'S COLUMN

Nobody Has a Right To Censor History.

NOW that he's dead we resume a campaign that this column began about 25 years ago, to restore Jim Thorpe's Olympic achievements to the official record book. . . . Not that it will do Jim any good. . . . The man in the casket can't smell the flowers.

But in the interest of truth, and to correct athletic history that has been distorted by almost inquisitional severity in applying the rules of amateurism, it is still not too late to revise the censorship that has expunged from official records achievements of the "greatest athlete in the world." . . . These words the King of Sweden spoke to Thorpe after his 1912 Olympic successes.

* * *

Thorpe's offense was playing "summer baseball" for pay, to help earn expenses while attending Carlisle Indian School. . . . Receiving money was, and still is, an Olympic offense. . . . But in the case of "summer baseball" some colleges did not disbar their students from representing their institution in collegiate sports because of that, in Thorpe's day.

* * *

The Olympic officials could not have been ignorant of what so famous an athlete as Thorpe had been doing. . . . Yet he was sent abroad as an Olympic eligible. . . . But some time after the games the case was brought up, Thorpe was declared to have violated the code and his records deleted from official guides. . . . H. K. Wieslander of Sweden was designated winner of the decathlon.

* * *

Change Necessary in The Interest of Truth.

THAT is a mis-statement which will be transmitted to future generations unless presented in a different form in all official Olympic documents. . . . Even Wieslander refused to receive Thorpe's trophies and declared "I didn't win that event. . . . The honor belongs to Thorpe—he won the Olympic championship."

* * *

All official Olympic references, in the opinion of this writer, should place Thorpe first in the 1912 decathlon, with his detailed performances for each event. . . . Wieslander's name and record should follow, preceded by an asterisk and a footnote reading: "Placed first by the Olympic Committee, later, after Thorpe was declared to have played professional baseball."

* * *

Various attempts have been made to get Thorpe's victory back in the official records. . . . A movement was given wide support in 1951, but the Olympic Committee remained obdurate. . . . As far as we have learned, official Olympic records still have Wieslander winning an event in which he finished second.

* * *

Private records, however, kept by Olympic sports writers, have saved Thorpe's decathlon achievement from oblivion. . . . Historians have not failed to mention the facts, which show that Thorpe surpassed all rivals of his time and was still outstanding until Glenn Morris topped his marks in 1936. . . . Later youthful Bob Mathias came along and exceeded the marks of all others, Morris and Thorpe included. Mathias, at last year's Olympic Games, surpassed his own records and established a new all-time Olympic high.

* * *

Bob Mathias's Future Is Worrying His Coach.

THERE isn't any doubt about Mathias's allround track supremacy. . . . But already he has run out on two departments of athletic activity, in which he already has won high honors. . . . Bob has said that he is through with the decathlon event. . . . He also told Chuck Taylor, his Stanford University football coach, that he is through with football, although his two years at fullback for the Indians indicate an All-America season this year.

* * *

What does he want to do? . . . Why, believe it or not, he wants to graduate cum laude—to shine as a student. . . . That's a very sensible idea. . . . But with track coaches pulling him one way and football coaches hauling another, what's the betting he doesn't go for both? . . . Especially as the guy loves competition and is physically built for anything.

* * *

ONE situation has Mathias handicapped, we read. . . . It is that spring football practice comes along just as the outdoor track business gets under way. . . . Always in good shape, however, Bob could pick up football in stride and become an All-America fullback, as well as win another decathlon. . . . They're working on him.

* * *

Mathias is not as yet the allround athletic celebrity Thorpe proved to be during his lifetime . . . Thorpe could do anything, although he never was quite able to make the grade as a major league ball player when the late John McGraw thought he could.

Mathias hasn't yet expanded his athletic field, but he's still just a young fellow with the world ahead of him . . . As to his football possibilities here's what Chuck Taylor, Stanford coach, told George Davis of the Los Angeles Herald and Express:

"Mathias would be a unanimous All-America ace if he showed the same enthusiasm for football that he does for track . . . I feel that he is as good now as Hugh McElhenny was in college . . . McElhenny was a step faster but Mathias has more football assets." . . . And that isn't just come-on applesauce.

Kutis Club Wins From Carondelet

By Dent McSkimming

There'll be a new champion in Municipal senior soccer this season, for Pastures A.C., defending titleholders, are now just spectators. The team built around the Whetsel brothers (Oscar, Merlin, Tony and Ed) was knocked out of the post-season playoffs at Fairground Park yesterday. Jack Diamonds came strong in the extra periods to win, 4-3. In the second game of the doubleheader watched by about 800 paying customers, Kutis II defeated Carondelet, 2 to 1.

Diamonds and Carondelet, each with a record of one victory and one defeat, meet next Sunday for the right to oppose Kutis II in the final.

Excitement and better footfall were concentrated in the first game, leaving the Kutis-Carondelet match as something of an anti-climax.

Physical Condition Tells.

Physical condition played an important part in the exit of Pastures. The team which held all opponents in a 12-game regular season schedule to a paltry 7 goals, gave up 8 goals in its two playoffs, losing to Kutis 4-0, and then to Diamonds, 4-3. Either because of too many years of competition or because of excess weight at the waist line, some of the Pastures players were unable to match the pace of the younger Diamonds. Manager Dan Rohne's veterans actually outplayed their opponents, made two of their goals in the first 45 minutes but tired and could score only one more in the succeeding 60 minutes.

Fine shooting by Ed Whetsel (who scored twice) and Jack Bange (once) gave Pastures a 3-1 advantage halfway through the second half, but Diamonds chipped away, Sam Randazzo scoring from close in; Mario Sesti on a cross-goal shot and Justin Fitzgerald when he sped around Halfback Joe O'Keefe and scored solo. This point that tied the score at 3-3 and forced the game into overtime resulted from two factors. One was the absence of Pastures' center halfback, Les Rohne, who was sitting on the bench taking a rest, and the other was a perfectly placed forward pass from Joe Provaczek, manager of the Diamonds who was filling in at right halfback. The winning goal was scored on a header by Fitzgerald.

One of the brightest features of the game was the spectacular goal-keeping of Oscar Whetsel.

Pastures, intent on salvaging a lost cause, stormed the Diamonds' goal area in the final five minutes, hit the goal posts and the crossbar.

Fans Abuse Referees.

Spectators didn't like the refereeing. The officials (who have agreed to work the series free of charge, unless the gate receipts are far greater than expected) took much abuse from the fans. If they come back next Sunday they rate an ovation.

The absence of good passwork dropped the Kutis-Carondelet game down to the level of backlot shinny. There is no short cut to skill in soccer. Players who think they can do a good job of it by just getting out for a game on Sunday without faithful practice and training find themselves frustrated, and they leave the spectators cold and grumbling. Half the crowd walked away at half-time.

A clever little outside left, Bernie Brown, collaborated with more experienced Marv Marshak to score the first Kutis goal. Before half time, Bob Brunette squared the score with a sensational hook shot that grazed the post and left Goalie Manuel (Bloho) Muniz far out of reach. Bernie Poepping, substitute outside right, started the move that led to the winning goal, near the end of the game. His pass from the flag was straightened out by Ed Cody to Marshak who polished it off.

The field was fast and smooth and the weather ideal for good soccer.

Jim Thorpe's Death Is Mourned By Coaches, Critics and Fans

LOS ANGELES, March 30 (AP)—The sports world today mourns the death of fabulous Jim Thorpe, acclaimed the greatest all-around athlete of the first half of this century.

The Oklahoma Indian—star of his day in football, track, field and big league baseball—died Saturday of a heart attack in his modest trailer home in Suburban Lomita. Thorpe, 64, collapsed while eating dinner with Patricia, his third wife.

He apparently had been in good health recently and his sudden passing was a shock to his family and many friends. Acquaintances said he had been taking life easy and planned to do considerable fishing this spring.

His widow, three daughters and four sons survive.

As Thorpe's family and friends made funeral arrangements, not yet completed, fans recalled feats of the rugged Sac-Fox Indian who first won athletic renown at the Carlisle (Pa.) Indian Institute early in the century.

In the 1912 Olympic Games at Stockholm he won both the decathlon and pentathlon. Sweden's King Gustav V told him: "Sir, you are the greatest athlete in the world."

Outstanding by Vote of Press.

He made Walter Camp's All-America team in 1911 and 1912 at Carlisle as a runner, kicker and passer. He played professional football and baseball for 16 years, six of them in the big leagues. He also had a go at basketball and other sports.

Three years ago, the nation's sports writers and broadcasters, in an Associated Press poll, voted him the outstanding male athlete of the first half of the 20th century.

Informed of Thorpe's death, Glenn S. (Pop) Warner, who started Big Jim toward athletic immortality as his coach at Carlisle, said in San Francisco:

"I've never seen an athlete to compare with Jim Thorpe. It was a wonderful privilege for me to have been his coach in football and in track."

Some hard years had followed Thorpe's glory period. He died in modest circumstances. Several years ago he was discovered digging ditches. In 1951 he was flat broke in a Philadelphia hospital where he had had a lip cancer removed.

Sportsmen and businessmen started funds to aid him. A Fair-Play-For-Thorpe committee was organized.

A movie, "Jim Thorpe, All-American," depicted his fabulous career. He got some compensation from it. He was reported to have an interest in a restaurant at Wilmington, not far from his trailer home.

Born in Little Log Cabin.

Friendly, six-foot James Francis Thorpe was born May 28, 1888, in a one-room log cabin near Shawnee, Okla. His mother, an Indian, gave him the tribal name of Wa-Tho-Huck, meaning Bright Path. His father was part Indian.

A year after his Olympic victories, it was disclosed he had played baseball in 1910 for $60 a month with the Rocky Mount club in the Eastern Carolina League. This stamped him a professional, though Jim explained he didn't realize he was breaking amateur rules.

His Olympic medals were taken away and his marks removed from the record books.

In 1913 Thorpe married Iva Miller. They had three daughters, Gail, Charlotte and Grace, and a son, who died in infancy. Divorced 10 years after this marriage, Jim in 1926 married Frieda Kirkpatrick.

They had four sons, Phillip, 24, and William, 23, are in the Army in Korea. Richard, 18, is in the Navy. John, 15, is a student at the Chemawa Indian School near Salem, Ore.

Divorced again in 1943, Thorpe two years later married Patricia Askew, whom he had met 30 years earlier.

Arkansas Derby Winner Drops From 150 to 40 To 1 in the Derby Line

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex., March 30 (UP)—An imported Irish three-year-old, Curragh King, owned by Edward M. Goeman, held the spotlight today in the Caliente future book on the Kentucky Derby.

With a new price line posted on the classic, Curragh King, winner of the Arkansas Derby, was cut sharply from 150 to 1 to 40 to 1.

Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Native Dancer held firm as the 8 to 5 favorite in the Derby May 2. Native Dancer was unbeaten in nine races as a two-year-old last year.

Royal Bay Gem and Correspondent moved into roles of co-second choices at 7 to 1. Both were heavily backed in the book.

Straight Face went from 8 to 1 to 10 to 1, while Tahitian King was marked from 7 to 1 to 8 to 1.

Alva Bradley, Former Owner Of Cleveland Indians, Dead

DEL RAY BEACH, Fla., March 30 (UP)—The body of Alva Bradley, former owner of the Cleveland Indians, will be started on its way back to Cleveland today for funeral services.

Bradley, 69, died at his vacation home here yesterday after suffering a heart attack.

The former Indians' owner, who sold his interests in the club to a syndicate headed by Bill Veeck in 1946, resided in Cleveland Heights, O., and was the head of a Cleveland real estate firm.

He is survived by his widow, Marguerite; a son, Morris A. Bradley of Gate Mills, O.; three daughters, Mrs. Andrew B. Wallace of Springfield, Mass., Mrs. Charles Kling of Cleveland and Mrs. John Davenport of Cleveland, and eight grandchildren.

Bradley owned the Indians for 19 years, during which period the Indians never won the American League pennant although they finished in the first division 11 times.

In addition to his chief business interest, real estate, he also was chairman of the board of the Cleveland Builders' Supply Co., one of the largest manufacturing and distributing firms of its type in the Midwest, and held directorships on the boards of several other companies, including coal mining and shipping concerns.

In 1927, he headed the syndicate which purchased the Indians from James Dunn.

Six managers guided the Indians on the field during his tenure, including Roger Peckinpaugh twice. Others were Jack McCallister, Walter Johnson, Steve O'Neill, Oscar Vitt and Lou Boudreau.

Combs Retires From Baseball; Was in the Game for 29 Years

SARASOTA, Fla., March 30 (UP)—Coach Earl Combs of the Boston Red Sox, former Yankees' outfield star, today announced his retirement from the game which brought him fame and a tidy fortune during 29 years as a player and a coach.

Combs informed Manager Lou Boudreau that he wanted to go back to his insurance, banking and farming business in Richmond, Ky.

"We're sorry to have him go," said Lou, "he's been a grand guy and a real gentleman. We hope to get someone to take his place. If we can't get a competent replacement, I'll take over the first base coaching duties myself."

Combs has been the first base coach with the Red Sox since his first baseball boss — Joe McCarthy — brought him to Boston in 1948.

In 1922, Combs broke in with the Louisville Colonels, then managed by McCarthy. He first joined the Yankees in 1924 and spent 20 years with the Bronx Bombers. Twelve of those campaigns he played center field and he coached for the following eight. He was succeeded in center by Joe DiMaggio, who retired a year ago. During his Yankee years, Combs appeared in 11 world series.

Patty Berg Is New Orleans Tourney Leader

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 30 (UP)—Patty Berg, the chunky professional from St. Andrews, Ill., who walked off with her fifth titleholders golf championship just two weeks ago, was the woman to watch today as competition got under way in the final round of the $3500 New Orleans open golf tournament.

The veteran red-haired pro, who won the New Orleans open last year, fired a five-over-men's-par 77 in the second round yesterday despite an inflamed wrist. The card was a comparatively bad one for Miss Berg, but paired with the 74 she shot in the opening round Saturday it gave her a 36-hole total of 151—one stroke ahead of the field.

Mildred (Babe) Zaharias, who put in a sterling performance herself yesterday was close behind with a 36-hole total of 152. Mrs. Jackie Pung, the chunky Honolulu expert who fired an even men's par-72 in the opening round, slipped to a three-way tie for third place.

Tied with her for third place were Mrs. Alice Bauer Hagge of Sarasota, Fla., and Louise Suggs of Carrolton, Ga., the circuit's top money winner so far this year.

New York Bowler Takes Over A.B.C. Singles, All-Events Lead

Hits 749 And 1994 In Tourney

CHICAGO, March 30 (UP)—Frank Santore of New York took over first place in the all events and singles in the American Bowling Congress tournament yesterday and Glenn Goss a Canton (O.) high school teacher, moved into third place in the singles division.

The changes made the day one of the most active sessions since the start of the annual classic.

A bowling instructor and 1950 ABC all-events champion, Santore nudged Detroit's Fred Bujack out of the top all-events spot with a tally of 1994. He scored 600 with the Cirlin Mercury team of New York's Metropolitan Major League, 645 in doubles and 749 in singles.

In his singles, the 35-year-old New Yorker, registered games of 226, 279 and 244, replacing John Muth Jr. of Milwaukee. Muth and Bujack had held sway over and Bujack had held swap over the singles and all-events respectively since March 13.

Goss, a 44-year-old science teacher competing in his eighth ABC tourney, had games of 243, 210 and 267 for a 720 total. He nudged aside William Rodman of Detroit, who had 719.

Two other Empire State tenpinners from Buffalo, James Schroeder and Jerry Back, both 28, laid claim to a share of the third place in doubles. Schroeder scored 693 and Back 639 to tie the 1332 of Chicago's Chuck Wagner and Harry Ledene.

Another tie upset the singles lineup, where Jim Blair, 24, of Cleveland came off the alleys with a 718 and wound up beside Roland Rauch of Chicago in the No. 5 spot. Blair's games were 252, 224 and 242.

W. & S. Recreation topped St. Louis teams with 2870, but failed to challenge the leaders.

Bevo's Future Marks to Count; Rio Grande Goes 'Big League'

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 30 (UP)—Any basketball scoring records that Clarence (Bevo) Francis sets next season will be 100 per cent official—because he'll be playing against senior colleges.

Newt Oliver, Francis' coach at little Rio Grande College of Ohio, made that disclosure today when he announced that he already has booked 20 games for next season—all against senior colleges.

Big Bevo, the fabulous freshman who scored 1954 points in 39 games last season, eclipsed every record in the book with his per-game scoring average of 50.1 points per game. But his figures were tossed out when the National Basketball Coaches Association passed a rule that only points scored against four-year, degree-granting colleges should count.

Six-foot, nine-inch Bevo had done his scoring mostly against junior colleges, vocational schools, and service teams.

Some Trouble Scheduling.

Oliver, still bitter at the coaches' action, said he is having some trouble lining up opponents for next season.

"But they like us," said Oliver. "We played to an $18.75 house in our first game and a $5100 house our last one."

Oliver, who came here with Francis to make an appearance between the halves of the Shrine East-West All-Star game last Saturday night, still was angry that the coaches had made the new rule retroactive.

"It's in the constitution that a law can't be made retroactive," he said.

Francis, who sank 48 per cent of his shots Saturday night from every angle, said he thought jealousy was behind the coaches' ruling.

"If I had been one of their boys," he said, "everything would have been all right."

'Alphabet Soup' Groups.

Oliver had followed the coaches' announcement with the statement that Rio Grande was withdrawing from the N.C.A.A. and henceforth would ask the N.A.I.A. (National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics) to keep his team's records. But N.A.I.A. Secretary A. L. Buder told the Rio Grande coach on his visit here that his group has not yet decided on its standards for records.

Oliver also divulged some financial figures about himself and his team. He said he receives a $230 a month salary, which he "pieces out with speaking engagements at $50 to $100 each."

Oliver said that Rio Grande cleared $15,000 to $20,000 on its unbeaten season. Those are mighty impressive figures for a school of 94 students in a town of 250 persons, but the big gates were made on the road.

Mexican Five Wins First Round Game in Women's Basket Meet

WICHITA, Kan., March 30 (UP)—An experienced team from Chihuahua, Mex., won an opening round victory last night in the twenty-fifth annual women's A.A.U. championship basketball tournament. The Adelitas senoritas, using their height to best advantage, won an easy victory over the Hazelton, Kan., Pantherettes, 54 to 38. Chunky Christina scored 24 points on 12 field goals to lead the Adelitas scoring.

In other games last night, the Atlanta, Ga., Peaches upset highly favored American Institute of Commerce, Davenport, Iowa, 44 to 37; Denver, Colo., Viner Chevrolets downed the Kansas City, Mo., Dons, 41 to 23, and Jackson, Miss., beat Wichita Boeing, 38-14.

Bruins Lead Wings, 2-1, in Hockey Play

NEW YORK, March 30 (UP)—It took some overtime efforts, but both the Boston Bruins and Chicago Black Hawks improved their chances in the National Hockey League's semi-final Stanley Cup playoffs last night.

The Bruins moved ahead of the Detroit Red Wings, two games to one, when Jack McIntyre's overtime goal gave them a 2-1 victory at Boston; the Black Hawks scored their first victory in three games with the Montreal Canadiens by winning, 2-1, at Chicago on Al Dewsbury's overtime tally.

on Boyd's bunt single, a pass and Bill Wilson's double.

Dick Littlefield followed Pillette to the mound after four innings and in the sixth a two-base throwing error by Miranda with two down gave the Sox a start and they built it up to a run and three men left on the bases.

Byrne gave Manager Paul Richards a dose of the jitters that caused the Browns to deal him off to the Sox in the sixth. With two down, Moss singled and got around on two passes and a hit batsman. This time Miranda was fooled by Tommy, being called out on strikes.

Byrne did pretty well in pitching the full seven innings, allowing only six hits and striking out six.

Brecheen gave a brilliant exhibition of control in the sixth frame of the first game, sandwiching three strikeouts around a triple by Chico Carrasquel and an intentional pass to Catcher Red Wilson.

Rivera and Catcher Wilson, along with Moss, were the only players to play both games.

Boyd had three hits in the nightcap.

In Sunday's only other match, Art Rubin of Brooklyn defeated Miss Masako Katsura, of Portland, Ore., 50-37 in 52 innings.

Macauley Gets 25 Points but Celts Go Down

NEW YORK, March 30 (UP)—The Minneapolis Lakers can complete a sweep of their semi-final play-off series against the Pistons with a victory at Fort Wayne tonight and thus qualify to meet the New York Knickerbockers for the National Basketball Association championship.

New York reached the play-off final by battling back from a 16-point deficit to defeat the Celtics at Boston, 82-75, yesterday afternoon before 13,909 fans. That gave the Knicks the semi-final series, three games to one.

The Lakers easily won the first two games of their best-of-five play-off against the Pistons at Minneapolis and can end the series by winning tonight. If the Pistons win, the fourth game will be played at Fort Wayne Wednesday night, with the fifth, if necessary, at Minneapolis later this week.

Nat (Sweetwater) Clifton sparked a game comeback, which enabled the Knickerbockers to overcome a 45-29 second-period deficit and win. Clifton scored 16 points, including some vital field goals which enabled New York to take over the lead in the final period, and grabbed 17 rebounds.

Ed MacAuley was high for the Celtics with 25 points, while Carl Braun led the Knicks in scoring with 18. The game was enlivened by a first-half fist fight between Harry Gallatin of New York and Bob Brannum of Boston.

By winning, the Knicks reached the best-of-seven-game championship play-offs for the third straight year. They have yet to win a play-off final, however.

Warriors Trim Barons 5-3 in Hockey Playoff

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 30 (UP)—The Syracuse Warriors spoiled the Cleveland Barons' hopes for a clean sweep in the first round of the Calder Cup playoffs last night by winning 5-3 and remaining "alive."

The Warriors rallied in the final period after wasting away a 3-0 first period lead. A goal by Armand Lemieux broke the 3-3 deadlock and another by Leo Curick clinched the game. Cleveland leads the series, two games to one.

Harry Pidhirny pounded two shots past goalie Johnny Bower and Leo Curick got the other as Syracuse made it 3-0 in the first period.

A near free-for-all broke out late in the opening period and referee Jerry Olinski handed out a total of 16 minutes in penalties.

The Barons stormed back quickly in the second period with goals by Ray Ceresino and Fred Glover, narrowing the Warriors' margin to 3-2. Fred Shero's goal tied the score at 3-all early in the third period before Syracuse pulled out the game.

Arkansas City had beaten El Dorado in three out of four games during the regular season.

East Central of Decatur, Miss., won fourth place. Lon Morris of Jacksonville, Tex., was fifth; Eastern Arizona, seventh, and Moberly, Mo., eighth. Sixteen teams participated in the week-long meet.

Training Camp Briefs

Three Dodger Rookies Have Not Allowed an Earned Run in 48 Innings — Athletics' Byrd Clubbed for 10 Hits.

NEW YORK, March 30 (UP)—Three rookies who still belong technically to farm teams have pitched 48 innings without allowing an earned run this spring and rate an excellent chance of winning a job on the Brooklyn Dodgers' staff.

For Johnny Podres, a 20-year-old lefthander, and Bob Milliken, a 21-year-old right-hander, the prospects of promotion are soon. Glenn Mickens, another young right-hander, must wait until his discharge from the Army in mid-May to resume his baseball career. He's currently spending his furlough time in the Brooklyn camp.

Podres extended his string of consecutive scoreless innings to 19 yesterday when he pitched the first six of the Dodgers' 1-0 victory over the New York Yankees. He gave up only four hits and walked two. Joe Black pitched one-hit ball for the last three innings. Podres now has gone 24 innings and yielded only one unearned run.

Milliken, recently discharged from the Army, and Mickens each has pitched 12 exhibition innings without allowing a run. Podres and Milliken still are on the roster of the Montreal Royals, while Mickens is the property of Fort Worth.

Rate Early Promotion.

The Dodgers, whose pitching last year was so unstable that they had to rely on reliever Black for 56 appearances, might easily find a spot in their starting rotation for one or more of these rookies, particularly Podres. Manager Charley Dressen expects to promote Podres and Milliken to the Dodgers before the opening of the new season.

Aside from the brilliant Podres and Black vs. Jim McDonald pitching duel in the Yankee-Dodgers game, major league pitchers generally were hit hard on the exhibition program.

Harry Byrd, one of the outstanding rookies of last season, was clubbed for 10 hits in a nine-inning performance as the Philadelphia Athletics lost to the Phillies, 10-6. Byrd, unimpressive all spring, was staked to a four-run lead in the top of the first inning but promptly gave it back to the Phils in the bottom half of the inning. Elmer Valo hit two Athletic homers.

Jackie Jensen and Eddie Yost hit home runs in leading the Washington Senators to a 10-7 free-hitting victory over the Milwaukee Braves. The Senators scored six runs in the first inning off Ernie Johnson and eased the path to Al Sima's fourth straight spring triumph.

The Detroit Tigers smacked three Boston Red Sox pitchers for 11 hits and won another slugfest, 11-7. Del Wilber hit a home run and triple to lead Boston's 13-hit attack.

Indians Rout Giants.

The Cleveland Indians went on the biggest hitting spree of the day when they teed off on Pitchers Al Corwin, Hoyt Wilhelm and Ruben Gomez for 17 hits in swamping the New York Giants, 15-3. Luke Easter and Jim Hegan hit homers for Cleveland.

The Braves optioned four players to their Toledo farm club of the American Association. They were outfielder Chuck Tanner and infielders Hank Ertman, Harry Hanebrink and Bob Mainzer. Hanebrink is a St. Louisan.

The Giants cut their squad to 32 players, sending eight rookies to their Melbourne, Fla., training camp for re-assignment. The players were pitchers Allan Worthington, Ronnie Mahrt, Jack Harshman and Mario Picone, infielders Rance Pless and Ronnie Samford and outfielders Harvey Gentry and Bill Taylor.

College Stars Beat Trotters

NEW YORK, March 30 (UP)—The college "All-Americans" ruined the famed Harlem Globetrotters comedy show last night, 69 to 65, after the Globetrotters had opened their basketball tour with a 70-to-62 afternoon victory over the collegians at Madison Square Garden.

A crowd of 18,473 saw the night game, two more fans than the afternoon crowd, for a combined one-day total of 36,844—the Garden's biggest basketball day of the season.

A last-minute scoring spurt by Jack Molinas of Columbia pulled the night game out of the fire for the collegians—the first loss for the clowning Globetrotters since April 2, 1952. The Harlem crew had racked up 304 straight triumphs.

Trailing almost all the way, the Trotters didn't get a chance to show the huge throng their famous comedy tricks.

A lay-up by Johnny Wilson of the Globetrotters cut the collegians lead to 64-62 with 1½ minutes left in the night game. Molinas hit with a lay-up and a free throw to make it 67-62 but a free throw and a side set by Marques (CQ) Haynes cut it to 67-65. Molinas sank another lay-up near the gun to clinch. Molinas led the college stars with 18 points, while Haynes topped the Trotters with 21.

Both afternoon and evening, the basketball program was augmented by drum-majorettes, a Dixie Land band, tap dancers, jugglers and Oriental hand-balancers.

Lotte Zehden of West Germany captured the women's crown by defeating Joan Curry of Britain, 9-7, 0-6, 6-4.

The STIFEL SCOPE by CARL G. STIFEL

SHALL PROGRESS OF ST. LOUIS PUBLIC SCHOOLS BE HELD BACK FOR LACK OF UNIT CONTROL?

I Favor Unit Control Because it Saves Money on Operating Expenses and Provides Greater Efficiency. Impartial Surveys Recommend Unit Control.

THE COST of operating and maintaining public school buildings in St. Louis is higher than that for other cities of comparable size, according to a government survey.

The Strayer Survey, an organization of experts in public school systems, recommended Unit Control.

As it is now, the St. Louis public schools are plagued and held back by divided authority. The Instruction Department is under one head and the Building Department is under another. Without coordination, the cost of operation of our schools has sky-rocketed.

PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATIONS and the ALLIANCE OF PATRONS ASSOCIATIONS consisting of more than 58 individual school groups HAVE ADOPTED RESOLUTIONS indorsing the legislation. I AM SPEAKING OUT IN FAVOR OF IT.

I HAVE SENT TELEGRAMS TO ALL REPUBLICAN MEMBERS OF THE STATE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, URGING THE PASSAGE OF THIS BILL.

HERE IS WHAT I SAID:

"St. Louis needs Unit Control for its public school system. House Bill No. 55 is now pending in the House of Representatives. In the interest of St. Louis and its people, its schools and its children, I earnestly urge you to lend complete aid and support to the passage of this measure."

In this I feel that I am fulfilling my responsibility, not only as the Republican candidate for Mayor, but as a parent, a citizen and a taxpayer of St. Louis.

LET US GO FORWARD. There is no better place to start than in securing UNIT CONTROL for our public school system. There is no better investment than providing for our children, the citizens of the future. Our public schools must not be held back.

IT IS TIME FOR A CHANGE!

PEACE MOVE DROPS STOCKS TWO BILLION ON AVERAGE; COMMODITIES IN SETBACK

Strategic Material Shares Show Declines up to 3 Points, Extreme More —Market Broadens.

NEW YORK, March 30 (AP)—Heavy selling rolled through the stock market today on the heels of Communist peace gestures and pounded prices down heavily. Stocks were not far from their lows at the close.

The fall was one of the worst of the past two years, and trading was unusually heavy.

At the worst the break went to between 4 and 5 points. Small rallies from time to time brought the list back from the bottom slightly.

Losses of 1 to around 3 points were frequent in the list. Gainers were small and isolated.

Volume stepped up sharply to 2,740,000 shares. That is one of the heaviest days in the past 17 months. Friday's total came to 1,640,000 shares. Today 670,000 shares were reported for last hour and half.

(Dow-Jones industrial stock average lost 4.26 points, rail 2.72 and utility .44 of a point. The 65 stocks dropped 1.89 points.)

Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed down 2.0 points, representing average loss of approximately two billion dollars in market values. Industrial stock index lost 2.4 points, rails 2.4 points and utilities .5 of a point.

The market broadened to 1226 issues against 1127 last Friday. There were 963 losers, 100 gainers and 163 unchanged at close. There were 117 new 1952-53 lows and 10 highs.

Commodity markets, both here and abroad joined in the break.

Wheat at Chicago closed 4 to 4⅝c lower, corn 2¾@3½c lower, oats 3⅝@4⅜c lower, Rye 4¾@5½c lower, soybeans 5¾@6¾c lower, and lard 15 to 32 cents a hundred pounds lower.

Losses were shown at times during day in cotton, rubber futures, hides and wool.

Selling entered the market immediately on the opening with blocks of 10,000 shares on the tape. Aircrafts were especially hard hit, and also lower were steels, motors, railroads, coppers, oils, rubbers, chemical, motion pictures, radio-televisions, and utilities, together with virtually all companies heavily engaged in war work.

The rush to sell arose from the uncertainties surrounding the Communist proposals to exchange sick and wounded prisoners of war.

Trading was orderly despite the heavy offerings, but selling toward the end of the third hour suddenly stepped up sharply. That flood was too much for the ticker to handle. For around a quarter of an hour the tape fell slightly behind in reporting actual transactions on the floor of the stock exchange.

Pacific Western Oil completely ignored the whole thing. It opened on a block of 3000 shares off 1 at 38½ and then rallied smartly and kept going up for a gain of between 4 and 5 points at one time.

The opening of Robbins Mills was delayed until well after the opening of the stock market after it was announced that proposed merger plans with American Woolen had been discontinued. The stock started on a block of 6000 shares off 4 at 20½. American Woolen was off a major fraction at the same time.

Added to these uncertainties were plans in Washington for cutting off a portion of the foreign aid program. Where the aid would be cut and how much remained a moot point.

Weak markets abroad included London and Singapore metal and rubber markets. Japanese raw silk and cotton yarn markets also dropped sharply.

U.S. BONDS ARE FIRMER, CORPORATES SHOW LOSSES

NEW YORK, March 30 (AP)—United States Government bonds firmed and the corporate bond market slipped sharply in active trading as investors digested the latest Communist proposals to exchange war prisoners.

Dealers of Uncle Sam's securities reported prices up as much as a quarter-point, especially among long-term bonds. They said trading was only moderate, however.

Long-term victory 2½s and bank eligible 2½s rose 8-32 at 93 20-32 bid near start of the final hour. The 2¾s of 1958 were 6-32 higher at 99 10-32 bid. Short-term Treasury paper was steady.

Meanwhile, utilities and railroads were leading the corporate list lower. Industrials were narrowly mixed. Changes were mostly fractional, but many point declines were evident.

Foreign liens were fairly steady. Denmark 4½s rose a point at 98½ and the Japanese Oriental Development Corp. stamped 6s dipped 1⅛ at 71⅛.

The decline in corporate bond prices was set off by sharp losses in the stock market. This was immediately reflected in convertible and income bonds, unsettling the whole list.

Sun Oil Co. reported that its 1952 business was the biggest in history but net profit was $2,300,000 less than in 1951. Net profit last year was $43,013,063 or $6.01 a common share, compared with $45,353,643 and $6.85 in 1951. Sun Oil had a gross '52 business income of $617,390,185 compared with $576,340,197 in 1951. The reason profits were less, Dunlap explained, was that operating costs went up but selling prices remained the same.

2 SELLING WAVES TUMBLE GRAIN LIST AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, March 30 (AP)—Grain prices tumbled on the board of trade today in the wake of international developments pointing toward a possible solution to the war in Korea.

Heavy losses were recorded at the outset of dealings. From time to time the market made abbreviated attempts at rallies, but these never attracted much following and were followed by declines into new low ground.

Brokers attributed the selling almost entirely to the Korean news. Even those who felt peace in Korea might not have a long term bearish influence on prices, acknowledged that nervous selling could be expected on moves to attain that peace.

Other bearish influences included rain in Oklahoma, large receipts of cash corn, and a reduced rate of soybean crushings. West Germany was expected to buy substantial quantities of wheat tomorrow, but that prospect failed to inspire much buying.

In many cases final prices were the day's lows. All oats contracts, as well as May rye, set new seasonal lows.

Business Outlook

WILSON OFFERS CLUE FOR FORECASTING TREND

By J. A. Livingston

FORECASTING the trend in business—in production, prices, employment, and ultimately retail sales—is still a wide-open guessing game. But Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson offered a clue the other day. He said at a press conference that defense spending won't increase above recent levels. What's more, he indicated that he hopes to bring spending down.

If Wilson succeeds in his objectives, then government underwriting of prosperity—through expansion of purchases of goods and services—is done with. Business men and consumers—you and I—will be more than on our own. We'll have some slack to take up.

But we've been pretty much on our own for nearly a year. Defense Department outlays have been on a plateau since April. In recent months they've run at a rate of $44,400,000,000 annually.

Now Wilson has just asked the Army, Navy and Air Force to see if a cut to $41,200,000,000 in the fiscal year starting July 1, 1954, is feasible. That's a reduction of 7 per cent from the current level. Presumably, it would free manpower and materials for civilian work and would reduce the military drain on the economy generally. It could pave the way to tax reductions ultimately.

Wilson Suggests Skeletonizing.

Already Wilson has ordered a 9 per cent cut in physicians in the Armed Forces and has suggested maintaining several Army divisions stationed in the United States at half strength. But the Army isn't happy about "skeletonizing" its forces. The under-strength-division issue is still unresolved.

Wilson has only 85 per cent of total national-security expenditures under his control. Outside his domain are the Atomic Energy Commission; foreign economic aid; largely handled by the Mutual Security Agency; and foreign military aid. Though Wilson procures the military hardware and supplies for distribution to our Allies, that budget isn't his to administer.

These non-Wilson expenditures are now running at a rate of $7,800,000,000 a year, and conceivably could go up—depending on what the State Department feels is necessary for economic and military assistance in Europe, Indochina, and elsewhere. Further, the great unknowable in all defense budgets is Malenkov: What will he do?

One shrewd newspaper man said after the Wilson conference: "I'm still betting defense expenditures will go up, not down." His theory was that so long as peace isn't here, the need for a strong military bargaining position vis-a-vis Russia will take precedence over the Administration's anxiety to cut expenses and balance the budget.

My own belief is that it isn't wise to discount Wilson. At General Motors he was known as a bulldog. Now, he has set his mind on cutting defense expenditures — getting maximum military strength for a minimum cost. President Eisenhower could upset Wilson's plans, of course—by deciding on an expanded military program. But otherwise, it's at least an even guess that Wilson will keep outlays level and later work them down.

Meanwhile, business speaks for itself. Retail sales have responded to warmer weather and the approach of Easter. In the week ended March 21, department stores registered gains of 9 to 35 per cent over a year ago, depending on the region. The country as a whole was up 16 per cent. The earlier Easter this year has helped.

Purchasing agents in Detroit appear to be unworried about a fall downturn in automobile sales. According to Steel magazine, they expect to place higher orders for steel for the third quarter than the second. Business expansion continues uninterrupted. In October, the Department of Commerce-Securities and Exchange Commission survey of business outlays on new plant and equipment indicated a slight drop this year. Now the estimate has been revised upward to a 2 per cent gain over 1952.

One Pessimistic Note.

It's hard to find a pessimist. True, J. H. Ashbaugh, vice president of Westinghouse Electric, told the installment credit conference of the American Bankers Association in Chicago that an "8 to 10 per cent decline" in general business was to be expected starting in 1954 and might last into '55. He went on to say he was optimistic over the long term.

Such warnings are rare. Yet six months ago, recession talk was commonplace. The new Administration and good business have lifted spirits. Even the Treasury Department is taking good business for granted. It's planning a long-term issue of bonds and the talk is that the interest rate will be around 3 per cent. The longest-term Treasury bonds have dropped below 95 as the result.

Clearly, if Secretary George M. Humphrey's advisers expected a recession in business borrowing—which would make money plentiful—they'd not be considering borrowing at the highest interest rate since January 1935.

U.S. INDUSTRIAL OUTPUT HITS NEW POSTWAR PEAK

WASHINGTON, March 30 (UP)—The Federal Reserve Board said today United States industry's output hit a new postwar record this month.

It estimated March industrial production at 241 on its index, against the 1935-39 average of 100. The board's index has climbed each month since last August, after the steel strike ended.

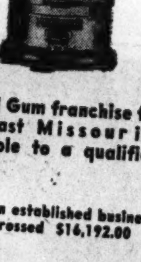

This month's rise was caused mostly by higher auto production, which is almost half again as big as it was at this time last year.

The board said production of major household appliances, as well as industrial and military equipment, was high in February, but not notably higher than January.

Sales by retail stores in February were "substantially higher than a year ago."

Odd Lot Transactions.

NEW YORK, March 30 (AP)—The New York Stock Exchange reported today these odd lot transactions by principal dealers on the exchange for March 27: Purchases of 145,348 shares on 5017 orders; sales of 149,052 shares on 5132 orders including 2382 shares sold short on 71 orders.

Washington Welcome For Iranian New Year

By Elise Morrow

WASHINGTON, March 30.

THERE is always something to celebrate in Washington. Last week it was the Iranian New Year as well as various Frenchmen, and the foremost desert rat, Field Marshal Montgomery, Viscount of Alamein. The Iranian New Year party is a tradition in the capital, though Iranian ambassadors, governments, revolutions and Mossadeghs may come and go. It is an ancient—3000-year-old—Persian festival involving symbolic bowls of burgeoning grains and vegetables, a display of the Koran, candles reflected in a mirror, vinegar, an apple and a silver coin. As well as a buffet and drinks and music.

ELISE MORROW

The Ambassador and Mme. Saleh received with their daughter, Parveen, a name which sounds Gaelic but is Persian; Mme. Saleh and Parveen wore standard western evening dresses, not their national costumes. The buffet combined delicacies of the country—curries and exotic, lovely rice mish-mashes—with delicacies of the caterer, like turkey, lobster salad, roast beef and pastries.

One of the foremost Iranian-American culture bugs and mountain climber, Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas was among the guests; so were numerous ambassadors extraordinary and ministers plenipotentiary, including the Ambassador from Pakistan and Mme. Mohammed Ali; the Ambassador from Indonesia and Mme. Sastroamidjojo; the departing Ambassador from Egypt and Mme. Abdul Rahim; the Ambassador from Lebanon and Mme. Charles Malik; the Afghanistan Ambassador and Princess Zohra Naim. Also some non-Persians like the Irish Ambassador and Mrs. John Hearne; the Ambassador from Canada and Mrs. Hume Wrong, and the usual embassy party assortment of United States Senators.

★ ★ ★

THE OFFICIAL HOSTELS—the White House and Blair House—have overflowed with international importance and charm. Or at least importance.

Field Marshal Montgomery is being his usual endearing self at the White House. Across the avenue at Blair House stayed French Premier, Rene Mayer, who, with his compatriots, Georges Bidault, the Foreign Minister; Maurice Bourges-Maunoury, Minister of Finance, and Jean Letournau, Minister for Associated States, had been entertained by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles at dinner, by President Eisenhower at a White House luncheon and by the French Ambassador and Mme. Bonnet at dinner.

Montgomery will be here until next weekend, and the floral arrangements have not yet been announced. The next tasty tidbit on the program is Konrad Adenauer, Chancellor of the Federal Republic of Germany. The German Charge d'Affaires and Mrs. Heintz Krekeler are getting out from under the careful wraps of quiet entertaining, and will have a large reception for Adenauer at the Mayflower—2000 guests. Should make or break the foreign relations of the Federal Republic of Germany.

There is also the Saudi-Arabian Prince, or one of them, Faisal, the Minister of Foreign Affairs of Saudi Arabia, who was given a stag dinner by the Lebanese Ambassador.

★ ★ ★

CONGRESS HAS BEEN DOING such a thorough job of making life miserable for State Department officials that it should be no surprise to learn that it is even interfering with their social life. Such, at least, was the case the other evening with John M. Cabot, the Assistant Secretary of State for Latin American Affairs.

It seems that the Ambassador of El Salvador and Senora de Castro threw a big cocktail party in honor of Cabot. Several hundred guests assembled soon after the appointed hour—but no Cabot. He finally showed up, over an hour late, with the explanation that he had been held up by a Senate committee hearing.

It was the first big party given in the new Embassy of El Salvador, on Massachusetts avenue, since the Ambassador and Senora de Castro occupied it last June, and the Latino wing of the diplomatic corps turned out for the occasion en masse.

★ ★ ★

ANOTHER BIG PARTY of the spring season was that given by Col. and Mrs. M. Robert Guggenheim. The Colonel, a copper millionaire who contributed to the Eisenhower campaign in suitable millionaire fashion, wasn't talking about rumors which have made him, successively, United States Ambassador to The Netherlands, Cuba, Guatemala and Norway.

A lot of kidding of the host and hostess was going on because this annual spring party of theirs has run afoul of the weather so often in the past, usually with rain driving the guests indoors from what was scheduled to be a garden party. This time the Guggenheims hedged all bets by making it an indoor party in honor of "the first spring flowers," and while it was chilly on the terrace, the flowers performed as scheduled—forsythia, jonquils, tulips and azaleas brightening the exterior of Firenze House, the Guggenheim mansion.

POUNDING FOR REDS IN KOREA

Old Baldy, strategic height in western Korea, resembles volcano as it comes under intense air and artillery bombardment following withdrawal of United Nations troops last Wednesday. Despite the pounding, Chinese Communists, who seized the hill last Monday, clung to their entrenched positions while other Red units were extending the spring campaign to the west around Vegas hill and, today, to the eastern sector of the front.

Royal Dukes in Tribute to Queen Mary

Followed by Britain's four royal dukes, gun carriage carrying casket of Dowager Queen Mary turns into the Mall from Marlborough road as body of the 85-year-old Queen was removed from Marlborough House to London's Westminster Hall yesterday. The dukes (from left) are: Edinburgh, Windsor, Gloucester and Kent. In background is St. James's Palace. Today, thousands of mourning Britons filed past the catafalque in Westminster Hall, paying last respects to the aged Queen who will be entombed tomorrow beside her husband, King George V, in St. George's Chapel, Windsor.

WHERE 33 PERISHED IN FIRE

Twisted bed frames and charred debris are all that remain of nursing home near Largo, Fla., after tragic fire yesterday. A nurse and 32 elderly patients lost their lives in the fire which broke out late at night and raged through the wooden building, trapping the aged patients in their beds. Twenty-five patients were led to safety; others who might have been saved were too infirm or panicky to take flight.

Dogs of the Week

Four pups who are interested in getting on in the world are sharing the honors as Dogs of the Week at the Humane Society shelter this week. The four—three sisters and a brother—can make no claims to distinguished ancestry but, being mixtures of Boxer and German Shepherd, are regarded by shelter workers as fine dogs in the making. About 6 weeks old, they are available for adoption on application to the shelter, 1210 Macklind avenue.

AFTERMATH OF THREE-TRAIN CRASH

Extent of damage is surveyed by railway workers (above) faced with the task of cleaning away wreckage in the wake of the three-train pile-up on New York Central tracks near Conneaut, O., late Friday. With wreckage scattered widely, and 1000 feet of track torn up, repair of facilities was a major operation but with platoons of workers on the job the work moved swiftly and service was partly restored last night. At right, rescue workers remove one of the last of the 21 bodies found after two crack passenger trains and a freight train smashed up. Pictures were taken by Lester Linck, a Post-Dispatch staff photographer who was flown to the scene in the Post-Dispatch airplane, Weatherbird.

Christ of Gospels

By Peter Marshall

The late Rev. Peter Marshall was one of the noted clergymen of our time. At his death in 1949, Dr. Marshall was pastor of New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, Washington, D.C., and chaplain of the United States Senate. These chapters—of which this is the eighth—are selections by his widow, Catherine Marshall, of what she believes are his most inspiring sermons. They are from the "Prayers and Sermons" section of Mrs. Marshall's best-selling book, "A Man Called Peter," published by McGraw-Hill Book Co.

THERE is a text in Matthew that reads: "I am not come to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance." (Matthew 9:13.) As long as it remains in the language of the King James version it is not likely to strike fire in the minds and hearts of sophisticated men and women.

Well . . . read it in a modern translation. Goodspeed, for example, puts it this way: "I did not come to invite the pious but the irreligious." Washington is full of drifters as far as Christ is concerned. They are not anti-Christian . . . not anti-religious . . . they simply don't care much one way or the other. They are conscious of no great loss. As long as life goes smoothly, they feel no sense of need.

They don't have any religion, as they themselves will tell you quickly and frankly enough. This group is growing in America. More than 60 per cent of all American children are growing up without any religious training of any kind. We are becoming a secular nation.

★ ★ ★

THESE IRRELIGIOUS PEOPLE say, "I don't need the church. What could it do for me? I'm a decent citizen . . . Never break any very big laws . . . Pay my taxes . . . Give some to the community Chest. What more do you want?"

Well . . . here is Jesus saying He came to invite them particularly. Whether we church people like it or not, we must admit that Jesus made a strong appeal for this type of person . . . who never comes to church . . . never thinks of it . . . and who will either lift an eyebrow or smile in that particular way when somebody talks about being at church . . . or coming to prayer meeting.

Yes, Jesus liked people—all kinds of folks—red-blooded folks . . . for He himself was redblooded.

We have had enough of the emaciated Christ . . . the pale, anemic, namby-pamby Jesus . . . the "gentle Jesus, meek and mild" . . . Perhaps we have had too much of it.

★ ★ ★

LET US SEE THE CHRIST of the gospels . . . striding up and down the dusty miles of Palestine . . . sun-tanned, bronzed, fearless.

Let us see the white knuckles of the carpenter's hand as He upset the tables of the money-changers and glared at the racketeers . . .

Let us feel the terrific dynamic of the personality that walked clear through a lynching mob that sought to throw Him over a cliff.

He strode through them, and no man laid a hand on Him. That's the Christ we ought to see.

★ ★ ★

LET'S SEE THE CHRIST Who called a spade a spade . . . and let the chips fall where they might.

Take Jesus out of the perfumed cloisters of pious sentiment, and let Him walk the streets of the city.

Let's be honest. We have nothing to fear. Let us say boldly that the kind of people Jesus liked best are not the kind that the average church appeals to at all.

Don't Let Hollywood Stars Fool You

Actresses Love Their Comfort Just Like Average Woman, They Use Artificial Hair-dos Before Cameras, Stylist Comer Says

By Clarissa Start

JUST because you saw your favorite movie star combing her shoulder-length curls in a recent film about amorous adventures in the eighteenth century, don't conclude that she wears a top-heavy topknot in everyday life.

"The movie star loves her comfort and freedom as much as the girl in the office or the woman at home," says Comer Syprett, stylist for the stars who has been lecturing and demonstrating current coiffures at the Mississippi Valley Beauty Show at Hotel Jefferson. "Her public may see her with a long, flowing bob or with hair piled high on her head because the producer is striving for a specific effect in a specific setting. But in all likelihood, it is artificial hair and when she goes home, she takes it off and brushes her short hair-do just like the average Mrs. Jones."

Mr. Comer, as he's known professionally, in addition to teaching other hair stylists, operates a beauty school, writes books on the subject and has a shop in Beverly Hills, Calif. His regular patrons include Elizabeth Taylor, Ruth Hussey, Hedy Lamarr, Lauren Bacall, Ginger Rogers, Charlotte Greenwood and Patricia Neal.

On her last trip to America, Queen Juliana of The Netherlands had him do her hair just before a dinner date.

"Our time was short, so I followed her regular hair style rather than try anything new," he said. "It was a good style for her rather round, full face, as it was close and nicely shaped to the head. The others in the dinner party were waiting for her in the next room and her husband kept coming in and hurrying her up just as any other husband would do.

"Last week Hedy Lamarr came in to have her hair cut," he continued, "but I didn't have time to do it so one of the other fellows did. Put him behind in his other appointments all day, too. She had it cut this short," he indicated a one-to-two-inch length with his fingers, "almost a boyish bob, but on her it looked good."

★ ★ ★

LAUREN BACALL is another actress who wears a short hair-do now; Comer met her after the days of her sheep-dog style. Lanky comedienne Charlotte Greenwood is one of his favorite customers because she's "so friendly and a really good person." Elizabeth Taylor, also a devotee of the short coiffure, is "really a cute girl, with the most beautiful eyes."

Comer admits he enjoys styling for beautiful women.

"Let's face it," he smiles. "Every man enjoys looking at a beautiful woman. But on the other hand, it's interesting to take a woman who really needs hair styling, a woman who may not be beautiful but will be greatly improved by your work.

"Every woman has a certain amount of beauty and there isn't a woman in the world who can't be made more attractive by proper make-up and hair styling no matter how homely she may be."

MAMIE BANGS INSPIRED BY THE FIRST LADY, WITH FLUID SIDE WAVES, FORM AN EASY-TO-CARE-FOR COIFFURE.

He thinks the average woman is smart about styles most becoming to her but that she should spend more time on upkeep.

"A new hair style isn't something that's a fling," he says. "It should be taken care of as you'd take care of a beautiful dress you'd buy.

"If she has her hair cut between permanents, she should have some extra curls put in the ends to keep them trim."

★ ★ ★

COMER, whose unusual name is of French and English derivation, wanted to be a hairdresser for as far back as he can remember. Born in Tennessee and brought up in Detroit, Mich., he enrolled in hairdressing school when he graduated from high school at age 17. He worked in Detroit awhile, then took additional training in New York, and 12 years ago, fulfilled his ambition to go to Hollywood. A bachelor, he lives in Westwood Village and works night and day at his job.

In addition to his salon in the Beverly Hills Hotel, he has a school, Comer and Doran, with a partner, Grace Doran. With her, he has written a book, "The Mystery of Hairstyling," a text for other stylists which was released Jan. 1 and is now in its second printing.

"One of the biggest problems for the average hairdresser is not how to dress the hair but how to dress it most becomingly for the face it goes with," he says. "A good hair style should have proper line and proper balance. If you tried on the most beautiful hat you'd ever seen and it didn't look good on you, you wouldn't buy it. The same applies to hair styling."

In one of his demonstrations here, Comer had the rather pleasant task of dressing as well as coiffing a bathing suit clad model, in illustration of his contention that a hairdresser should have a knowledge of clothing styles.

"What's new in fashion, make-up, and hair styling all combine to make a woman beautiful and beauty is our business," he says. "Often I suggest a change of lipstick or a new eyebrow angle."

COMER SYPRETT . . . ALL WOMEN ARE SISTERS UNDER THE DRYER.

HAIR CLOSELY CUT IN THE BACK MAKES FOR TAILORED SOPHISTICATION FOR THE WOMAN IN AN OFFICE OR AT HOME.

Hair coloring, that much discussed and disputed trend, is definitely here to stay, he says.

"In fact it's gotten to the point where we can speak of make-up for the hair as we do for the face. I'd advise any woman who's unhappy about the color of her hair to change it. There are so many beautiful colors now that are natural, are not harmful, are easy to apply and easy to change."

The newest thing in hair styling is the cut termed the "high collar length," meaning the hair should not come below the suit collar.

"We have to specify high collar," he smiles, "because some women wear very low collars."

Other current trends in hair styles include bangs modeled after those worn by Mrs. Eisenhower, and regal effects appropriate for the coronation year.

★ ★ ★

IN Comer's opinion, all women are sisters under the dryer and he finds that pinning pincurls on a starlet's head not much different from doing the job on his other customers.

"Movie stars talk about things that interest them just as the housewife talks about what interests her," he says. "With the movie star it may be the way she made her entrance in a picture. With the woman at home it may be the way Junior fell down the steps. It boils down to the fact that women are women, and they're all ——" he hesitated only a fraction of a second, "they're all charming."

Designing Woman

Top Furniture Fashion

By Elizabeth Hillyer

NEW furniture design has its own kind of top brass—the actual metal. Brass is seen in top furniture fashions arriving now in the stores, and it's used in striking new ways for tables and upholstered furniture.

Designer T. H. Robsjohn-Gibbings, always a trend maker, gives brushed brass legs to new dining tables, dining chairs and benches, coffee tables, sofas and settees, his hikie type daybed.

In addition to the round dining table sketched is a brass-legged rectangular table to seat six, and the strap top stool is matched by a dining chair.

Robsjohn-Gibbings also shows the chair with the finely woven cane seat and back rest, sketched at upper left, with a brass-legged table, and suggests that pieces featuring brass have an especial warmth and richness to add to groupings of all wood furniture.

Wood for his brass brightened furniture is walnut and its sculptured lines are as notable in furniture fashion as the new use of metal.

Mrs. J. B.—"My husband intends to make an oversize coffee table. Will you please suggest good proportions for it? Is 12 inches a good height?"

To answer your question, I looked up the sizes of the newest table by a designer who is well known for his oversize coffee tables and find nothing as low as 12 inches. Here are a few measurements he uses: 60 inches long by 24 inches wide by 15½ inches high; 54x32x16; 48x48x16; 48x24x17; 33x25½x16. Coffee tables 15 inches high are widely seen and some are lower, but the trend is toward tables that are slightly higher than they used to be.

Tips for Teens

By Elinor Williams

DO too many pounds give you the overweight blues? Here's a letter from a high school girl who needs to begin the "battle of the bulge":

"I am a sophomore in high school and would like to have dates like my friends. I have plenty of girl friends and boys seem to like me, but they never ask me for a date. I guess it is because I'm fat. I would like to go on a diet. Will you advise me?"

Answer: Normal weight does make a girl look prettier and more dateable. But skip the diet idea. You don't have to diet drastically to lose extra pounds. Too many high schoolers cut their calories and omit vital, protective foods needed for pep, fun and health.

The best, easiest way is to omit fattening foods, keeping plenty of essential body-building, energy-making fuel in your daily menus. Cutting down on starchy food, fats and sweets will do the trick without harm and it's easier than you think.

Eat fruit between meals when you want a snack and substitute fruits for rich, sweet desserts. At the soda fountain, have a fresh fruit drink; no gooey sundaes.

Don't eat both bread and potato at the same meal. Omit gravy, mayonnaise, whipped cream.

Eat lean meat, fish, vegetables, salads.

Exercise every day. Walk instead of riding whenever possible. Enjoy outdoor sports like skating, skiing, hiking, swimming, tennis.

Bowling and skating indoors are fun and helpful, too. You'll enjoy these sports, lose weight and meet more boys and girls. Perhaps you have makings of a basketball or hockey ace; give it a try at school.

Your clothes can make you look slimmer. Wear one-piece dresses or matached two-piecers . . . smooth fabrics, blouses instead of sweaters, flared skirts.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

A READER explains: "The other day I had several guests in to lunch. We lunched at one. I had an appointment at the dentist for 3 p.m. and I thought surely they would be gone by that time, but they stayed on and, as a result, I missed my appointment, for which I will have to pay. However, it just didn't seem right to me to ask my guests to leave. My husband disagrees with me on this and thinks it would have been perfectly proper to tell them of my appointment. I would very much like to hear from you as to what is the polite procedure to follow in such a situation."

You should either have told your guests (when inviting them) that you had this dentist appointment, or you should have canceled your appointment with the dentist, because when you have guests you cannot possibly be sure of the length of their stay.

DEAR MRS. POST: My husband and I have recently moved into our new house and I would like very much to invite the office force to come out some evening soon. However, some of them are married and I was wondering if it is necessary to invite their husbands (or wives), who are strangers to me, to come, too, or may they be omitted.

Answer: At an evening hour, the wives and husbands should be invited.

Fix It Yourself

Refinishing Stairs.

WHAT with all the ranch houses they were building, it looked for a while as if stairs were on the way out. Now, however, there is a slight change in trend and stairs seems to to be still in business. Anyway, a lot of people have stairs and a lot of these stairs are in need of refinishing.

You refinish stairs in much the same fashion as you do floors except that stairs aren't quite as much fun to work on. What you need for this job is a small electric sander called an "edger." You'll also need a small plane, sandpaper and steel wool. Start off with the "edger" and remove the old finish and get the wood nice and smooth.

There will be a lot of spots too small for this machine and these you'll have to do with sandpaper or steel wool. Along the edge of each stair tread you may find very bad rough spots or places where the wood has been split. These should be smoothed out with the plane and then sanded.

Very bad spots can be patched with a wood filler or with a wood patch. Any squeaks in the stairs should be eliminated by nailing or screwing the stair tread into the stair riser.

Once you've done all this you can go to work applying the finish. You can use either paint, shellac, varnish, or a floor seal. All of them are good but if you use paint, don't use a light colored one on the risers as it will get scuffed up quickly.

It takes time for a finish to dry so the best policy is to finish every other tread and when these are dry paint the alternate ones. Keep the unfinished treads covered with paper so they won't become soiled.

Many homemakers find it practical to vacuum their rugs daily to keep dirt from grinding into the backs of the carpeting.

Tasty Tricks

Chopped meat and organ meats (brains liver, etc.) are best bought immediately before use. They should never be kept longer than 24 hours in your refrigerator. Pre-cook brains if not used immediately.

'Phantom' Collar

The "phantom" collar is an unusual accent on some suits and coats created by Brigance for Frank Gallant. The idea offers a suggestion of a collar introduced by deftly handled pleats and notched lapels but follows the general line of the cardigan.

Martha Carr's OPINION

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

Dear Martha:

I HAVE been going with a man for 11 years. I don't want to get married and neither does he. We work at the same place. For the last six months he has been interested in a married woman who has two children. I object to it. Do you thing it is fair to me? Should I continue to go with him or drop him? We are both in our fifties. This woman works at the same place that we do. MARY.

If you are not engaged to this man, but go with him only because you enjoy his companionship, it cannot be up to you whether he is interested in someone else. If this woman is still married, he is making a grave mistake by permitting himself to become interested in her, but that must be his problem, not yours. Whether you continue to go with him must be your decision, but I cannot see that you—as a friend, not a fiancee—has the right to say whether he can date someone else.

Dear Martha:

WE ARE HAVING QUITE AN ARGUMENT over anonymous letters. My son has received some and as a result has broken up with his girl friend and is dating a girl of whom I cannot approve. My opinion is that he is being very stupid to pay any mind to such trash and let it keep him from going with a mighty nice girl. He has the idea he can find out who wrote them by asking questions and showing them to some of his friends. I think that only warns the person who wrote them, and certainly no one is going to tell on himself. So we are leaving it up to you. MRS. D. L. R.

Anonymous letters are worrisome but they deserve to be tossed into the wastebasket without a second thought. From the information you have given me, it would seem wise for your son to ignore them and to make his decisions on the basis of truth—not sly and anonymous bits of gossip. He, of course, must stand on his own feet in the selection of companions and it is to be hoped that he will choose those who share his ideals and standards of conduct.

IN ANSWER TO PUZZLED: You do not say whether you have actually quarreled with the boy who gave you the Christmas present. But at any rate, unless it was a very expensive or personal gift—which you shouldn't have accepted in the first place—I see no reason to return it now.

★ ★ ★

IN ANSWER TO Mrs. J.I.B.: Mrs. Virginia Pressberger, 8967 Forest avenue, St. Louis 14, will distribute Christmas cards to hospitals and other institutions. Thank you for your good wishes!

★ ★ ★

IN ANSWER TO Wondering: If he's that moody and jealous, I can't believe you'd be very happy dating him. Don't let his attitude force you to be discourteous to others.

If you can't think of just the right name for that newcomer to your household, why not send for Martha Carr's leaflet on names for boys and girls? Be sure to inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Cheerful Obedience

By Angelo Patri

Dear boys and girls:

VERY often you fret, scold, and even rebel against the rules of your parents and teachers. You think they spoil your fun. You can't live alone! You could not do very much without your father and mother. You would not have much fun without your playmates. Learning would be slow and difficult for you if there were no school and no teachers. We all live together, adults and young, and we must conduct ourselves so as to get the most possible good from life.

When mother or father protests against your loud voices, you should be sorry, never resentful. Noise gets on the nerves of grown-ups. You can have just as much fun at your games without yelling. Remember, a pleasant, modulated manner of speaking will be appreciated as you grow up—and you will benefit.

★ ★ ★

IT IS NATURAL for you to want to be first. You want to be president of the class, or captain of the team. You want your mother's attention and perhaps you want to be of a certain importance. But you must earn that distinction.

Open the door for the classmate whose arms are full. Teach the fumbling lad how to throw the ball. Give the slow boy a lift. Smother your complaints and speak cheerfully. Nobody seeks the company of a Gloomy Gus. Speak well of others, or keep silent, and stand up for what you know is right. Do what the greatest Teacher who ever lived told you to do: Lose your life that you may gain it.

★ ★ ★

YOU UNDERSTAND, girls and boys, that you would never be happy if you had to live alone. Whether you make people happy or sad by your actions or speech may decide your own success. Being unselfish buys happiness for you.

Bear in mind that you are as dependent on others as they are on you, and that the rules that sometimes may seem to cramp your style are what help make for an enjoyable association. When you are told to do this, and stop that; when you are told, "No," when you want it to be "Yes," just remember that you are being helped to live in peace and happiness with others. And remember, too, that while virtually everybody wants to be first, if you are second, or third, or even further behind, take it cheerfully—be a good sport.

Vacant Seat

By Christopher Billopp

A VACANT seat attracts attention when it is situated among seats that are not vacant. The assumption is it will not be vacant long.

If a person is to occupy the vacant seat there must be quick thinking and agile moving. Both the mind and the body must work quicker than the minds and bodies of other seatless persons present.

This is no time for procrastination. In an inkling the decision must be made whether the seat is one from which things can be seen without straining the eye and heard without cupping the ear. Judgment must be passed on whether the seat is in a draft or in a central spot at which a person occupying it would be suffocated.

When a vacant seat is the issue it is inappropriate to emphasize courtesy. Precious moments would be lost while the place is surveyed to determine whether there are women present; or the aged and infirm, who should receive priority in the matter of seating.

On no account should there be delay while a person ponders the possibility that very shortly another seat will become vacant and that it will be situated nearer the center of events

There can be no sensitiveness over using elbows and pushing other persons out of the way or even racing at top speed with others whose aim is to occupy the vacant seat first. Nor, if a person is one of a party, should there be hesitation in order to give others a chance to make the decision.

The rare combination of qualities that makes for success in taking a vacant seat is not found in everybody. Therefore, all too often when a vacant seat is sought in competition with others, long before the preliminaries to occupation have been completed, the seat will be gone.

American in Japan After Pearl Harbor

Arthemise Goertz, St. Louis Author, Found Herself Transformed to Enemy in Alien Land

By Mary Kimbrough

SOMEDAY soon, in the sunny quiet of her St. Louis apartment, Arthemise Goertz will sit down at her typewriter to retell a story etched so deeply in her memory that she won't need those notes she was forced to burn in the middle of the night on Dec. 7, 1941.

It's a story that began late in 1939 when she sailed from New Orleans to Japan, taking with her eight trunkloads of precious possessions. It ended four years later when she stepped off a mercy ship in New York, ill and weak with malnutrition. She was in borrowed slacks, shirt and sandals and her golden hair had turned white.

Only two items from those eight trunkloads came back with her, a Phi Beta Kappa key from Sophie Newcomb College and a perky red felt hat.

Whether this will be her next book, she doesn't yet know. Just off the press, to be published on April 7, is her fourth, "New Heaven, New Earth" (McGraw-Hill, Inc) set in the locale of her native Louisiana. The research and much of the writing were done in New Orleans and nearby Mandeville, a summer resort visited by members of her family for nearly a century. The final draft was completed after she moved to St. Louis in 1951 as the wife of C. O. Roome, district manager for Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. They live at 4440 Lindell boulevard. Miss Goertz will autograph copies of her new book at Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney on April 9.

She has written two other novels since her return from Japan, "Give Us Our Dream," a Literary Guild selection, and "The Moon Is Mine." But it was her first, "South of the Border," based on a journey through Mexico, which was to change the course of her life and place her in an alien country among people suddenly transformed from friends to foes.

Accompanied by her mother, she went to Japan on a scholarship and at the invitation of a Japanese family whom she had tutored in New Orleans. They had learned of her book on Mexico and asked her to write a similar work on Japan.

Having heard that they could buy few western articles in the Orient, they went prepared, their eight trunks packed with jewelry, picture hats, table silver, 500 books, several prized musical instruments, even French kid gloves. Her first husband, Hector Alphonso, whom she had married after graduation from college, was to meet her and her mother in Japan in the summer of 1942 and they planned to return to the States together.

But when they landed in Tokyo, they had no hint of the war which was to destroy their plans and bring tragedy into their lives, although they learned later that they had received the last passports issued by the government. In early 1940, she began her work at the International Students' Institute, learning the Japanese language and compiling voluminous notes for her book.

"We were of every race, color and size," she said. "I was the only American, but I worked side by side with Germans, Afghans, Koreans, Italians, all of them. And in that work I discovered a great movement in the direction of world peace.

"You simply cannot hate anyone you know as I knew them."

With the help of her Japanese friends, she and her mother rented a house where they lived in Oriental style, sleeping in quilts on the floor, removing their shoes to enter the house, sitting on silk cushions to eat Japanese food off low tables with silver and mother-of-pearl chopsticks.

"Poor Mother could never learn the language and she was completely baffled by our address which was practically a block long in Japanese. One night on the subway—and you should see those subways with their pastel colors and indirect lighting—we got separated and I found myself on the platform while the train and Mother were disappearing into the darkness around the bend.

"I was just about to have a nice case of hysterics, knowing I'd never see her again, when here came the 12-car train, slowly backing into the station. The doors opened and Mother stepped off. She said she had raised such a fuss that they were glad enough to get rid of her.

"I had heard of Japanese courtesy, but it seemed to me that backing up a subway train to let one passenger off was carrying things a little far."

She and her mother were living in luxury, without a cloud on the horizon, until one December morning when she was studying with her Japanese language tutor.

ARTHEMISE GOERTZ . . . SHE PLANS TO RETELL A STORY THAT IS ETCHED IN HER MEMORY.

The lesson was interrupted by another faculty member who burbled something to the teacher in their native tongue.

"I didn't understand anything he said, and the teacher didn't flick an eyelash, just went on with the lesson. It wasn't until late that night that I learned what the man had told her—Japan and the United States were at war."

★ ★ ★

THAT meant an immediate blackout as Japan feared American reprisals for Pearl Harbor within 24 hours. It meant frequent visits by police and assignment of a private detective who sat in their home and watched them hour after hour, day after day. It meant the almost overnight disappearance of food from market shelves, as the military took over control.

"As soon as I got home that night—still not knowing what had happened—I went to our landlord to see what the trouble was.

"He told me very courteously, bowing low with every word, that now we were enemies. I immediately ran to a friend's home and found her burning all her magazines and maps. She told me to go home and destroy everything that would give the enemy information about American cities.

"So all that night, Mother and I burned our books and papers in the bathtub. Japanese tubs are like pickle barrels, with a charcoal stove to heat the water. At 4 in the morning a fire watcher came to see why so much smoke had been coming from our bathroom and Mother convinced him that I was just taking a bath.

"I was afraid to leave any of my research notes around so I threw them into the fire, too. But I know I'll never need them. When I start to write, I'll write from memory."

★ ★ ★

IN September, 1942, she and her mother were told to pack one suitcase, take their toothbrushes and be ready for the ship to bring them back to America. But the ship didn't arrive on schedule and they were taken to the home of a missionary where they lived a year with four other Americans.

For a reason they have never learned, they were six of the seven Americans not interned in prison camps. But they were watched constantly, ordered to remain within prescribed boundaries and they lived on rations so small that all became ill and malnourished. One sliver of meat a month, one cup of milk a day, two slices of bread twice a week and one egg once a week. Other than that, only rice and seaweed.

"But even though one of the most drastic wartime laws prohibited contact with other aliens or with natives, our Japanese friends would slip into our home at night with a little extra food or leave a gift at the door for us to find in the morning.

"We ran out of soap and toothpaste. Water was rationed so we couldn't take baths. There wasn't enough heat.

"We were always hungry, always cold, and always dirty. I kept my hair cut as short as possible but when I got on board ship I couldn't even run a comb through it because it was so matted."

★ ★ ★

IT was in September, 1943, that they were permitted to leave. She was wearing a tattered cotton dress, borrowed straw sandals and the perky red hat, prized because Ambassador Joseph Grew had admired it at a luncheon in happier days. She was permitted to retain her Phi Beta Kappa key, but the silver dollars her mother tried to carry away with her were taken at the dock. Their prized musical instruments and the typewriter were left in the care of a Japanese friend. Bombed out three times, the friend lost all but the typewriter and brought it to this country when she arrived here as a G.I. bride.

The eight trunkloads of precious possessions were left behind.

In New York, wearing slacks and shirt given her by the Red Cross and sandals discarded by a fellow passenger, she took her mother to the Traveler's Aid where they remained a week, too ill to try to get back to New Orleans. And it was then that she learned her husband had been killed in a Royal Air Force accident in England.

To keep her mind off the nightmare of near-starvation suffered in Japan, she began to gather material for "Give Us Our Dream" and wrote it in a New York flat where she and her mother lived for three years. Then came the next book, "The Moon Is Mine," also with a Manhattan background, and in 1948 she and her mother returned to Louisiana.

But St. Louis is rapidly becoming her second home—principally because of the Mississippi river at its doorstep.

"I grew up on the river in Louisiana and I love it," she said. "Whenever I'm worn out from shopping I walk down to the river front and just gaze out over the muddy water. I always find rest that way.

"I guess what my family used to say is right—I have river mud instead of blood in my veins."

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

EAST had two chances to defeat the contract below, but he muffed both of them.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
North-South 30 on score.

	♠Q10872 ♥6 ♦9874 ♣QJ10
♠A4 ♥J7 ♦A7 ♣432	NORTH WEST EAST SOUTH	♠J963 ♥Q42 ♦102 ♣K965
	♠K5 ♥AK10983 ♦53 ♣A87

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♥	2♦	Pass	Pass
3♥	Pass	Pass	Pass

South's three-heart bid was a stretch, particularly with his 30 score, since an opposing double of a three-heart contract would be "free." But South got away with it.

West led three rounds of diamonds, and East had his first chance. He could have ruffed the third round with the queen of trumps. In fairness, however, this would have been risky, and East's actual club discard was normal. The real error came later.

Having ruffed the third diamond, South slyly led his low spade, hoping to reach the board for club plays through East. But West was alert—he went right up with the spade ace and returned another high diamond. East pitched another club, and South ruffed.

Declarer now cashed the spade king and led out the ace, king and 10 of trumps. West did his part by playing the heart seven, then the five, to show three trumps, but East's head was hidden in the sand. Thrown in with the third trump, he had to return a club, permitting South to finesse, or a spade which would have the same effect. The contract was home.

East could certainly know from the bidding that South had the ace of clubs, so instead of facing sure defeat by being forced on lead with the heart queen, he should have unblocked that card on the ace or king. If West didn't have the heart jack, the contract was very obviously undefeatable.

Let's Explore Your Mind

By Dr. Albert E. Wiggam

Answer to Question 1.

NO, unless with a doctor, lawyer, minister, or someone qualified for marriage counsel. "Faithful unto death" also means loyalty to each mate's whole personality, determination to let no other human being invade their mutual privacy, and the duty to uphold each other's virtues—not their faults—before the world.

Answer to Question 2.

Yes. When your opponent says he's sure his candidate will win, you probably fire back counter arguments. This procedure is all wrong. First, ask him why he thinks his candidate will win. Then say, "That's the best way I've heard that argument stated." Ask more questions quietly. This leads him to shoot all his ammunition. Then pin him down to his main argument. These are only two of the six ironclad rules for winning arguments contained in our booklet, "How To Win Your Arguments," which will be sent to you at cost, 15 cents (in coin only), plus self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Answer to Question 3.

Yes. The true gambler is little influenced by the chances of winning, but rather by the hazards and adventure of the game. Man has evolved as a creature of chance. Sociologist E. W. Burgess says, "Man is a born gambler." This doesn't mean he need add to the natural hazards of life by playing rigged up gambling devices, but, unfortunately, such machines do appeal to a deep, natural drive in human nature.

How It Started

By Jean Newton

To 'Improvise' and to 'Advise'.

TO IMPROVISE is to do something on the spur of the moment, to do it extemporaneously, without preparation.

We have this word from the French, out of the Latin "Improvisus," the latter composed of the prefix meaning "not," and "provisus," which is foreseen or provided. Thus, a performance "improvised" is one rendered "unforeseen" or unprepared, the necessity for it not having been foreseen. And there have been allusions to a peace "improvised," that is, arranged without previous preparation, the circumstances not having been foreseen.

It is interesting to find the same root, "to see," which is in the negative composition of "improvised" (not foreseen), appearing also in the familiar "advise." This verb comes to us by way of the Old English "avisen," and the French "aviser," out of "advisare," the late Latin form in which we have the prefix and "visere"—from the Latin "videre" meaning "to see." Thus, to advise is to tell how you see it!

Sports Car Enthusiasts Make Tour

A GROUP of St. Louis men, mostly members of the Missouri Region, Sports Car Club of America, went to an out-of-town party Saturday afternoon, the location of which they did not know until their arrival. Driving 20 cars, M.G.s, Jaguars and other foreign models, they traveled a 200-mile route which terminated at Clifton Hill Farm, Pike county, home of Mr. and Mrs. David C. Biggs, in Clarksville, Mo.

Accompanied by a navigator, the drivers left here at noon, following devious routes planned jointly by their dates and wives, who gave the party, an annual event. Each year rules for the rally are slightly varied. Not only did Saturday's drivers have to maintain an average slow speed, reaching check points at designated times, but were given snapshots of landmarks which had to be arranged in the order in which they appeared along the highway. Each competitor was penalized a certain number of points on failure to reach the check point at the scheduled hour and for disarrangement of the pictures at the finish line—the Biggs's driveway.

The three stopping points along the route were Alta, Ill., where Mr. Biggs and several of his children were stationed; Hannibal, Mo., with Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Hickman III as checkers, and then the finish line where the guests were welcomed by Mrs. Biggs.

Mr. Biggs, who also has a home at 5370 Waterman avenue, is assistant regional executive of the Sports Car Club. Arthur L. VonRump, 411 Seekamp avenue, Kirkwood, who attended the party with his wife, is regional executive, and Bruce Carson, 7006 Maryland avenue, is secretary-treasurer.

On arrival at the Biggs Farm, the winners were awarded prizes. Afterward members and their dates had a picnic dinner, some remaining for a weekend house party. Guests over Saturday night and Sunday at the Biggs house included Samuel J. Pingree, Laurence P. Russe and his fiancee, Miss Mary Read Gardner. Mr. Carson, Ben F. Harris, Champaign, Ill., regional executive of the Chicago area; Dr. Willard Bartlett Jr., Arthur H. Feuerbacher Jr., and the James Austins. Mr. and Mrs. Hickman and Mr. and Mrs. Marion J. Engler stayed at a hotel.

Webster Groves Notes

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE VON HOFFMANN, 304 West Jackson road, will return this week from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., where they spent two weeks at the White Caps Apartments. Home for Easter weekend will be their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Hamilton, of Springfield, Mo., and their youngest daughter, Miss Carol Hoffmann, who attends the University of Missouri.

Mrs. Ralph Sheets, the Von Hoffmann's oldest daughter, is making her home with her parents while her husband, an Army corporal, is overseas. Mr. Sheets, who is on duty in Japan, expects to be home in August.

★ ★ ★

Mr. and Mrs. William L. Massey, 151 Helfenstein avenue, returned a few days ago from Fort Myers, Fla. As has been their custom the last few winters, they were guests at the Royal Palms Hotel for three months. While there they frequently saw Mr. and Mrs. Norman Cox, 6 Algonquin Woods. The Coxes, who spend half of each year at their Florida home, will return here about June 1.

Next week, the Masseys are expecting their two daughters, Mrs. Paul Gerwin, Jr., who is living near Camp Lee, Va., where her husband, an Army lieutenant, is stationed, and Mrs. John D. Gallagher of Forest Hills, N.Y. The young women will be here for the wedding April 11 of their brother, Ens. E. L. Massey, and Miss Ann Mae Donnelly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Patrick Donnelly, 3538 Crittenden street, St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. William L. Massey Jr., 4901 Jamieson avenue, St. Louis, are parents of their first daughter, whom they have named Margaret Louise.

★ ★ ★

MISS LOIS LAAGER, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. V. H. Laager, 363 Gray avenue, will return Wednesday from DePauw University, Greencastle, Ind., for spring holidays. Arriving the same day as Miss Laager, who is a junior, will be a member of the freshman class, Miss Sue Gilbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace R. Gilbert, 459 West Swon avenue.

Road to Grief

Sticking Her Neck Out

By Elsie Robinson

E. M.S's sweetheart has gone A.W.O.L. And the letter she sends is tear-stained.

"He was everything to me," she sobs. "Life will never mean anything again, now that Lee has gone. How can men be so heartless, so cruel. I guess that old verse by Byron is true—

"'Man's love is of his life a thing apart,
"'Tis woman's whole existence.'"

★ ★ ★

PERHAPS some of our woebegone readers will agree with that verse—but if so, they should snap out of it. Never were words more corny. They certainly do not apply to men and women in 1953.

If love is a modern woman's whole existence she is sticking her neck out for a lot of grief and will get it. There is a multitude of other current interests for every woman nowadays besides romance.

There's civic improvement. Jobs. Domestic science courses. Good books. Various forms of art work. Dressmaking. Politics. Law. And 10,000 other ways of relieving a broken heart—if you realy want relief. Some of us don't.

★ ★ ★

AS FOR MAN'S love being "of his life a thing apart," that's plain bunk. The average man is as dependent on love—and as badly dented if he loses it—as any woman.

I wonder where Us Gals got the notion that we have a copyright on devotion. Men have as many dreams, make as many sacrifices and know as many pangs as we do.

So snap out of those sobs, little sister. Stop believing that top philanderer, Byron. He was just making alibis for himself. Look at the world and folks as they are today—not as they were in the days of the harem. Look up and laugh—and love will come again.

How to Make Work Gloves

YOU can be the most prodigious gardener, yet have exquisite hands if you own the right kind of work gloves. Just about the best can be easily and quickly made from a discarded pair of chamois, kid or other light-weight leather. Every gardening enthusiast should bet a pair ready at once to be sure that her hands keep as petal-smooth as her loveliest flowers.

These gloves are about as different from the clumsy, cumbersome work-type that bruise seedlings as baby's breath is from a dahlia. Because they are made from light-weight leather they fit like a second skin and can handle the most delicate transplant without inflicting harm.

WHAT TURNS your old gloves into airy working wonders is peppering their topsides (not the palms) with tiny perforations. You can do this neatly with an ice pick, awl or darning needle, a wooden spoon and a wooden clothes pin.

With this equipment assembled, heat the point of your punching instrument over an open flame. Insert your wooden spoon into the body of the glove, stretching the upper part of the glove's hand tightly over it. Touch the hot point to the leather. Repeat until you have several dozen tiny perforations. Then insert the clothes pin and work on the upper side of the fingers. In a matter of moments you will achieve a hundred or more perfect aperatures that will not stretch or close because the heat used for opening them seals their perimeters at the same time.

The next step is to proof the palms and undersides of the fingers against damp. You do this by applying two coats of reliable plastic spray, being sure to seal the seams thoroughly.

★ ★ ★

YOUR GLOVES are now ready for work. To give yourself a beauty treatment while you garden, be sure to slather your nails with cuticle oil and your hands with rich emollient just before you put your gloves on.

My Day

By Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK.

THURSDAY night I went to see "Porgy and Bess." I saw this musical play for the first time some years ago when Todd Duncan was featured, but I enjoyed it just as much this time.

Mrs. Roosevelt

I can well see why it was such a success in Europe last winter. It is a genuine American drama for which George Gershwin wrote fine music, and Du Bose Heyward's lyrics sing in your ears for hours afterwards. The cast is excellent, and I was much flattered that they wanted me to come and see the play. I was very happy to go backstage afterward and tell them how much I enjoyed it.

* * *

SATURDAY MORNING we took the train to Hyde Park, but instead of the expected sunshine it stayed rather gray and gloomy. This did not keep my son John's young family from great activity.

My son had the tractor out and he, with his wife and children, all started to fill the holes that have appeared in our dirt road during the winter.

This is one of those endless jobs that goes on month after month all through the summer.

You fill the holes, it rains, and everything you have put in is washed away. Everybody drives too fast over your road. We in the family are told that if we go more than 15 miles an hour we will have to pay a fine, but even we transgress at times.

The evening papers told us that the Soviets were making a peace bid, but I shall wait until further information arrives. It would be good news indeed if they were getting the Chinese to move toward a real armistice in Korea. But that is almost too good to be true.

* * *

SATURDAY EVENING I dined with Mrs. Tracy Dows and met Miss Lucrezia Bori. They had spent the afternoon at an Angus cattle sale at Alan Ryan's farm.

Miss Bori, who spends much of her time raising money for the Metropolitan Opera, had never before been to a cattle auction and she came up for the weekend for the purpose of seeing one. She was fascinated by the people who attended. These included cowboys with high-heeled boots and ten-gallon hats, and men and women came from 27 states.

The first bull sold for $50,000. The selling went on and brought various prices until finally they got down to small sums like a thousand or two. Then they sold some cows, but these unimportant females brought much lower prices!

Auctions on this scale I have never seen either. Mr. Dows promised to let me know about future ones, and I only hope I shall be up here and free to go.

It's an Idea

Ever had an EXPRESS HAIRCUT!

... that's Jake's SPECIAL during RUSH hours

Strange thing about Jake the Barber. He'll give you lots of conversation and a half-hour haircut when there's nobody in his shop.

But when the waiting bench is filled, he zips through in fifteen minutes.

Same corny stories either way.

Last Saturday morning, Susie pushed me out of the front door at 8 o'clock headed for the barber shop. I caught Jake with his snippers down.

"Well!" he said. "What gets you out so early in the morning?"

Of course, he was delighted to have someone to talk to and I got the real, first-customer treatment.

With Jake, that means about twice as much ribbing as usual—which takes twice as long, of course.

Finally, I butted in as he stepped back the umpteenth time to squint critically for stray hairs.

"Jake, how come you give haircuts faster when there are people waiting?"

"I dunno," he said, coming out of his trance, "I guess I just don't like to keep people waiting." Then a sly smile spread across his face. "But you wouldn't know about that, Pete, being as you're from Public Service."

"Now wait a minute," I laughed. "We don't like to keep people waiting, either. During rush hours, we speed up our service same as you do."

"What!" he snorted (and I nearly lost an ear). "You sure you know what company you work for?"

"Public Service," I explained, like I was talking to a child, "puts on Express buses during the rush hours for the same reason you give fifteen minute haircuts. They're faster."

"What's fast about twiddling thumbs on a bus that's stalled in traffic?"

"What's fast about listening to you try to talk the hair off my head?"

"All right, nothing but the five-minute special for Mister Pete from now on. If you weren't so stingy about coming in, it wouldn't take so long. You're trying to get two haircuts for the price of one!"

"That's another thing," I said, "why don't you give a special rate for regular customers like we do with our weekly permit? Or maybe you could put on more barbers during the rush hour like we put on more buses in the morning and evening. Of course, it'd cost money, but it's . . ."

I had to quit. He'd started pulling that little neck napkin too tight.

That's Jake!

Your neighbor, Pete

HOPES of becoming American states have been held by two territories during early months of the present year. These are Alaska and Hawaii. Whether the hopes will come true, the future must decide, but the House of Representatives voted in favor of admitting Hawaii early this month, and sent the measure to the Senate.

Looking over the record, we find that the last American states to be admitted were New Mexico and Arizona. They became the forty-seventh and forty-eighth states 41 years ago. Oklahoma, the forty-sixth state, had entered five years before.

★ ★ ★

IF HAWAII becomes the forty-ninth state, it will be the first island group to be made into an American state. Many islands belong to present states, but never before has a state been composed entirely of one or more islands.

Something different may be said about Canada. Prince Edward's island is one of the very old Canadian provinces. Canada also has the large island of Newfoundland as the more important part of a province.

There was a time when the Hawaiian islands were known as the Sandwich islands. That name arose from the title of the fourth earl of Sandwich.

The fourth earl of Sandwich was the British lord of the admiralty at the time the islands were discovered. He was far distant when Capt. James Cook made the discovery, but Cook wanted to honor him.

SOME NATIVES OF HAWAII ARE EXPERTS IN 'THROWING NETS'

★ ★ ★

IT IS INTERESTING to note that the same British earl supplied a name for a popular item of food. Old records stated he liked to eat a piece of meat between two slices of bread. Other persons adopted the custom, and called the combination a "sandwich."

Whatever foreign folk might call their islands, the natives had their own ideas about the proper name. They never spoke of themselves as "Sandwich Islanders." They were members of the Polynesian race, and used the name of Hawaii for the largest island in the group.

DARK SCANDAL

... by Vida Hurst ...

CHAPTER NINE.

SUSAN did not respond to her sister's high spirits. When Dot demanded, "All right, Susan, give. You came to the office to look him over so what do you think?" Susan answered gravely, "He's exceedingly attractive, almost professionally so."

The gratified smile faded from the other girl's face. "That's not a very kind thing to say. Naturally a successful psychiatrist must understand women and know how to please them."

"He hasn't been so successful as a husband, judging by his wife. I don't think I've ever seen an unhappier looking woman."

They had reached the small restaurant where Dot usually lunched. Conversation was suspended until they had ordered. Then Dot said, "It's her own fault. She never should have married him."

"You think it would be any different if he were married to you?"

"I know it would be," Dot said, toying with her salad. "In the first place I'm much younger than Elsie Barrington."

"She is probably younger than she looks and she was more beautiful than you'll ever be," Susan said frankly. "If she couldn't hold him what makes you think you can? Quite aside from the moral issue and the fact that he is her husband."

★ ★ ★

ALL theelation had faded from Dot's face. Her expression was tense as she said, "Oh Susan, I know you're right. I've tried to give him up. I even threatened to quit but I can't bear to think of anyone else in my place. It isn't as if we were doing anything really wrong. I'd never agree to that."

Susan's eyes filled with sympathetic tears but she dared not weaken. "He kissed you today, didn't he? Do you think that's right?"

"I suppose not," Dot admitted. "It's seldom we have a chance to be alone and the strange part of it is I don't think his wife is jealous of me."

"She will be eventually," Susan phophesied, "and there's no telling what she might do as a result. I wouldn't want her on my trail."

That's why Doctor wants to protect me. The reason we are being so careful. He says when he asks for a divorce she mustn't suspect it is because of me."

Synopsis

SUSAN WAYNE works for STANFORD PIERCE, attorney. She needs his friend, RONALD BOYLE, and is invited to go with the two of them for an evening out to celebrate Stan's new office. She tells them she will ask her sister, DOT, to go along. Dot refuses and Susan learns from her that she is in love with DR. BARRINGTON, psychiatrist for whom she works. The girls live with their father THOMAS WAYNE, who spends many evenings downtown "with the boys." When she tells Stan Dot can't go, he decides to bring along his own sister, BETTY. Ron is obvious in showering his attentions on Susan as they dance. Susan returns home to find Dot in tears. She had been at the office with Dr. Barrington. His wife phoned, suspicious of her husband being at the office alone on Saturday night. Susan tries to talk Dot out of her infatuation for the doctor. Failing, she goes to his office Monday noon, hoping to meet him. The Doctor is out but Mrs. Barrington comes in. She asks Dot about one of the patients who has an appointment for the afternoon and then leaves by the rear door. The doctor returns and Susan meets him before she and Dot leave for lunch.

Susan sighed. She didn't seem to be getting anywhere.

"I have to go," she said, reaching for the check. "You're coming home for dinner? It's your week to cook."

Dot put on her gloves. "I know. I'll be there."

★ ★ ★

THEY parted at the door and Susan took a taxi back to her office where Stanford Pierce waited. He was at his own desk but the door between the two rooms was open.

"Your boy friend phoned," he said.

Susan had been so upset about Dot she had forgotten her own affairs but at the mention of Ron Boyle her heart began to pound.

"Did you ask him to call again?" she inquired.

Stan chuckled. "I see you are under no illusion as to who your boy friend is. Yes, Susan, he'll call again later this afternoon."

It was four o'clock when Ron phoned for the second time. He asked Susan to have dinner with him.

"I'll call for you at your office," he said, "if that's agreeable with you. There's no sense in either of us going home." Susan would have preferred having a chance to bathe and dress but she did not say so, instead she thanked him and promised to be ready.

Then she phoned Dot that she was staying downtown for dinner. Dot replied, "That's fine. Have a good time." She added, "which is more than I'll do having dinner alone with Dad. I've got to go, Susan. We're very busy."

Susan determined to put all thoughts of her sister from her mind for the rest of the evening. It wasn't fair, she told herself, to spoil the first beautiful romance of her own life because of Dot. Susan knew with all her instinct as a woman that Ron's interest in her was not casual.

He needed her even more than she needed him and he appealed to everything in her that was tender and compassionate. The light in his eyes when he saw her deepened this conviction and later that night, after they had dined at a quiet old-fashioned restaurant and he had driven her home, he said, "Susan, I love you. Will you marry me?"
